FATAL PANIC IN CHICAGO

Seven Persons Crushed to Death and Many Others Injured.

ALL WERE HEBREWS

During a Theatrical Performance Someone Raised Sudden Cry of "Fire".

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Seven persons were crushed to death and as many more seriously injured in a panic, which followed a man's cry of "fire" late this afternoon in West Twelfth Street Turner hall.

About 800 people were in the place gathered to witness the performance of a play entitled "The Greenhorn." The following were killed:

INDSLEY, REBECCA.
COLBERG, ANNIE, 6.
MILLENBACH, REGINA, aged 4.
SALOMON, ANNIE, aged 37.
SHAFTER, GEORGE, aged 9.
MENDELSOHN, MRS. SAMUEL
NIDMANN, BIRDIE.

The injured:

Adler, Becky, aged 16, legs broken; Adler, Bella, legs injured; Becker, Joe, aged 6, body bruised and internal injuries; Becker, Mamie, left arm badly bruised; Bloomgarden, Sarah, covered with contusions from being stamped upon; Bloomgarden, Rebecca, ear lacerated; Cohen, Mrs. Sarah, internal injuries, [illegible] a concussion of brain; Goldberg, Sarah, right cheek cut and badly cut; Hirschberg, Mrs. Nettie, body bruised; Hoffman, Minnie, injured internally, may die; Jacobs, Fannie, contusion, one eye cut; Jacobson, Myer, injured internally and leg severely bruised; Kammerman, Abraham, ankle crush[illegible]; Kammerman, Rose, internal injuries; Kopl, Mrs. Sarah, internally injured; Molli, Mollie, badly bruised; Rickles, Rebecca, legs crushed; Grossman, Annie, 8, injured internally; Rissman, Jacob, both legs crushed; Rissman, Jacob, aged 10, left leg injured; Rissman, Mrs. Ida, badly bruised.

The missing:

Frank, Mollie, aged 14; Harris, Harry; Lichtenstein, Annie; Marquiess, Fannie; Menhelsohn, Samuel, and two children; Frank, Reuben.

The play was in Yiddish and the audience, comprising, for the most part women and children, were all Hebrews. The hall stands in a densely populated district.

When the cry was raised it was only five seconds until the entire audience was converted into a frantic mob, every member of which was fighting for the safety which lay beyond the doors of the building.

The hall [illegible] chairs and when a performance is given chairs are set for the spectators. As soon as the wild rush toward the doors began chairs were knocked down in every direction, the aisles disappeared and the crushed people ran, climbed and stumbled over the chairs all the way to the doors.

Around the upper part of the hall extends a balcony which is open at only one end. Here were seated 100 women and children and two men at the further end of the balcony away from the stairway. Seeing that the passage toward the exit was blocked to them, they began at once to throw the little ones over the railing to the floor, 30 feet below. The children fell into the midst of the maddened throng and were at once trampled under foot. [illegible] were thrown from the balcony and trampled by the crowd, with not a chance for their lives. Following the children many of the women sprang from the balcony upon the crowd below and others, swinging over, hung by their hands before they dropped. The railing of the balcony was broken through in half a dozen places by the pressure brought against it by the maddened crowd.

On the main floor the crush was much worse than in the balcony. The main exits from the hall and the only ones known to the majority of those who frequent the place, are two doors in the south end of the main auditorium that open upon winding stairs, which, eight steps down, unite into one broader flight leading down to the Twelfth street front. Around these two doors a frantic mass of screaming men, women and children was packed, all struggling fiercely to force their way down the stairs. At the landing where the two flights of stairs winding down from the main hall unite, a woman stumbled and fell. In an instant a score of people were down and before the rush was over three lives had been crushed out in a space four feet wide by six feet long.

Within five minutes after the beginning of the panic it was all over and the police and firemen who came hurrying to the scene of the disaster were called upon to do nothing beyond carrying away the dead and injured and keeping back the thousands of people who tried to force their way into the building. As soon as the news of the panic had spread throughout the district which seemed but a very few minutes—all the Hebrews from that part of the city rushed to the place, bent upon learning the names of the dead and wounded.

Men and women fought desperately with the officers in their efforts to enter the building and learn if any of their loved ones were among the dead. The crowd was so great, so excited and so unmanageable that several calls were sent for additional officers and firemen before it could be restrained. The alarm of fire was false, there having been no blaze at any time. The furnace in the building is somewhat defective and at times allows sparks to pass up through the registers. It was the sight of these sparks rising into the room that frightened the man who raised the cry of fire.

The hall has several times been the scene of panics and it is only a few months since a number of children were hurt in a rush for the doors during a juvenile party given in the place.

PRESIDENT IMPROVING

Washington, Jan. 12.—The president is now making rapid progress toward recovery. He sat up for a short time last evening and today he not only sat up a longer time than since he was taken ill but walked about the room several times. If nothing unfavorable occurs he will likely be able to attend to some matters of pressing business early in the coming week.

THE PRESIDENT'S PROPOSED TRIP

Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 12.—The Times will say tomorrow:

"It has been generally thought that President McKinley has accepted the invitation to be present at the launching of the battleship Ohio, at San Francisco, May 18. The Times is officially informed that Governor Nash is the man who has been given that honor and also that the governor's stepdaughter, Mrs. Worthington Babcock, will break the bottle on the bow of the battleship.

President McKinley's party will probably include, besides Mrs. McKinley, almost every member of the cabinet. According to the schedule the party will leave Washington on May 1, in a special train provided by the Southern Pacific. It is expected that the party will reach San Francisco on the evening of May 12.

RESTORED BY SALT

Hamilton, Ohio, Jan. 12.—The efficacy of soda chloride (common salt) for stimulation of heart action, was demonstrated [illegible] Dr. Kumler here tonight. Dr. Kumler was called to attend, Marcus Sauer, 62 years old, who has been long a sufferer from dropsy. He found the patient apparently dead. All the symptoms immediately following dissolution, and absence of respiration, heart action and pulse were manifest.

Dr. Kumler resolved to try the salt solution as a final resort. At 1:25 p. m. he ejected a quantity of warm water containing 25 per cent. of salt in the left arm. In 20 seconds there were signs of a pulse and it was explained that circulation [illegible] received. In 25 minutes a second hypodermic injection was administered, this time in a branch of the brachial artery, in the upper left arm. In 20 minutes from the second injection respiration was full and regular and the patient returned to consciousness and asked for food. Food was administered in the shape of a broth and soon afterwards he took a drink of water, sure signs of the return of functional activity. He is improving tonight.

CUP CHALLENGER

London, Jan. 12.—The Dennys officially corroborate the [illegible] statement that the firm is building Sir Thomas Lipton's America's cup challenger, the Shamrock II, and the following:

"Little progress has yet been made but the arrangements are all completed for rapid construction."

NEWS TOPICS IN FOREIGN CAPITALS

Great Britain Forced to a Realization That Her Dream of Predominance Is Past. American and German Competition.

London, Jan. 12.—Great Britain's decadence is becoming quite a popular theme. Self debasement and self flagellation seem to be congenial to the chastened spirit of the nation, forced to realize, through the accumulation of reverses, military, diplomatic and industrial, that Great Britain's predominance dream is past. It is almost a daily occurrance for some London newspaper to parade the shortcomings of the country, instituting comparisons with the United States and Germany, little complimentary to Great Britain.

"Lost opportunities," says the Morning Post, "is the keynote, and the Britain who could dictate its will to the ends of the earth is today a myth."

The great woolen and allied trades, threaten to be revolutionized by an American machine which is now operating at Bradford.

"What it all will open up is not fully apparent at first sight," says the Bradford Observer, "but it looks as if the position occupied by Arkwright and Crompton in the world of inventors during the nineteenth century is to be superseded by Drury in the twentieth. How is it that this idea was left to a Yankee lawyer to bring out?"

Drury's invention is described as the simplest ever devised. It is capable of spinning the toughest yarns from asbestos or peat moss without difficulty. Drury left Preston two years ago.

The Daily Telegraph refers to the enormous increase in the use of American confectionery in England, which it says, would be even greater than it is were the Americans manufacturers to show more elasticity in trade methods. It also declares that America is soon likely to be supplying "jaw bricks."

The most suitable comparative samples have already been submitted to Lord Roberts and have been sent back for improvements. These are now assured.

"Small wonder, indeed," says the Daily Telegraph, "that the British fruit-grower has cause for complaint that the demand is not what it was for his products. California fruit appears to be making tremendous inroads into the English jam trade."

Even from the Philippines come recommendations to adopt American methods. Mr. Percival of London, writes to the Times from Manila, urging the British troops in South Africa to use the tunic pleat worn by the American soldiers to protect the spine, and also their webbing cartridge belt and method for preserving surgical dressing. The suggestion about the belt is already in force. An American firm has a newly erected factory here turning out to its full capacity these belts for the war office.

Senator Proctor's Italian marble [illegible] draws forth from Today an indignant protest. It says:

"Who, for instance, is Senator Proctor, that he should create for his own enrichment a scarcity of Carrara marble, in which the highest art of all ages in Europe has found its noblest expression," and so on in a similar strain, maintaining that the senator has [illegible] the world's art.

But it is not only in commerce that the spread of American leaven is so patent. In the national game, Rugby football, hitherto so distinctive of American rules and whose devotees were so proud of the fact, the British are now beginning so loudly to imitate the distinguishing features of American gridiron play. At the recent England and Wales match, when 40,000 spectators were present, the experts were amazed to see what was called the "puzzling hand to hand passing of the Welsh team." This is nothing more than the familiar snapping back practised by all American colleges, but which is a new pattern here. It met [illegible] in securing for Wales a sweeping victory.

The visit of the Prince of Wales to the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire at Chatsworth, was one of the most brilliant affairs of the kind ever known. Earls and countesses and other members of the nobility elbowed each other in the spacious halls. The women were magnificently dressed, wearing their family diamonds. The private theater was transformed into a veritable grotto of beauty. Miss Muriel Wilson was generally conceded to be the handsomest of the performers, who, with the taste so often curiously [illegible] English amateurs, elected to play "The Pantomine Rehearsal," a burlesque of the shortcomings of amateurs themselves. The visit terminated today.

William Waldorf Astor entertained a big party at Cliveden Thursday. A few Americans were invited and no very great ladies were present. This was the first time Mrs Astor has taken the position of mistress of her father's [illegible] particular grace and was dressed in white and gold gauze.

The death is announced this week of James De Foe, the last male descendant of "Robinson Crusoe." He was 80 years old.

GERMAN CABINET LETTER

Von Buelow's Speech in the Prussia Diet is Considered the Leading Political Event of the Week--Winter Troop Maneuvers.

Berlin, Jan. 12.—The opening speech of the chancellor, Count von Buelow, in the Prussia diet Tuesday, which was largely programmatic, is here considered the leading political event of the week. The entire press is still busy commenting and interpreting his remarks.

Only the Catholic Leftists are wholly dissatisfied therewith, claiming the chancellor has gone over, bag and baggage to the Agrarians, while the moderate Leftists, Center and Nationalists point out that the chancellor carefully avoided definite terms in his speech and that, hence, he probably intends to shape his Prussian policy, especially during the forthcoming diet session, according to how and where he finds the majority favoring the canal bill, about whose ultimate passage Emperor William is still as anxious as ever.

The conservative and Agrarian press handle von Buelow's speech with extreme caution. They avoid pledging support of the canal bill, in exchange for any possible bargain. The Agrarians continue to distrust von Buelow.

The Kreuz Zeitung, Conservative, while pleasantly complimenting the chancellor, warns the latter not to repeat Prince Hohenlohe's punitive methods towards members of the diet who [illegible] against the canal measure.

In the best informed parliamentary circles, the opinion is now held that von Buelow himself hardly knows where he stands and that he will skillfully endeavor to push the canal bill through the diet with whatever not too exacting words he can find. It certainly would be unlike von Buelow to conclude a fixed bargain this early with any party or set of parties.

German political circles opine that the Chinese problem is still a long way off from a definite solution as the question of damages will occupy much time in Peking. Nobody here believes that Field Marshal Count von Waldersee or the German troops will be withdrawn by March. The opinion here rather inclines to another year elapsing before that happens, although it is well known [illegible] Waldersee's retirement and that of the German troops.

Winter maneuvers for the guard troops have been [illegible] for the end of the month in the vicinity of Berlin, Potsdam and Spandau, and including bivouacs in the open air. The crown prince and the emperor will both participate.

INDIAN RESERVATIONS MAY BE OPEN TO MINERS

Special to the Gazette.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 12. An important innovation in western mining matters may possibly be secured through the medium of the Indian appropriation bill now pending before the senate committee on Indian affairs.

This is an amendment proposed by Senator Stewart, providing that all Indian reservations shall be opened to prospectors and miners. The amendment was today adopted by the sub-committee and will be submitted to the whole committee Monday.

It is strongly urged by all the western members of the committee, who hold that the mining interests of the country will be greatly benefited, the output of precious metals increased and that no damage will result to the Indians through allowing prospectors and miners to enter the reservations, under proper rules and regulations.

MR. CATCHINGS IN DEFENSE OF THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER

Washington, Jan. 12.—After an hour spent in miscellaneous business, during the course of which several bills of minor importance were passed, the house devoted the day to a continuation of debate on the river and harbor bill, which was interrupted yesterday by private bill day.

The main feature was an elaborate speech by Mr. Catchings (Miss.) in defense of the improvement of the lower Mississippi river.

Mr. Catchings retires from the house, March 4, after 14 years of service, during several of which he was chairman of the river and harbor committee, and during all of which time he has been the special champion of the improvement of the navigation of the Mississippi. His speech was in the nature of a valedictory. It received marked attention and at its conclusion Mr. Catchings was given an impressive personal ovation.

The other speeches were principally by members who had been disappointed in not having special projects provided for in the bill.

By unanimous consent, the general debate upon this bill was ordered closed at 2 o'clock on Monday.

At 4:50 p. m. the house adjourned.

CITY OF HONOLULU

Honolulu, Jan. 6, via San Francisco, Jan. 12.—A proposal to incorporate a city of Honolulu, which shall include the entire island of Oahu, has been made in a majority report of a submittee. The proposed city would be in acreage larger than any city in the world. It would have an area of 384,000 acres and would include several immense sugar plantations. The population of the city would be about 50,000.

The news that the establishment of a leper settlement in the Philippines has been postponed has led to a local discussion of the possibility of having the Kahn bill changed so that such a settlement will be the national lazarette, instead of Molokai. It is also thought that such measure might result in the transfer of the Molokai lepers to the new settlement.

The Advertiser says:

"President McKinley has upheld Governor Dole in the public land sales made by the Hawaiian government between July 7, 1898, and Sept. 30, 1900.

BIG CATTLE DEAL

Salt Lake, Jan. 12.—Another important cattle trade was made here today. M. K. Parsons of the Utah and Colorado Cattle and Improvement Co., purchased of O'Neill brothers of Wells, Nev., 1,000 head of one and 2-year-old high-bred cattle. The price is said to be $22 for the yearlings and $30 for the 2-year-olds.

Quite a number of prominent cattlemen have already arrived to attend the convention, which opens next week and the Live Stock association's office was one of the busiest places in the city today.

The Chicago delegation will arrive tomorrow morning.

AN IMMENSE OIL STRIKE IN TEXAS

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 12.—J. M. Guffy has made the most important oil discovery of the past 10 years. Last Thursday noon he drilled into a mighty gusher in southeastern Texas, located on a 4,500-acre tract, 18 miles from Port Arthur, in Jefferson county. The well was drilled in Thursday noon and the first telegram Mr. Guffy received from his superintendent was at 10 o'clock Friday morning, stating that the well was flowing the full of the six-inch casting, at a rate estimated at 15,000 barrels a day. No tankage had been provided and at the time named the flow had not been brought under control, the oil running in a stream into the Sabine river. This well is located about 240 miles southeast of the Corsicana fields and the oil is the same in specific gravity, about 37 degrees, but was reached at depth of less than 1,000 feet.

Mr. Guffy stated tonight that he thought 15,000 barrels a day would be a conservative estimate of what the well is producing and he thought it would reach 20,000, which would make it the largest in the world.

"2. The officers of this club shall be a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer, executive committee, membership committee and campaign committee.

"3. The president, vice president, secretary and treasurer shall perform such parliamentary duties as ordinarily devolve upon such officers and such other duties as may be assigned them from time to time by the club.

"4. The executive committee, membership committee and campaign committee shall each consist of five members and shall perform such duties as may from time to time be assigned them by the club.

"5. The objects of the organization shall be to aid in every honorable way to achieve Republican success in the state of Colorado; to arouse an interest in the principles of the Republican party among all classes of voters; to advocate only clean candidates for office and commendable campaign methods; to raise the standard of public service and party responsibility and to cooperate with all Republican central committees in the accomplishment of the above purposes.

"6. Any citizen of Colorado not a federal political officeholder may become a member of this club by signing a pledge to support the principles of the club. There shall be no initiation fee or dues for membership but each member may make such voluntary contributions to the treasurer of the club as he may see fit.

"7. Whenever ten or more citizens eligible to membership in this club shall organize in any city, town, county or voting precinct and shall adopt the by-laws of this club they shall, on application, be granted a charter from this club under rules to be adopted by the membership committee of this club and by the payment to this club of a charter fee of five dollars, and all members of any such club so organized shall be members of this club.

"8. On the recommendation of the holding of any state convention of the Republican party of Colorado the members of this club shall hold a meeting and shall determine what action, if any, this club shall take in such convention relative to party candidates and party policy, or both such candidates and policy.

"9. Every chartered club of this club shall meet and determine its policy prior to the holding of any local convention in the locality where such chartered club shall exist.

"10. As soon as the Republican state convention shall have nominated party candidates and adopted a party platform it shall be the duty of every member of this club to support such candidates and platform and to do everything possible for their complete success. It shall also be the duty of every chartered club of this club as well as of every member of this club to support all local Republican tickets and platforms after the regular local party conventions have acted.

"11. The regular meetings of this club shall be on the first Saturday of each month at 11 a. m. in the city of Denver, and special meetings may be called by the president at any time.

"12. Robert's Rules of Order shall control on all parliamentary questions where the club has not adopted a rule of its own.

"13. The main purposes of this organization shall be to give the rank and file of the Republican party the fullest possible opportunity to participate in party caucuses and party conventions; to raise the standard of party nominees, to keep campaign management and methods on the highest possible plane; to constantly impress upon the party councils the wisdom of always pursuing the purposes herein set forth; to work and cooperate with other organizations for party success; and the executive officers of this club are directed never to let any personal or factional feeling, or individual ambitions or technical construction of these by-laws interfere with the accomplishment of such purposes.

"14. Any federal officeholder of Colorado may become an honorary member of this club on application to the club."

The committee also set the time for the next meeting of the club at 11 a. m. Saturday, February 2, 1901, at Windsor hotel, to be followed that night by a complimentary banquet to be tendered to the Republican editors of the state and other invited guests. The banquet will be the most brilliant affair of the kind ever held in the state and the best orators of the state and nation will be present.

The committee also selected for permanent officers of the club the following:

President—Hon. Simon Guggenheim.
Vice President—Hon. James F. Burns.
Secretary—Hon. Harry Tarbell.
Treasurer—Hon. James H. Brown.
Chairman Executive Committee—Hon. A. B. Seaman.

The other officers are to be selected at the meeting to be held on February 2. All communications relative to the club should be addressed to Harry Tarbell, Secretary, Mining Exchange building, Denver.

CABINET RUMOR

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—It is rumored here and from letters received by intimate political friends and lieutenants of Senator Fairbanks it has been learned that A. C. Harris of this city, who is minister to Austria, will be the new attorney general in President McKinley's cabinet.

TRIED THREE TIMES

To Fit Coffee to a Sensitive Body

There are great numbers of highly organized people upon whom coffee acts as a clearly defined poison In some extreme cases the poisonous effects will show in from three to five minutes in other cases [illegible] required and in some cases the body can stand the effects for years but the effects are very sure and in many [illegible] [illegible] in a fixed condition of organic disease that is difficult or impossible to be rid of

Mrs J W Grant of Deepwater Mo writes interestingly of her experience with coffee After using coffee [illegible] [illegible] and gradually failing in health I got so I could eat but very little breakfast at any time and many [illegible] a cup of coffee and try to eat a little bread

I knew the coffee was hurting me but I did not seem to be able to take anything else Just the minute I took a small [illegible] of coffee my [illegible] would begin to tingle [illegible] faint sensation would run all over my body [illegible] burning [illegible] my neck hurting until it finally got so bad that I would have to hold my head on my hand while drinking my cup of coffee

I would frequently have to run to the door for breath feeling as though I would faint away I got so I could scarcely sit up to eat my little breakfast So it went on until I ran to nervous prostration completely [illegible] my stomach I [illegible] physicians who told me I [illegible] gave me but little [illegible]

A friend told me my trouble was [coffee] I didn't believe it but for some [illegible] I concluded to stop drinking [co]ffee and try Postum Food Coffee that had been so highly recommended I was greatly astonished to find that in a few days I had no more of the nervous spells at breakfast and began to eat food of most any and every kind

I began to recover very quickly but like lots of [illegible] I thought I would [illegible] coffee again [illegible] trouble came on I stopped again and went to Postum and began to improve in health. I did this foolish thing three different times and each time that I would go back [illegible] I would run down [illegible] with the same old troubles

I finally [illegible] Postum so well by letting it boil long enough that it tasted as good as the Java coffee and from that time on I have never had any desire to go back to coffee I am now well and there is no question but that my recovery is due entirely to the leaving off of coffee and using Postum Food Coffee

AFFAIRS AT STATE HOUSE

New Governor Manifestly Determined to Relieve Financial Stringency.

FLOOD OF BILLS INTRODUCED

New Measures Number 248 Senatorial Contest Tapers Down to Two Leading Candidates.

Special to the Gazette:

Denver, Jan. 12.—The week just closed has marked a change in the executive office of the state. The change was noted for its simplicity, as Gov. Orman said: "The actual cost did not exceed $2.50."

The new governor has taken hold of things with a manifest desire to relieve the present financial condition of the state and his every conversation with assembly members leads to a discussion of the financial bills now pending. In a recent conversation, he said: "The thing to do is to earnestly seek out those parts of all pending measures that will bring cash into the state treasury and shape them into a bill and pass it to this effect [illegible]." The governor is devoting a large part of his time to this question and he readily grants an audience to anyone who has a suggestion to offer. If the members showed as great desire to settle this question as does Gov. Orman their combined wisdom would result in a law that would settle Colorado's hard times.

The bill as introduced in the house by Speaker Montgomery and outlined in Wednesday's Gazette, is the recognized bill of the Thomas revenue commission and is the bill that, with a few changes, will in all probability be adopted. Those who have studied its 279 pages admit that it is a far better measure than is now in force and that if put into effect will [illegible] what is expected.

The members of the house have introduced a flood of bills which cover everything imaginable from the revenue bill down to [illegible] it an offense to tip a Pullman porter.

There have been introduced in both houses 248 bills of which number 130 [illegible] and 118 in the house. A few of the bills have been referred to the printer committee and by Monday it is expected they will be put on the members' desks.

The members of both houses have been noted for their [illegible]. Some member will move to adjourn in order that the [illegible] may act on the [illegible] referred to them. The motion will carry, but the members will pass the committee rooms and make a bee line for the headquarters of the different senatorial candidates at the down town hotels. The two fusion factions are so evenly divided that neither side can gain much advantage.

The minority forces in the house scored two victories Thursday, when they prevented the swearing in of two cloak room janitors and the changing of the rules of the twelfth assembly so that the speaker could refer bills pertaining [illegible] committees of his own selection. They also led the majority faction into a trap whereby they did away with the constitutional amendment committee.

Speaker Montgomery asked twice Saturday that the janitor question be brought up and settled, but no one seemed willing to take the initiative in calling it up so the matter went over until Monday.

The rules as adopted in the senate provide that a two-thirds majority can at any time call up a special bill. The same majority can also close a debate and force a vote. Some of the members who have been accustomed to all the time wanted for debate, fought the measure to the last, but finally lost.

The settlement of the Pueblo contest in the house cuts the number of Republican members in that body down to seven. The two fusion factions have been so busily engaged watching each other that the seven Republicans are practically ignored. They content themselves by watching the proceedings and at different times they take occasion to remind the fusion forces that their seven votes represent a larger popular vote for United States senator than does the combined vote that will be cast for either of the fusion candidates on the first ballot.

The senatorial question is fast tapering down to the two leading candidates, Messrs. Patterson and Thomas.

Mr. Adams has withdrawn entirely from the contest, which leaves his supporters free to vote for someone else. It has been rumored today that Mr. Hughes will withdraw. If this is the case the fight will be settled in the fusion caucus, which meets next Monday night. The agreement for the caucus was that a majority of the fusion members could name the nominee.

The chief attribute of a Democrat is his outward appearance of confidence. He is never known to admit defeat until his opponent has been sworn in.

This confidence is not lacking in this fight. Each man appears to feel sorry for his opponent because he is playing such a losing game. At the two headquarters there is an air of certainty that has never been equaled in a fusion fight in Colorado. The announcement of Mr. Adams' withdrawal was received with pleasure at both headquarters and many toasts were drunk at each place to the final ending of the fight. The coming week will no doubt settle the dispute and the world will then know whose confidence was well founded.

BRIEF SESSION STATE SENATE

House Concurrent Resolution for More Employes Was Killed After Short Debate.

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Jan. 12. The senate met this morning and after killing the house concurrent resolution providing for more employes, adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday.

The United States senatorial contest is testing the strength of all and there were many vacant seats this morning when the upper house was called to order. The chaplain noticed this fact and asked the Supreme Being to give our lawmakers strength and power to perform their [illegible] without [illegible] it.

The concurrent resolution that was adopted in the house yesterday providing for a joint committee of five to investigate the McCreery law and ascertain if it provided for enough employes was brought up after a thirty minutes debate and was killed by a vote of 15 to 14. The McCreery law will now stand [illegible] adopted the house will be compelled to proceed with only forty-four employes.

Just what will be done is not known as there are still many position seekers hanging around the capitol in the hope that a still larger number of employes will be employed. The fact that Speaker Montgomery intimated about the first of the week that more positions will be given out has served to keep the lobbies filled with people seeking those positions. It was intimated in the cloak rooms today that the house had a scheme whereby it could give out the political pie and not violate the McCreery law.

The senate is over three days ahead of the house in the transaction of business. As yet the house is not completely organized and will not be until the appointment of two janitors for the cloak rooms is settled. Since the fusion minority scored their victory Thursday there is a tendency on the part of the fusion majority to allow the cloak-rooms to care for themselves until after the big fight is settled. After listening to the second reading of a number of bills the senate adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning.

TWO MORE SUSPECTS ARRESTED IN DENVER

Special to the Gazette.

Denver, Jan. 12. The police department arrested two men tonight who have been positively identified as the two men who held up and robbed Mr. [illegible] West Colfax avenue some time ago. The men answer the description given in all other hold-ups that have occurred. They gave their names as John Ryan and F. W. Bond. They were arrested tonight for loitering around in the shadow of some trees near Sixteenth and Sherman avenue. One of the men is tall while the other is short. A revolver was found in Ryan's pocket. There is not much question but that these two men are responsible for the many hold-ups that have occurred. The police feel that with the arrest of the man responsible for the occurrence last night and the two hold-ups tonight Denver will from now on be free from so much robbery.

Chief of Police Martin received a telegram from the chief of police of Indianapolis, Ind., stating that Pat Crowe was in Denver and was located at 618 Twenty-first street. The police made all preparations for the capture of the desperate man and went to locate the number. There is no 618 Twenty-first street but there is a Methodist parsonage at 616 Twenty-first street. The chief did not know it was a parsonage and he thought that probably a mistake had been made in the number, so he rang the bell. When the minister appeared the chief stated his mission and wanted to search the premises. It did not take the minister long to explain that a mistake had been made, and after apologizing, the chief went away feeling that he was the victim of either a misunderstanding or a huge joke.

STATE SENATORSHIP.

Special to the Gazette:

Denver, Jan. 12.—The senatorial fight remains practically unchanged tonight. The two headquarters have been crowded all the evening with the friends of the contesting candidates. Both sides still claim that they will control the caucus Monday night. As the matter now stands there are two doubtful members in the senate and 14 doubtful members in the house. All recognize the fact that these 16 hold the balance of power. Both Mr. Patterson and Mr. Thomas claim that this power will be thrown to them on the first ballot.

The call for the caucus is still being circulated and members of both factions are willingly signing it, which fact shows that both sides are confident.

The Patterson people are claiming 55 votes on the first ballot, while the Thomas people are claiming 47. As 46 votes are necessary to a choice in the caucus, it can be seen that both men feel that they are elected.

VANDERBILT WEDDING

Newport, R. I., Jan. 12.—Although the marriage of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, one of the richest Vanderbilts, to Miss Elsie French, does not occur until Monday, a large number of the guests arrived today. Their arrival created quite a stir but the feature of the day was the elaborate dinner in the evening which the bridegroom tendered to the members of the wedding party, including the bridesmaids, ushers and intimate friends. The dinner was given at the home of the bride at Harbor View. At the conclusion of the dinner a number of the most costly and beautiful gifts which had been conveyed during the day from one of the local banks to the house were shown to the guests. The evening festivities were closed with an informal dance by the young people.

Preparations for the wedding are now nearly completed. The ceremony will take place in St. John's church Monday noon, followed by an elaborate breakfast served by Delmonico at the French residence.

COAL CONTRACTS

Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—What is believed to be the largest contract for coal ever awarded to an American firm by the Canadian government has been given to a firm in this city. This order was obtained by the local bidders despite the fact that the Sydney, Cape Breton, mines are many miles nearer than those of Pennsylvania. The contract calls for the delivery by April 1 next of 100,000 tons of the Pennsylvania bituminous product at St. John, N. B., Halifax, N. S., St. Johns, N. F., and St. Pierre, Miquelon Island.

READING STRIKE ENDED

Reading, Pa., Jan. 12. The strike of the employes of the United Traction company, which was inaugurated last Tuesday, came to an end today, the board of arbitrators having granted nearly every demand made by the strikers. A settlement was reached at 2:15 o'clock this morning, the board having been in session since early last night. When an agreement was reached the strike was officially declared off by Organizer Jacob T. Taylor and word was sent to the motormen and conductors to man their cars at the usual hour this morning. The agreement reached by the arbitrators calls for the reinstatement of all employes discharged since January 1; that 16 2-3 cents an hour be paid beginning January 15; nine hours to constitute a day's work; one week early and one week late shifts; whenever a dispute arises between employer and employes which cannot be satisfactorily adjusted it shall be referred to a board of arbitrators.

In the event that any of the officers of the company find it necessary to discharge any employe, the discharged employe shall quit the service of the company at once, pending adjustment. The agreement is to remain in force one year from ratification.

WESTERN LEAGUE

Chicago, Jan. 12.—A special to the Chronicle from St. Joseph, Mo., says:

President Thomas J. Hickey, of the Western league, will leave for St. Paul, where he will confer with George Lennon and will then proceed to Louisville and Indianapolis. It is expected that these two latter cities will be included in the Western league and upon the return he will issue a call for a meeting to be held either in St. Paul, Minneapolis or Kansas City.

Louisville can easily be had for the Western league for McCloskey is anxious to get in and Indianapolis appears equally anxious. President Hickey expects to be gone about ten days and when he returns the league membership will be announced. It is vaguely hinted that a ten club league will be formed but at present all matters are resting until the return of the president.

DINNER POSTPONED

Washington, Jan. 12—The invitations to the diplomatic dinner for next Wednesday evening have been recalled, Dr. Rixey having decided that the risk of the president's taking a fresh cold would be too great. It is the present intention that of the functions planned for this and next week all will be given later in the season.

WOMAN'S KIDNEYS.

Women as Well as Men Suffer and Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Troubles

To Prove What Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Remedy, Will Do for YOU, Every Reader of the Gazette May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free By Mail.

Among the many famous cures of Swamp-Root investigated by the Gazette none seem to speak higher of the wonderful curative properties of this great kidney remedy than the one we publish this week for the benefit of our readers.

Mrs. H. N. Wheeler, of 117 High Rock street, Lynn, Mass., writes: "About 18 months ago I had a very severe spell of [illegible] weeks, and when I finally was able to leave my bed, I was left with excruciating pains in my back. My physical condition was such that I had no strength and was all run down. The doctors said my kidneys were not affected, but I felt certain that they were the cause of my trouble. My sister Mrs. C. [illegible] Littlefield, of Lynn, advised me to give Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root a trial. I procured a bottle and inside of three days commenced to get relief. I followed up that bottle with another, and at the completion of this one found I was completely cured. My strength returned, and today I am as well as ever. My business is that of canvasser, I am on my feet a great deal of the time and have to use much energy in getting around. My cure is, therefore, all the more remarkable, and is exceedingly gratifying to me."

MRS. H. N. WHEELER.

Swamp-Root will do just as much for [illegible] back is too weak to perform her necessary work, who is always tired and overwrought, who feels that the cares of life are more than she can stand. It is a boon to the weak and ailing.

MRS. H. N. WHEELER.

HOW TO FIND OUT IF YOU NEED SWAMP-ROOT

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood that is their work. So when your kidneys are weak or out of order you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the famous new discovery, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

Many women suffer untold misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood; [illegible] some sort of female trouble or female weakness of some sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing down sensation—these are all unmistakable signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

Other symptoms showing that you need Swamp-Root are sleeplessness, dizziness, irregular heart, breathlessness, sallow, unhealthy complexion, plenty of ambition but no strength.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is used in the leading hospitals, recommended by physicians in their private practice, and is taken by doctors themselves, because they recognize in it the greatest and most successful remedy that science has ever been able to compound.

If you are already convinced that Swamp-Root is what you need, you can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one dollar bottles at the drug stores everywhere.

Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder remedy, is so remarkably successful that a special arrangement has been made by which all of our readers who have not already tried it may have a sample bottle sent absolutely free by mail. Also a book telling all about kidney and bladder troubles and containing many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured by Swamp-Root. Be sure and mention reading this generous offer in the Colorado Springs Gazette when sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y.

Busy Scenes at the Portland Mill

A very busy scene presents itself over at the site of the new Portland mill. A Gazette reporter took a drive over that way yesterday, and if there are any persons who are feeling a bit shaky about the immediate prosperity of this city, they need the stimulus of a visit to that portion of the city. By the first of next June the great big plant will be treating ore, unless something goes wrong. By that time hundreds of tons of ore will be rolling down the mountains and dumping automatically into the immense bins, and the hundreds of men needed to run the machinery will be hunting places for residence.

There is almost an army of men at work on the ground at present. The big reservoirs are progressing at a rapid rate and many teams and men are digging away. The largest of the reservoirs is to hold not less than 25,000,000 gallons in storage.

The excavating for the mills is being done by Ord & Co., and many men and [illegible] are employed at that work. The stone is being brought in and dumped on the ground, to be used in the foundations. The District road has a [illegible] the railroad switches to the mill. The section on which the stone and heavy machinery will be brought in is almost completed.

Everything about the new mill is to be very complete and of the most substantial construction. It is iron and fireproof. Sterns, Rogers & Co. have the contracts for the plasters and heavy machinery generally. Gillett & Herzog are supplying the structural work and beams. Grespie & Sons of Denver are doing the stonework and will soon have a large force at work. Ord & Co. of this city furnish the stone and do the grading.

Everything about the new mill is being looked after most carefully. Durfee & Wall are doing the engineering and contracting on the reservoirs. W. R. Roby is acting as the company's inspector on the scene, and will see that they get the best in buildings and work.

The Portland company is preparing to erect a mill that can be enlarged to a thousand tons a day capacity at necessary. It has the water in sufficient quantity and is preparing to have more if necessary. This move of the Portland company in having its own mill is something that the big mines will all come to in time. It makes them free of the smelter trust. In most other mining countries excepting the United States the mill is considered a part of the mine as much as the shaft. The Portland, with its big mill and such a large interest in the new road, will be absolutely independent.

Missourian Who Was Not Counted

Last Sunday morning the Gazette published an article on the Colorado Springs colony of Missouri people. It was one of the series of articles that have been published on Sundays for several weeks on Cosmopolitan Colorado Springs. In the introduction to the Sunday article it was stated that the Missouri people mentioned were comparatively few of those who might have been named had there been more space to devote to the subject.

One of the persons omitted from the mention is the present judge of the county court, Robert Lincoln Hubbard. He is a native of Missouri and the manner in which he happens to bear the name of Lincoln makes him a particularly interesting Missouri subject to discuss.

One of the features that must have impressed itself upon persons who read the Missouri article last week is its entirely [illegible] was the large number of persons mentioned who were members of Democratic families but participants in the support which Missouri so valiantly gave to the Union cause during the famous war of the rebellion. Missouri, it may be stated, sent [illegible] less than 110,000 men while her contribution to the army of the confederacy was but 25,000.

Robert G. Hubbard, the father of Judge Hubbard, was a native of Indiana but went to Missouri in [illegible] and purchased a farm in Andrew county, in the northern part of the state.

In 1860 when Abraham Lincoln became a candidate for the presidency, Andrew county, Mo., had about 1,700 voters. These people believed that the tariff policy of the Democratic party was an essential policy to the success of the American farmer and they were farmers. They believed that the slave trade which had been in existence during their lives and the lives of their fathers was right if the people wished to participate in it and that the nation had no right to interfere with this liberty on the part of the people. Some of them believed that [illegible] with the policy of the party which should be successful in the election of that year or any year they were perfectly at liberty to withdraw from under the operation of that policy and establish a government more to their liking.

[illegible] sixteen other voters of Andrew county [illegible] their own views although they had been life-long Democrats, they cast their votes that year.

Just how it came about no one ever tried to explain for it was not an open secret. It did come about, however, that within comparatively a few months after the election of Lincoln as president, twelve of the seventeen voters of Andrew county who had acknowledged that they helped to elect him were shot down. Assailants in ambush fired the fatal shots and although no one knew who the murderers were, everyone realized that Andrew county was [illegible] persons known to have voted for Lincoln.

So Robert Hubbard acted still further upon his principles and enlisted in the Union army with the 12th Missouri volunteer [illegible] was captain. He was one of the first to enlist from that section of Missouri and he remained in the Union service throughout the war.

In 1862 there came into the family of [illegible] Hubbard a son who was named Robert Lincoln Hubbard, and this son is today the judge of the county court of El Paso.

When the war was over Robert Hubbard returned to Missouri and became again a private citizen and a Democrat. He had helped to maintain Missouri as a loyal member of the sisterhood of American commonwealths. His son with other sons of Missouri, is now doing a like service for Colorado. There is no war among the states today but the son of Robert Hubbard, who bears the name of the great emancipator, believes that loyalty to law and his country's institutions is as necessary in time of tranquility as in time of [illegible] and he is doing his part to maintain both.

BRIEF CITY ITEMS.

FLORENCE STREET RAILWAY—Articles of incorporation for the Florence Street Railway company, of Florence, Colo., were filed here yesterday in the office of the county clerk. Colorado Springs men are interested in this enterprise.

PHILLIPS BROOKS—It is seven years since Phillips Brooks died. His biography long delayed has just appeared in two large volumes covering some 1,600 pages. It was sure to be anticipated as fascinating interest. Its price however will prevent many from seeing it who would take great pleasure in reading it. It will interest many therefore to know that Dr. Gregg will present the substance of this remarkable biography in two addresses on "Phillips Brooks, Man, Preacher and Theologian," to be given at the First Congregational church Sunday evening, January 13 and Sunday evening January 20. All who desire to know more of the personality and life and work of Phillips Brooks are cordially invited.

LITERARY CLUB—The Woman's Literary club was very pleasantly entertained yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Albert May. The following was the programme for the day: "Sartor Resartus," by Mrs. E. L. Preston; "Ma[illegible] Essays" by Miss Morgan; "How to Treat and Keep a Servant," Mrs. A. B. Craigue.

LYCEUM COURSE—Mr. Elbert Hubbard, the great Philistine of East Aurora, N. Y., will be the next attraction in the Lyceum course. He will be at the Temple theater Thursday, Jan. [illegible] Mr. Hubbard is head worker in the Roycroft shop, editor of the Philistine magazine, an author of note, and on the lecture platform is known as the second Wendell Phillips. Reserved seats are on sale at Lauterman's [illegible] store on North Tejon street.

WOODMEN—Camp 7,226, Modern Woodmen of America held its regular meeting Wednesday night. Some new members were taken into the lodge and many new applications were presented. The camp is in a flourishing condition. The Foresters will give a dance Wednesday night, January 16, to which all are invited.

FUNERAL TODAY—Henry Johnson, the well-known colored man who died of pneumonia last Friday, was for a number of years the janitor of the Gazette building. He was also a member of Co. A, Sixty-seventh colored U. S. troops in the civil war. The family request that all old soldiers attend the funeral, which will be held from the [illegible] South Cascade avenue, today at [illegible] p. m. Mr. Johnson was highly respected by everyone who knew him in this city.

A REWARD—George Freeman, an elevator boy at the [illegible] block, came into the police station Friday and reported the loss of his wheel, saying that there had been an old wheel left in its place. He brought the latter wheel up to the station and it was [illegible] Crump, the greenhouse man, and he sent a box of cigars to the police as a token of appreciation because it also had been missing. The reward, however, belongs to the boy, and so the cigars are being raffled off and the money obtained in this way will be given to him.

HARES AND POULTRY—The Belgian Hare and Poultry show closed last night after having had one of the most successful exhibitions in the history of the association. The prizes were awarded Friday and the exhibitors seemed to be very well satisfied with the decisions of the judge. One of the hutches was almost covered with prize ribbons, the [illegible] possible [illegible]. The stock exhibited was very fine and while the patronage was not as large as was expected the attendance at all times was very good. A number of hares and poultry were sold during the show and brought some very good prices, considering the time of year [illegible]

CHAMBER MUSIC CONCERTS—An exceptionally interesting programme has been arranged for the first chamber concert to be given by Mr. Rubin Goldmark and Miss Lucile Du Pre, next Wednesday afternoon in the Perkins [illegible] exclusively of modern French music and will contain sonatas by Cesar Franck and Gabriel Faure. A group of French songs will also be rendered. None of the above works has ever been played here. Cesar Franck is occupying great prominence on the concert programmes of today. Although he is one of the greatest composers of France, who died recently at a ripe old age, his music is only now receiving wide-spread attention. He is ultra-modern in his tendencies [illegible] influenced by Wagner in his writings. His violin sonata belongs to the most [illegible] kind. Subscription tickets for the three concerts at $2 may be had at the Hext Music company, the Knight-Campbell Music company [illegible]

SHEMWELL HOLDS THE BONBRIGHT GUN CUP

Another successful shoot was held yesterday afternoon at the grounds of the Colorado Springs Gun club at Broadmoor. The second shoot in the competition for the Bonbright handicap cup was held, and the winner of the trophy was Walter W. Shemwell, one of the newer shooters of the state, but one who is fast establishing for himself a place among those of [illegible] proficiency.

The features of the day were the shooting of Shemwell and Sheldon, the latter having been the winner of the first competition, which was held a week ago. Mr. Sheldon's excellent work of last week was evidently sufficient for two weeks, inasmuch as his showing yesterday was as remarkably poor as it had previously been remarkably good. There was a treacherous wind blowing across the range, and it seemed to be blowing particularly at the birds released upon Mr. Sheldon's call. During the competition Mr. Sheldon shot at 100 birds and each time [illegible] dozen times, to be specific, the spectators and his fellow contestants cheered him vigorously.

Shemwell won the cup with a total score of 95, his handicap being six. Garrett [illegible] was crowding him all through the competition [illegible] 93 of the blue rocks, but with only half of Shemwell's handicap, failed by two points to capture the trophy. Shemwell immediately entered the three or four extra events which followed the cup competition and in the last 100 birds at which he shot, succeeded in making the excellent record of 97 dead.

Another feature of the day was the remarkably good shooting done by Mr. C. E. Tutt. When he entered the last [illegible] of 25 birds in the competition his handicap of [illegible] H. Dorsey's handicap of 25, and Shemwell's handicap of 6 put the three in a tie for the trophy, provided each broke his 25 straight. This was hardly to be expected, however, and the result in this run of 25 [illegible] Shemwell 24, Tutt 22, and Dorsey [illegible]

The [illegible] standing of the contestants and a score [illegible] each as follows:

					Hand.	Total
Shemwell	20	21	24	24	6	95
Garrett	[illegible]	24	[illegible]	24		93
Tutt	12	15	22	22	25	96
Cunningham	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]		[illegible]
Hill	19	18	16	19	1	[illegible]

Sill	10	11	15	15	22	[illegible]
Sheldon	5	1	2	4	25	[illegible]

A rule was adopted yesterday in the Bonbright cup competition the effect of which is to bar from the competition of [illegible] day all persons who are not [illegible] the shooting squad. The shooting is supposed to start at 2 each Saturday afternoon until some contestant shall have won the trophy [illegible] times [illegible] the permanent property of [illegible]

WHEEL THIEVES TO BE WATCHED CLOSELY

Jenuity 1018.

Cleveland 2050.

The above are some bicycles that have been stolen in Colorado Springs within the last three or four days.

Bicycle thieving is something that is [illegible] Bicycle dealers and repairers are extremely anxious to do everything in their power toward making the thefts fewer and the recoveries of stolen wheels more numerous.

During the past week the police department has recovered four wheels that had been stolen, but it is a matter of extreme difficulty to locate them unless there can be cooperation on the part of people who have the handling of a great many wheels in the course of each day's business.

Some of the repairers of the city have suggested to the Gazette that if the names and numbers of wheels reported to the police department as stolen could be published each day the repairers generally will keep a record of these wheels and look for the [illegible] stolen ones that are brought in for repairs.

There is probably no more certain plan for locating and recording wheels that are stolen in Colorado Springs and not removed from the city. Dealers generally agree that if there could be a law providing for the registering and reporting to the police department of all wheels offered to railroad companies for shipment as baggage, this would very materially increase the number of recoveries of stolen wheels. There is no such law, however, and for the present the people who handle wheels will have to depend upon practical methods for recovering as many stolen ones as possible.

It is believed now that bicycle thieving is being systematically carried on in Colorado Springs. The above numbers are [illegible] wheels may be restored to their owners [illegible]

JUSTICE COURTS

There was an after act to the case of the People vs. Tudor which was tried in Justice Wing's court yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Tudor was accused of the theft of a pocket book from a Mrs. Wilson in a street car some time ago. Lawyer Gardner was the attorney for the defence and Assistant District Attorney Black was the prosecuting attorney, assisted by Mr. Nicholas. During the course of the trial it developed that there was not sufficient grounds for binding the defendant over to the district court and so she was discharged. During the trial the lawyer for the defense made a statement about At[illegible] which the latter did not like and for a time it looked as if there would be blows. The two men were parted, however, and no harm was done.

The case of Jackson vs. Reed was continued in Judge Wing's court until the morning of the 16th.

In the case of the People vs. Minler the defendant was bound over to the [illegible] term of the district court under $500 bonds. The hearing was before Judge McClelland.

The case of Sutherland vs. Swink Bros. was set for trial January 26 before Judge McClellan. In this case the plaintiff demands $32.60 which he claims is due him.

In the case of [illegible] attachment was dissolved and judgment was given the plaintiff for $2[illegible]

The case of the Lowell Hardware company vs. George Alter was continued in Judge McClelland's court for thirty days.

One educated in society talk may easily ascertain a person's social status, without even seeing her, by hearing her talk, writes a contributor to the Detroit News-Tribune. The fashionable woman [illegible] with the English rising inflection. She talks quickly, and with a certain effusion of tone, that is like bubbles. She has her regular stock-in-trade words and phrases. As these grow unfashionable or obsolete they are thrown out or supplemented by others.

It is society's highest form of commendation now to say a person is "attractive." Society always thanks one for favors by saying "It is so sweet of you," with a saccharine accent on the [illegible] "charming," which [illegible] years ago was so popular, is now somewhat on the wane as a society term. Nothing is good or fine or pleasant. It is "so good," and "so fine" and "so pleasant." All U's are carefully enunciated, and words are clean cut and not slurred together. It is a pleasant form of speech if you have but to listen to it. But if you have anything you really wish to say, you will be clever indeed to get it said.

Serious Accidents to Two Citizens

Two accidents occurred in or near the city yesterday and both of the injured men have been removed to St. Francis hospital in a very serious condition. One of the men is not expected to live and the other's recovery is somewhat doubtful.

One of the engines on the new railroad that [illegible] the city about 6 o'clock last night with what was left of H. Q. Holley, a prospector, who was working near the railroad up past Cheyenne canon. Holley was thawing out some dynamite in a stove oven, and had just taken some of it out of the stove when it exploded knocking him some distance. Almost all of the prospectors thaw dynamite in this way and there are patent pans made for that purpose, but still a great many accidents happen through carelessness. Holley lives in this city on High street and has a wife and two children.

[illegible] was operated on last evening, and it was found that both eyes were destroyed, and they were taken out. His left hand was amputated, and there were numerous cuts on the head and body that had to be dressed. Drs. Campbell, Christopher, Whitam and Hanford performed the operation. The patient was resting easily last night, but his recovery is very doubtful.

Richard Harkness fell from a scaffolding yesterday and received injuries which may cost him his life. Mr. Harkness is a carpenter and was employed on North Chestnut street, where some new houses are being erected. He had returned from dinner, but a short time before the accident. He fell 30 feet to the ground and injured his back so severely that he had to be removed to the hospital in an ambulance. Mr. Harkness lives in Boulder where he has a family and has been staying at the St. James hotel while he has been at work in this city.

Brilliant Act of Daring Saves a Life

One of the most brilliant acts that has been performed in Colorado Springs for a long time whereby a human life was saved, or serious injury averted, was that on Tejon street near Pike's Peak avenue about 7:40 o'clock last night when Adam Jones, head porter in Phil Strubel's barber shop stopped a runaway horse.

The name of the owner of the horse was not learned, he taking the animal and driving away with his little boy, immediately after the brave act was done by Mr. Jones. Persons who were eye-witnesses to the deed, however, state that it was one of the quickest, bravest and most skillful that they had ever witnessed.

The owner of the horse, which was a mouse-colored gray of large size and high spirit, left the animal in front of the store of the Colorado Springs Drug company, with no other restraint than an eight-year old boy who had the reins. The father went into a store and the boy held the horse without trouble until the Salvation Army came along.

The religious parade approached with little noise to a point near the horse but suddenly broke into a religious demonstration. The inspiration which the service gave to the horse was not one to bring peace and tranquillity in to his spirit, and he immediately acted under the impulse that came.

The little lad tried to hold the animal but was not strong enough. The horse gave a plunge forward and was off up Tejon street on a run. The boy cried loudly for help and he was justified for the animal was completely out of control and unless some stronger hand than that of the little fellow [illegible] the reins should come to his rescue an accident was not to be averted. But the strong hand was not far away. Adam Jones was entering the barber shop when he heard the cries of the child. He immediately took in the situation and rushed into the street. In front of the El Paso bank Jones reached the side of the maddened horse, and seized the reins just below the neck of the animal. The courageous porter was thrown violently against the side of the horse but kept his feet. The animal did not stop but dragged Jones a distance along the street, the man, however, keeping his presence of mind and gradually stopping the horse.

As soon as the carriage was brought to a standstill the boy was lifted out and no sooner had he touched the ground than he started off as fast as he could run back to get his father. In a moment he returned, crying as hard as he could and bringing his father to the scene. The latter expressed his gratitude to Jones and then drove away with the boy who had been saved.

Jones seemed to think but little of his deed. He is a man of magnificent proportions and athletic bearing, and has had experience of the finest kind for the development of his muscular powers. He was a few years ago amateur champion of the northwest in boxing and was one of the best skaters in the Lake Superior country, in the states of Wisconsin and Minnesota. He also had wide experience in the handling of spirited horses and says that he stopped the runaway horse because it needed to be stopped and he knew how to do it.

Western Union and the District Road

The Western Union Telegraph company has made a contract with the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District road by which it will operate the lines in connection with the new road. A force of sixteen men are at work erecting the poles and preparing to string the wires. The line will be ready for work as soon as the road is and even before. When this line is completed the Western Union will use it as the principal line to Cripple Creek, abandoning the old line. When the toll road from Divide to Cripple Creek was built the Western Union built a line to camp along its right of way. Later the Midland Terminal was built and the Postal company built along that right of way. With the shorter line to camp along the District road the Western Union will abandon the old route.

The new line of telegraph is being built in the most substantial way. It will be thirty-five miles long and the poles have been distributed along the track for a distance of several miles. The poles are being placed 35 to the mile. The poles are of Wisconsin cedar and will last for many years.

The poles are being dug most carefully and the setting of the poles will be done in the same way. In the shale bed they will need less bracing and will last for years and years without rotting. It is for that reason that they are being placed so carefully. A steel wire, No. 8 guage, is being used. Four wires are being strung at present, two of which the railroad will use and two the telegraph company.

The work is progressing at about a mile a day. The Western Union brought an expert gang here for the work.

The work of track laying is going ahead [illegible] as well. Two boarding trains are out with the trackmen, about 60 on each train. It is about all that the construction company can do to keep them supplied with material from this end with the present equipment. The road's new engines are being [illegible] and work like a charm. The passenger car equipment is expected here in about ten days. It will all come through in one train, about a dozen cars.

NEW CENTURY GREETINGS

With the coming of the new year the president of the Anheuser-Busch Brewing Ass'n sent to every wholesale customer the following pleasant greeting by wire:

"The Anheuser-Busch Eagle heralds loudly the praise of those who helped make that famous throughout the world, and extends hearty thanks and New Century greetings.

Adolphus Busch, Pres."

The reference to the eagle will be readily recognized as applying to the well known trade mark of the largest brewing concern in the world. This trade mark consists of an A and an eagle with wings outspread.

During the year 1900 the output of this Association reached its highest point, which far exceeds that of any competitor at home or abroad.

Their watchword has ever been "Not how cheap, but how good," and the purity and satisfaction of their products has entitled them to the patronage they are receiving from a discriminating public in every country in the world.

GREAT ARTISTS

The Colorado Springs Musical club has arranged two great treats for the remaining concerts in their series. They offer an advantage in the musical line scarcely equaled out of New York city. The first artist is the great Russian pianist who has made a furore in the east, Ossip Gabrilowitsch. He comes on February 5.

The second event is the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Henschel, who are among the great artists of the day. They come March 18.

This fellow's wise enough to play the fool;
And to do that well craves a kind of wit.
—(Twelfth Night.

They have been laying track up on the new District road with a train crew and gang of men. If it had not been so cold and the Gazette force completely [illegible] ganized by the grippe the past week I believe I [illegible] to have gone up and seen it. I think it one of the most interesting sights in the world. How well I remember the day the Rock Island got its track in here in the fall of 1888. Everybody went up who could. In those days the horse car ended about where Cascade street is, so that it was not a wonderfully long walk. Mr. Steele, the editor of the paper, asked me to drive up with him, and "Old Selim" fairly flew. It was a long drive over the prairie. There the company had dug a great chasm into the flat prairie and the track layers' train was coming. It is a long train of flat cars loaded with ties and rails. On this train is also another small railroad. The little cars come running along loaded with the rails and ties [illegible] the men below. These men are experts and as fast as one can count they throw a tie in place and then down goes a rail. In a minute more the whole big train passes over [illegible] two or three miles a day and I expect [illegible] minutes we sat in the buggy they went through that cut and connected with the Denver and Rio Grande tracks. A gang follows and shapes up the track always.

It may have been the next day [illegible] how it was [illegible] first passenger train came in on the Rock Island. It stood at the Denver and Rio Grande depot, a thing of beauty with its long line of [illegible] and sleepers, all new. People went down to inspect it [illegible] [illegible] the Alamo hotel. The Rock Island had it [illegible] train is inlaid in mother of pearl. The company had a box car for a depot. Agent [illegible] held the fort and exhibited the beauty. [illegible] of the road were banqueted by the old Board of Trade. It was given at the Antlers hotel and was a notable affair [illegible].

These reflections are brought about by [illegible] the District [illegible] handsome affair and one [illegible] will recall with [illegible] in later years, but it will not be any finer than the Rock Island banquet. The old Antlers dining room—the original dining room—was [illegible] but pretty. The markets were scoured for delicacies, and I guess that cooking was about as good then as now. The company was [illegible] and the speeches very good. Dr. Strickler was mayor then and I think presided. Anyhow I know that he made a speech for I recall an anecdote he told.

It was one about the railroad man who declared that the bad [illegible] crossing a cow with a railroad train [illegible] proves its breed [illegible] farmer's cow the animal improves in value a great many times.

The great Tesla has again electrified the world. That is not a joke. Tesla is all the time electrifying something. [illegible] that he has astonished the world. It has been a long time since he did it the last time, not that Tesla has not been trying, but this time he made the tongues and the heads bob a little. Even [illegible] I have been a reader of those interesting Sunday [illegible] New York Journal and World, I have read the most extraordinary things about Tesla. I have seen him pictured with flames of fire wreathing him, standing in his laboratory, etc. Then I have read of Marconi and others who announce something, and a few days after it is learned that Tesla has done all those things before but has not thought it worth while to mention it. I have read this Mars business, all that I could find, and it sounds à la Tesla. There are movements [illegible] he explains them. Nothing as to whether they are regular or what their nature [illegible] how it is with the [illegible] out in the doctor business a physician who would make an announcement like that and not tell something about it or what instruments he used, so that others [illegible] would be laughed at [illegible] paper notoriety, because my experience with him was just the reverse. He came, a dark young man, was feted and gave [illegible] to those who met him. Then he retired quietly to his work in a laboratory that he had [illegible] strictly to his own business. It was different with us newspaper fellows, we wanted to be "showed." We called on [illegible] got Tesla [illegible] I got it done to me courteously, but it was the icy heart, and it did all others. One day a young fellow connected with a poor little sheet, who could not [illegible] an interview with a statesman [illegible] got a brilliant idea. He sent in his card to the great man with the magic words "New York Journal." Instantly the doors swung open, the gates came off. After a time the astounded youth did also. He was loaded to the gunwales but there was no way to unload the vessel. I never heard of any astonishing things from that interview. After that we local country newspaper men dropped out and when Tesla got ready he went away. Now it seems that it was not the top of Pike's Peak that was getting Tesla's talk, it was Mars. The laboratory still stands creaking in the wind. Perhaps it is going to see the greatest achievement of the new century if the electrician comes back to hold more converse with the Martians.

A friend of mine thinks he is the unluckiest dog that lives. He demonstrates it by something that happened the past week. A fellow back east owed him say twenty and he wanted it badly. How he figured along before Christmas that if that money would only come he would [illegible] many things for this person or that. It did not come. The other day he [illegible] it. Also there was a small letter in it an envelope. The small letter showed [illegible] for ten days, not having been properly directed and then returned to the writer. It contained the information that the writer had enclosed the twenty owed. The big letter also contained the announcement that the money had been sent [illegible] but after it was returned the writer had decided to make use of it again in buying Christmas presents.

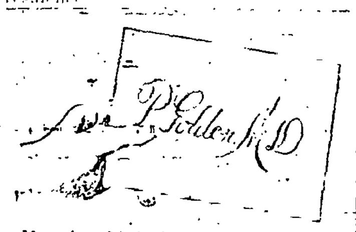
PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY

The Colorado Springs Philharmonic society, which recently chose a new conductor in the person of Mr. George Crampton, the eminent vocalist, and director of this city and Denver, seems to have put on new life and gives promise of soon rounding into first-class form for the concert work. The selection of Mr. Crampton has met with the approval of the musical people of the city.

The members of the chorus are very enthusiastic and believe that under such an able leader the work of the season will prove most interesting and profitable. Mr. Crampton took charge last Monday night and conducted a very satisfactory rehearsal. The chorus has already been increased by the addition of several new voices and a number of first-class singers are expected to join tomorrow night when the next [illegible] being held regularly in the Perkins Fine Arts hall on Monday nights [illegible] Mr. Crampton [illegible] coming to Colorado Springs shortly for permanent residence.



No other M. D. has so many cures to his credit. No other M. D. has made so many wonderful cures. So-called "hopeless" cases, chronic cases, "incurable" cases have all been cured, not once or twice, but thousands of times, by the use of that remarkable remedy

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people thought he would go into consumption," writes Mrs. [illegible] of [illegible] "In the spring of 1898 he took measles [illegible] caught cold, [illegible] such terrible coughing spells [illegible] grew [illegible] alarmed, but looked [illegible] bursting of a blood vessel or a hemorrhage [illegible] After three days [illegible] weak too [illegible] with us on the same floor [illegible] went to the other end of the [illegible] case to a druggist [illegible] of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husband's recovery was remarkable [illegible] in three days after he began using [illegible] Golden Medical Discovery [illegible]"

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter [illegible] Every letter [illegible] private and sacredly confidential. All answers are sent in plain envelopes without any printing upon them. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

EDDY'S SIGNALS

New York, Jan. 12.—William A. Eddy of Bayonne, N. J., says that since 1892 he has drawn from his kite wire hundreds of electric signals, both regular and irregular, which may have come from some planet and that the signals have been usually in groups of three, regularly timed like a Morse sounder. When the ends of the kite-sustained steel wires are separated by silk strands the sparks jump at 12 second intervals. Then there are mysterious disappearances of all electric action for several minutes. These electric sparks come from a high point in the air but near to the low tension electric currents of trolley and live wires.

H. [illegible] ... a series of measurements of these spark lengths. He does not believe that the Morse sounders affect his wire because the [illegible] electricity sticks to its wire and does not radiate to unknown distances, so far as known, as do the high-tension sparks used in wireless telegraphy and the same high tension sparks drawn by him from the clouds.

Mr. Eddy says that these spark signals may come from an outer planet because electricity travels at the rate of 190,000 miles a second and is as tireless as light, which travels 188,300 miles a second as measured by a rapidly revolving toothed wheel. Great variability in effect is produced when there is apparently no change whatever in the condition of the upper air, so far as known.

Mr. Eddy has been trying to decipher these signals since 1892. It is also to be noted that Tesla's signals come from Pike's Peak and at a high point in the air. Mr. Eddy points out that electricity is superior to light because an information can be transmitted while light suffuses around a dark shadow, especially if the shadow is of smaller diameter.

CONSIDERING THE TREATY

Washington, Jan. 12.—Official information has reached the state department to the effect that the Hay-Pauncefote treaty as amended by the United States senate is now under consideration by the British cabinet officials with a view to finally determining whether the instrument in its amended form shall be agreed to or not. Beyond the fact that the document itself is now before the officials for final action the state department is not advised, and there is no information at hand as to the probable result of the conference now going on. That it is actually taken up gives promise that an answer one way or the other will be speedily forthcoming and that there will be no long drawn out delay over the negotiations.

The fact that the treaty is now being actively considered in London naturally has excited much speculation as to the final outcome, but the state department is unable to confirm any of the rumors as to its probable acceptance. There is quite a prevailing feeling [illegible] expressed, by those who have followed the recent course of affairs, that the indications are favorable to an acceptance. It was pointed out in this connection by an official that if a rejection was contemplated it probably would have been done at once, whereas the delay of about two weeks since the amended treaty reached the London foreign office gave evidence that there was a desire on the part of the cabinet officials there to consider the matter with much deliberation in the hope of bringing the two governments into agreement.

PINGREE'S CASE

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 12.—The motion of ex-Governor Pingree's attorney to dismiss the contempt proceedings brought against the ex-governor because of certain criticisms of the Ingham county circuit court and prosecutor in an interview with a Detroit paper came up in the circuit court today. The motion for dismissal alleged lack of jurisdiction on the part of the court.

Attorney Stevenson, for ex-Governor Pingree, in support of his claim of no jurisdiction raised two objections, that the governor as one of the co-ordinate branches of the state government could not be in contempt of another co-ordinate branch, the judiciary, and that the statutes limit the power of the court to punish for contempt which is committed in its presence or about a matter pending in court and that the language complained of was not within these provisions.

Judge Wisner overruled both objections and gave the respondent exceptions to his rulings, so that the case may be taken to the supreme court at once. The contempt proceedings were then continued until February 4.

MANILA SCHOOLS

Manila, Jan. 12.—The arguments on the sections of the school bill allowing religious teachings in schools were continued today. Dr. Burgos urged the commission to consider the advantages it would give Catholics, on account of the church's overwhelming preponderance.

Judge Taft explained that this legislation was experimental. If it became the instrument of ecclesiastical opposition it would be repealed.

Dr. Burgos replied that it ought to be repealed now. The Filipinos, he said, had had enough of the results of religious instruction in the schools.

Judge Taft contended that it was impossible to judge of the new system at haphazard or by the results of another system. He believed things would be accomplished under the present which were impossible under the former regime. He asked whether it was not impolitic to take action which would unnecessarily shock the feelings of the Catholic people.

The doctor replied that it was better to eliminate now a section which was bad and certain to create difficulties.

Commissioner Henry C. Ide asked which course would satisfy the greatest number of people.

Dr. Burgos, in reply, quoted the declarations of the Malolos congress and Federal party in favor of the separation of church and state.

VETERAN'S COMMISSION

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 12.—A veteran's commission has been appointed by veterans of the Spanish-American war to take steps to secure from congress travel pay for the journey from Manila to San Francisco. It is contended that other regiments were paid travel pay from the points named, but the rule was changed before the Washington boys were ordered home. The travel pay amounts to about $300 per man with a proportionate advance for the officers and non-coms.

ASSAULT AT LEAVENWORTH

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 12.—Miss Eva Roth, a well-known young woman of this city, was assaulted on South Broadway, the fashionable residence street of the city, at 6:40 p. m. by Fred Alexander, colored, who had followed her for a distance of 12 blocks. Alexander, who failed to accomplish his object, was arrested shortly after the occurrence and taken to the office of chief of police, which was quickly surrounded by an angry mob, numbering nearly 1,000, breathing threats of vengeance.

While the mob was trying to force its way into the station the officers took Alexander through an alleyway when he was placed in a hack and driven to the Kansas state penitentiary at Lansing. He will be kept there until the officers deem it safe to bring him to the city.

Miss Roth recognized her assailant and identified him to the officers. Alexander has been watched by the police lately, as he is the suspected murderer of Miss Pearl Forbes, who was assaulted and killed Nov. 6 three blocks west of the scene of tonight's attempt.

NEW JERSEY CORPORATIONS

New York, Jan. 12.—In the annual report of the state board of assessors which has just been submitted to the New Jersey legislature, it is stated that 6,065 corporations organized under the laws of the state of New Jersey have paid into the treasury during the last year the sum of $2,051,209.

As the corporation tax rate in this state is one-tenth of one per cent on the paid in capital stock, or $1 tax for every $1,000 capital paid in, the 6,065 corporations must have paid tax upon $2,051,209,000 paid in capital stock.

The state corporation department estimates that the 6,065 corporations assessed have a paid in capital stock of 20 per cent of the authorized capital stock. If the tax of $2,051,209, which represents $2,051,209,000 paid in capital stock, is 20 per cent of the authorized capital stock the authorized capital stock must be five times $2,051,209,000 or the sum of $10,256,047,000.

The increase in the number of miscellaneous corporations assessed during the year over that of 1899 is 1,426, although in reality 1,087 new companies were added to the list in 1900.

The difference of 871 companies represents those whose charters were forfeited by the proclamation of Governor Voorhees in May last for non-payment of taxes.

SISTER SECURED PARDON

Indianapolis, Jan. 12.—Gov. Mount, who retires from office next Monday, today pardoned Wm. W. Kennedy, who was sentenced to prison for life in 1887 for the murder of David Baker at Greensburg, Indiana. Kennedy was paroled in 1897 and has for several months been attached to the sanitary service in Havana.

The case attracted national attention because of the efforts of Kate Kennedy, the convicted man's sister, to secure his pardon. Since his conviction she has appealed to every Indiana governor but without avail until today. Miss Kennedy, in man's garb, traveled over the country in an endeavor to locate the real murderers. She tramped her way and never missed an opportunity to interview tramps and criminals with the view to ascertaining the whereabouts of the man for whose crime she claimed her brother was suffering.

ATHLETE INJURED

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 12.—William F. Cooper, a young athlete of this city, while performing a simple acrobatic feat at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night fell accidentally and now lies in the general hospital completely paralyzed from his shoulders down. He fell on the back of his neck and it is thought that he has either dislocated or broken his spine about the first dorsal vertebrae. Physicians who are attending the case are inclined to doubt his recovery. An operation will be performed today.

FRENCH CANADIANS

Montreal, Jan. 12.—La Verite, the recognized organ of the ultra-Catholic French Canadians, publishes a threatening article against English rule in Canada. The article says:

"There is a limit to human patience. It is said that England will always guard Quebec. We say that she will guard Quebec just as long as the French Canadians wish her to and not an instant longer and if the fanatics of Ontario and elsewhere were not blinded by passion they would comprehend it also. If the insults of which we have been made the constant object on the part of the English element of this country do not soon come to an end, and if they continue to reward our loyalty toward the English throne by covering us with injuries and flooding us with threats, there will be an explosion of anger among the French Canadians which will astonish those who are accustomed to regard us as 'good sheep.'

"And what will be the inevitable result of a series of riots, of serious troubles between the French Canadians and the English? The French Canadians have only to make a sign to Uncle Sam and in 15 days an American army would occupy Quebec, Montreal and Toronto. We certainly do not hope to see those things, but they will come if the campaign of insult does not cease."

STEAMER AGROUND

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 12.—A special to the Times from Port Townsend, Wash., says:

The fate of the steamer Tillamook, which was recently reported as probably lost is now confirmed. The first authentic news was received by the steamer Senator this morning. Thanksgiving day about 5 o'clock in the afternoon with the sea perfectly calm and the captain and both pilots on the bridge, the Tillamook was run high and dry on the north end of Wood Island, just south of Kodiak island. Her 15 passengers and crew were all safely landed, together with their baggage and the steamer's freight. Everything was taken in small boats to Kodiak.

BIDDING FOR THE FIGHT

Kansas City, Jan. 12.—President Loomis of Convention hall placed himself in wire communication with Wm. A. Brady today, regarding Brady's request for a bid for the Jeffries-Ruhlin fight, booked to take place at Cincinnati. The hall directors have practically left the matter in the hands of Mr. Loomis, who is proceeding upon the supposition that the contest will be held in Kansas City. What proposition has been made by the Convention hall people is not known.

REICHSTAG DEBATE

Berlin, Jan. 12.—In the reichstag today Herr Fischer, Social Democrat, seized the opportunity of the debate on the home office estimates to make a violent attack on Count von Posadowsky-Wehner, the secretary of the interior, in connection with the recent 12,000 marks scandal (that amount having been contributed by certain manufacturers for the furtherance of the anti-strike bill.) He proposed the appointment of a parliamentary commission to investigate the political and financial relations between the home office and the Central Union of German manufacturers and other organizations.

Count von Posadowsky, in reply, said he hoped his post would always be occupied by a man as honestly anxious as himself to ameliorate the position of the working people. He assumed full responsibility for the action under debate and had no thought of relinquishing his office so long as he enjoyed the confidence of the monarchy.

EULOGIES OF DAVIS

Washington, Jan. 12.—No legislative business of importance was transacted by the senate today. The session was devoted to services held in memory of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis of Minnesota.

The long and distinguished services of the Minnesota senator and the intimate relations he sustained with his colleagues in the senate had endeared him to all and when his demise came every member of the body felt that he had suffered a personal loss.

For many years Mr. Davis served as chairman of the committee on foreign relations, and, in that capacity and in the capacity of the member of the Paris Peace commission, he was intimately identified with the foreign affairs of the government.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the routine morning business Mr. Nelson of Minnesota called up his resolution expressive of the regret of the senate at the death of Senator Davis.

As Mr. Nelson called up the resolution, Mrs. Davis, accompanied by some friends, entered the executive gallery of the senate. In addition several other friends of the late senator occupied seats in the executive gallery during the delivery of the memorial orations.

The speakers of the occasion included Senators Morgan of Alabama, Clark of Wyoming, Lodge of Massachusetts, and Daniel of Virginia, all of whom were associated with Mr. Davis as members of the foreign relations committee. Others who pronounced eulogies upon the late senator were his colleague, Senator Nelson of Minnesota, and his successor, Senator Towne, and Senators Hoar of Massachusetts, Spooner of Wisconsin, McCumber of North Dakota and Foster of Washington.

A BRIDGE CASE SETTLED

Chicago, Jan. 12.—In a sealed verdict rendered in the United States circuit court today, the Lafayette Bridge company of Lafayette, Ind., is awarded $24,800 in its suit against the city of Streator, Ill., the amount being the contract price of a bridge across the Vermillion at that point. The contract was awarded in September, 1897. The [illegible] charges of bribery of aldermen and unlawful combination among various bridge contractors for the purpose of securing a high price for the work and to shut out the competition of other concerns. One alderman admitted having received $500 for his vote in favor of the contract. The bridge company sued for $40,000.

KRUEGER' HEALTH

The Hague, Jan. 12.—Doctors Vinkhuysen and Coert say Mr. Krueger is completely restored to health. Divine service tomorrow will, however, be held at his hotel as he does not wish to venture out in the [illegible] weather.

Berlin, Jan. 12.—Nothing is known here to confirm the Paris report, published in the United States that ex-President Krueger is seriously ill and in danger. He had practically recovered from his illness January 6, when his physicians ceased issuing bulletins regarding his health.

JAPAN'S OBJECTIONS

Berlin, Jan. 12.—A dispatch from Peking says Japan's objections to the United States proposal to transfer to some country other than China the negotiations for a settlement of the questions at issue between the powers and China, were that for a community outside of the Chinese empire, Chinese statesmen would be invited whose presence in China is at present necessary, and that a knowledge of Chinese affairs such as is possessed by the accredited representatives at Peking would be indispensible.

HAWAII GOVERNMENT

Washington, Jan. 12.—Senator Warren of Wyoming, today introduced a bill amending the act establishing a government for Hawaii by providing for a district court in Hawaii, the district judge, the district attorney and the marshal to be appointed by the president and to hold office for six years. In addition to the ordinary jurisdiction of a district court the amendment provides that it shall have jurisdiction in all cases cognizable in a district court of the United States.

Winter maneuvers for German troops have been planned for the end of the month in the vicinity of Berlin, Potsdam and Spandau.

DR. ELLISON'S Attenuated Sulphur

For the Cure of Lung and Throat Diseases, and His Special Treatment for Chronic Maladies, has Built up a Reputation and Gained for Him the Lucrative Practice He now Enjoys. He Gives Free Consultation and Examination Every Day at his Office 24 North Tejon Street.

By persistent effort and close application to scientific investigation, Dr. Ellison has learned how to cure chronic diseases. He desires an opportunity to convince those who suffer from the disease he treats as a specialty that obstinate diseases can be cured by the use of his special treatment. The doctor's discoveries have won a shining name in Colorado Springs by the power of good they have exerted over insidious diseases, such as consumption, asthma, bronchitis, catarrh, and the chronic diseases which men, women and children are subject to. The motto at this office is: The greatest good to the greatest number of sick people for the least amount of expense consistent with good services. The mission is to heal the sick. Over ten years have been spent in perfecting this successful method, so that those who suffer can be assured that they will secure the best possible services. Dr. Ellison's sulphur treatment for lung and throat diseases can be taken at the patient's home. Those who can not call should write. Office 24 N. Tejon street (over Craigue's grocery store). Office hours, week days, mornings 9 to 12; afternoons 2 to 5; evenings, 7 to 8. SUNDAYS, 2 to 3.

DR. ELLISON'S SULPHUR COUGH CURE

This remedy has long been used by the doctor in his practice for coughs incident to consumption, bronchitis, croup, diphtheria, colds, hoarseness, loss of voice, sore throat, whooping cough, influenza, etc. It will not dry up a cough or cold, but aids nature in throwing off the poisonous mucus produced from diseased lungs or a cold, heals the membrane and restores nature to a healthy condition. It is prompt in its action and absolutely harmless. There is no morphine, opium, ipecac or injurious drug in its composition. In croup, whooping cough and diphtheria it liquifies the tough, tenacious mucus and aids its expulsion from the system. Price, 50 cents a bottle at the office, 24 North Tejon street (over Craigue's grocery store).

The Test of Time And Experience

Shows That Many Who Have Suffered From Lung Trouble

Having taken Dr. Shepard's treatment live in any climate they choose safely. This may seem an extravagant statement, yet it is true. Names of those cured of consumption by this method and who have lived in their eastern homes from six months to twelve years, and names of those cured or now under treatment in this city are gladly furnished at Dr. Shepard's office, Rooms 1 and 2 Davie Building next to Alamo Hotel.

Those who have been here one or more years and who have not been cured by the climate are especially invited to Investigate for Themselves Now.

There is only one termination to this disease when the usual methods are employed.

Is Dr. Shepard's Method a Cure?

Come, investigate and see.

Net Losses In New York Stocks Predominated Over the Gains.

EARLY MARKET WAS STRONG

Local Traction Group Led by Manhattan Dominated the Speculative Sentiment Gold Exports.

New York, Jan. 12. Today will go down [illegible] one of the record days which have become so frequent of late. Speculative sentiment took on the nervous, high strung characteristic which have so frequently caused wide fluctuation in some stock or group of stocks which were affected by announcements or development or a rumor of some [illegible] ment. Today it was the local traction group, led by Manhattan. The [illegible] fluctuations of this stock made it evident that the violence of the movement was in large part due to the existence of a large short interest [illegible] acute [illegible] carried the stock up [illegible] points with [illegible] sudden advance in the [illegible] was taken advantage of for very heavy realizing [illegible] Manhattan [illegible] broke rather sharply with the result that the closing was decidedly weak and with net losses predominating over gains.

The early market was strong and animated under the continuing influence of the advance in the Delaware and Hudson dividend and the large and concentrated buying in that stock and others of the anthracite group. After the realizing movement invited by the opening advance the bulls rallied the market and brought forward new points of strength. The coalers, Union Pacific, [illegible] the grangers, Tin Plate and a number of low priced railroad stocks had periods of strength. In the late realizing movement the steel stocks developed special weakness [illegible] of a war of competition between the great powers in the trade. National Tube and Steel and Wire each broke [illegible]

[illegible] deposits of the banks was unexpectedly large. But the bank statement was [illegible] practically assured that next week will see the beginning of gold [illegible] experts estimate that the movement will reach from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000. It was asserted in Wall street today that arrangements had already been made for the shipment of a considerable amount on next Wednesday's steamer.

"Broke their Back"

Broke whose back? Why, Sedan, Ernestine, and Defender? Who did it? Why, investors who took in from 100 to 300 per cent. profit in thirty days. Sedan sold up to 19½; Ernestine, 5⅝; Defender, 2½. Now Sedan is 12⅛; Ernestine, 3½; Defender, 1⅛.

They are slightly disfigured but still in the ring. They will all go back to the old prices in thirty days. Those who sold out are buying back to-day. Don't delay if you want to make big profits.

"There are others" which will go higher, namely: Zoe, Gold Dollar, Lexington and Pointer.

THE STAGE
MUSICAL FARCE — COMIC OPERA — PLAIN FARCE

MARIE DRESSLER is the attraction at the Victoria Music hall in George V. Hobart's musical absurdity "Miss Printt." Unless all signs fail she will remain there for some time, for, while the piece is not an especially dignified literary effort, it suits Miss Dressler exceedingly well, and, what is more, it suits the people whom Miss Dressler suits. Mr. Hammerstein, the proprietor of the Victoria, ought also to be suited, inasmuch as he is accused of having written some of the music.

Along the Rialto, where one may hear anything he cares to hear, it is said that Marie Dressler is awfully jealous of May Irwin and that May Irwin in turn is awfully jealous of Marie Dressler. This is probably not true. Indeed, it is too absurd to be true. May Irwin has a little niche which no one seems anxious to occupy and in which she is supreme, but when one considers the two women as comediennes it is nothing less than laughable to compare her to Marie Dressler, who is, taken all in all, the funniest low comedy woman on the American stage. May Irwin's coon songs are all right, but there are those who think that, even in that specialty she is not so good as Miss Dressler. Certainly she is not so graceful or as good a dancer or as good an actress.

There is no reason why Marie Dressler should not become a paying star. The conditions which make for that ambition have existed for a number of years, but it is not the simplest thing in the world to get a vehicle suitable for the exploitation of the abilities of a female funmaker. That Miss Dressler's friends have fully realized, and that they think they have discovered in "Miss Printt." I cannot unqualifiedly indorse that view of the matter, although there is little doubt that Hobart's effort will serve Miss Dressler's purpose until something which may prove a more exact fit can be secured.

In "Miss Printt" Miss Dressler is assigned the role of a somewhat peculiar young woman who has bought a newspaper in a rather sleepy town with the commendable purpose of waking the place up. The sporting editor is left [illegible] things up to the queen's taste. Then the trouble begins, but it is funny trouble, as it always is in these impossible musical farces. The newspaper men manage to find sweethearts and the newspaper woman manages to capture the lawyer whom she knocks out with a boxing glove in the first act. It is only necessary to tell that much of the "plot" of "Miss Printt" to demonstrate that the man who would attempt to follow it out logically would be certain to become a speedy victim of paresis.

Aside from Miss Dressler, the great personal hit of "Miss Printt" was made by Thomas Evans as the sporting editor. Miss Zella Frank was exceedingly cute, and Miss Jobyna Howland was surprisingly good as the social upstart. This is all the more surprising in view of the fact that this young lady has for years been associated with the "legitimate," her last engagement being with "Rupert of Hentzau," in which she was Queen Flavia.

Jeff De Angelis may or may not be the greatest operatic comedian in this country, but it is certain that there is no other man in his chosen field of effort who is able to get so many laughs out of an audience in a given time. De Angelis, too, is an exceedingly shrewd fellow, for, while some of the funny men are looking for successors to "The Bohemian Girl" and "Robin Hood," De Angelis goes about with his little dark lantern in search of something containing unlimited opportunities for his peculiar style of funmaking. He has found such a work in "A Royal Rogue," in which he is now appearing at the Broadway theater, and the people who pay to see him in the hope that they will be forced temporarily into forgetfulness of their troubles are not disappointed. Indeed, the first act of "A Royal Rogue" is about the most continuously laughable thing in comic opera or musical comedy, or whatever you may care to call it, that has struck Broadway in many a year. The second act is not so good in that respect, for, while its moving idea is just as funny, it is worked and reworked to such an extent that it becomes tedious. Still even the second act is more funny than the best act of many a comic opera, and De Angelis may congratulate himself upon having secured a work which fits him like a glove.

De Angelis' dances, of course. Nobody else dances precisely as he does, and he is one of the few men on the American stage who are able to get hearty laughs from an audience with a few eccentric steps. De Angelis is noted for his topical songs and he has several excellent ones in "A Royal Rogue." It goes without saying that he sings them exceedingly well.

The cast of "A Royal Rogue" is not startlingly strong, although it is fairly acceptable, as will be seen by a glance at the following names:

Baptiste Ballou ... Jefferson De Angelis
Touval, Pillot, Bastarc, Cadaus (Members of the Chapeau-Rouge society) ... Henry Norman, Charles Duncan, John Hadley, Leonard Savoy
Cadet Georges Girodet ... F. Newton-Lloyd
La Blanc ... Harold Vizard
Captain Dubois of the War office ... George Holland
Lieutenant Chambois ... J. Conduit
Prefect of Police ... Frederic K. Logan
First Gendarme ... George Schofield
Servant ... C. V. Clark
Stephanie, Ballou's daughter ... Josephine Hall
Mme. Girodet ... Eva Davenport
Mme. Duclos ... Hilda Hollins
Belaine, Coralie (Theatre Varieties) ... Adele Bray, Maud Poole
Mme. Hilaire ... Emily Francis

The book of "A Royal Rogue" was written by Charles Klein, the lyrics were furnished by Grant Stewart and the score was composed by W. T. Francis. I had never before heard of Mr. Francis in connection with comic opera, but he ought to be a success in that line, for he evidently goes in to make "jingly" melodies without any regard for what the critics may say of his shortcomings. In other words, he has endeavored to please the public which pays its money to see the show and not the critics, who do not pay. At any rate, he has evolved a number of "pattery" numbers which are certain to become popular with the millions of persons who are willing to admit that classical music is beyond their comprehension. The lyrics by Mr Stewart will do on a pinch, although they are not "in it" with those of a dozen American versifiers who have done similar work in recent years. The book by Mr. Klein is, like the music, intended solely to please, and, as the "real comic opera" bugaboo has been ignored, it does please. Altogether, De Angelis was in great luck when he struck "A Royal Rogue."

"The House That Jack Built," a farce in three acts by George H. Broadhurst, the author of "What Happened to Jones," "Why Smith Left Home" and other successful plays of equally light caliber, has left the Madison Square theater in this city. Its stay for even two weeks must have depended solely upon the willingness of the managers to fly in the face of fate and the wishes of the public, for of all the hopeless entertainments I have seen in New York during the past two seasons "The House That Jack Built" is about the worst. The remarkable thing about this farce is that it would be thought to be very funny if one were to tell its story in some detail. The scheme of the piece is excellent, but the working out is almost painful. In other words, there is nothing in "The House That Jack Built" to grip one's interest, and [illegible]. Besides, it is a play in which one man is practically the whole thing, and, while Mr. Thomas A. Wise, the gentleman who is supposed to furnish all of the fun, does his work very well, he is handicapped by the role, its offensive coarseness and its objectionable monotony. Whether or not "The House That Jack Built" can be whipped into shape remains to be seen. I very much doubt it. If, however, Mr. Broadhurst would take the same outline, with a few unimportant modifications, and write an entirely new play upon it, it ought to prove a winner. It has been alleged that "The House That Jack Built" is a practical rewrite of "The New Wing." If that is true, which it probably isn't, it does no credit to Mr. Broadhurst's judgment.

The following excellent people are wasted on "The House That Jack Built:"

Willie Slab, who papered the house ... Mr. Thomas A. Wise
Sir Edward Sinkinson, an authority on mural [illegible] ... Mr. Charles Cherry
Dr. Jack, who built the house ... Mr. John Findlay
Percy Huntington, short of stature, but long on romance ... Mr. George Henry Trader
[illegible] ... Mr. Fred W. Peters
Bedford Madison, Jr., an old [illegible] ... Mr. Roy Fairchild
General Hito, an American officer in the Japanese army ... Mr. Harrison Armstrong
Herman, valet to Bedford Madison ... Mr. Alexis [illegible]
Seth Troutly, an architect ... Mr. Frank Short
Gladys, a servant ... Mr. Albert Amberg
Mrs. Dooley, a widow with regrets and hopes ... Mrs. Annie Yeamans [illegible], Jack's daughter ... Miss Brandon Douglas
Japonica, General Hito's ward ... Miss Anita Bridger
Florence, Mrs. Dooley's daughter ... Miss Grace Dudley
Lily Linton, a vaudeville artist ... Miss Jennie Yeamans

A PITCHER'S TRICK.

In a talk on baseball matters in general recently Jimmy Callahan said to a reporter: "Sometimes crowds think a pitcher is foolish in throwing so often to first base to hold a man close to the sack. Sometimes they are right, but more often they are wrong. I was hooted at several times in Boston for throwing five times to first to catch Hamilton. That was during the year he was having trouble with his knee. You see, Hamilton, because of his speed, used to take one step more off first base than any other runner. I noticed this and figured that if I could get him sliding back to first a few times I would have his knee in trouble. Rather inhuman, perhaps, but all's fair in baseball inside of the rules. I threw over to first five times, and Hamilton slid back every time. After that there was nothing to fear from him, for his knee could not stand the pressure, and he stuck closer to the base."

STUART ROBSON'S HAND ORGAN.

Stuart Robson has an unpicturesque hand organ which, though it is the sort that Italians play in the street, cost Mr. Robson nearly $50,000. It is the only reminiscence he has of an opera called "The Cadi," in which Thomas Seabrooke was the star and Mr. Robson the angel. And Mr. Robson does not care for hand organ music.

HOW MAURICE DALY STARTED IN LIFE

Maurice Daly, the famous billiard expert, was telling a reporter how he started in life as a player of the great indoor game. This is what he said:

"My father was a hotel keeper in the western part of New York state, and one of his boarders was an old man we called 'Uncle Jerry,' who was proprietor of the billiard hall in the town. In those days it was almost a crime to be seen in a public billiard room. It may have been the boyish inclination in me to do something other folks thought I ought not to do that led me to get into Uncle Jerry's room whenever the opportunity offered. I was fascinated with the game, but the old man would not allow a boy like me to indulge in it. By a strategic move I at last won his consent, and he became my first teacher. Jerry was getting feeble, and I was allowed to clean up the room every morning, but on going to the room very early I had a lot of fun and practice all by myself until I saw the old man coming down the street. He was badly crippled with rheumatism, and as soon as I saw him the balls and cues were put away, and on his arrival the job of cleaning the place would be well on to completion. He was a sly old fox, however, and his suspicions were awakened by the [illegible] being returned to their proper place. So one morning he came by a roundabout way and caught me. He was so angry that he fired me out of the place, and it was a long while before I got back into his good graces again. But finally he yielded and at last gave me work as a marker. From that day to this—and that was nearly 40 years ago, I have played billiards nearly every day. It is a matter of practice, and I play better today than I ever played before in my life."

JEFFRIES Versus RUHLIN
THE COMING BATTLE FOR THE PREMIERSHIP OF PUGILISM

THE prospects of a heavyweight contest for the world's championship to take place next month has naturally stirred up the followers of boxing. While patrons of the ring would have preferred that the battle should be between Jim Jeffries and Bob Fitzsimmons, as the latter still refuses to again don the mitts with the champion, everybody is satisfied that Gus Ruhlin is logically the next best man entitled to the ex-boiler maker's attention.

Those persons who do not regard the Akron lad as in the same class with Jeffries because of the latter's defeat by Fitzsimmons in six rounds at Madison Square Garden last summer are looking at the matter from a one sided point of view. Their argument is that Fitz easily defeated Ruhlin, while Jeffries won from the Cornishman. Now, aside from the fact that comparisons of boxers by means of analogy has been proved of no value time and time again, there were several circumstances in connection with those fights which must be taken into consideration before an opinion is rendered.

First of all, Fitzsimmons has all along stuck to his statement that when he met Jeffries at Coney Island he was drugged and that it was due to the chemicals administered to him that he lost the championship. Men who pooh poohed the story when Fitzsimmons gave it out came to the conclusion, after they witnessed the wonderful ability shown by Fitz last summer against Sharkey and Ruhlin, that there might be more in the statement than they were willing to credit at first.

During the whole of that encounter the Cornishman did not act like himself, nor did he display an iota of the cunning and ring generalship for which he is noted. As a matter of fact, right after the fight many of the spectators said he acted as if he had been "doped."

Last summer Fitzsimmons proved conclusively that he was not to be reckoned among the "has beens," in spite of his advancing years and bald pate.

Although Ruhlin succumbed to "Ruby Robert" after a showing that was disappointing to the admirers of the Ohioan, yet there are several facts which may account for this. During his contest with Fitz Ruhlin showed but little of the aggressiveness and science of which he had a short time before proved himself to be master in his bout with Tom Sharkey. In fact, many witnesses of the Fitz-Ruhlin fight were of the opinion that the latter was badly overtrained.

This might easily have been the case. Billy Madden had begun to get his protege into condition early in the year. Several bouts in which he was to take part were unavoidably postponed or declared off, so that when Ruhlin faced Fitz last August he had been in training continuously for about six months. If during all that time he had simply been getting into trim for the go with the Cornishman, all might have been well; but, as a matter of fact, he had on several occasions during that period been trained to the hour for fights which did or did not take place, which was a very different matter, as any athlete will easily understand. It is consequently easy to comprehend that when he faced the Cornishman he was in no condition to undertake the strain of a bruising encounter.

Thus it will be seen that, whereas at first sight there may appear to be a good deal of data by which to compare the relative merits of Jeffries and Ruhlin, their previous battles afford very little useful information.

When the two men fought a draw several years ago at San Francisco neither displayed much more science than would be exhibited in a bout between a couple of longshoremen. Since then both have improved wonderfully. Jeffries has shown that he can withstand almost any amount of punishment, and when it becomes necessary to polish off an antagonist in a short space of time he displays aggressiveness and punching ability of a high order.

Ruhlin has had better facilities for learning the art of boxing than almost any other living pugilist. For several years he has been under the management of Billy Madden, who brought out John L. Sullivan and other well known heavyweights. Madden has taught Ruhlin to use the straight arm blow, which is so much more effective than the wild swings indulged in by all novices. Ruhlin was also for several months last year in Corbett's training camp when that past master of the science of self defense with the fists was training for his go with Jeffries. From the Californian Ruhlin picked up a great deal of useful information, especially learning how to use his feet to save himself from many a dangerous blow.

Ruhlin and Jeffries have now had a long rest, as Ruhlin's recent six round bout with Peter Maher and the necessary training were only in the nature of preliminary preparation for the battle next month. They ought both to step into the ring ready to fight for their lives; and if the betting odds point to Jeffries as the favorite it will only be because he is the present champion.

If the immense amount of interest that is being taken in cycling contests this winter be any indication of the enthusiasm that will be manifested in the sport next summer, then it is very evident that the game will not only regain all its lost popularity, but will become one of the leading athletic attractions of the year.

To a great many people indoor cycle races are far more interesting than those held on outdoor tracks. The covered coliseum rings are so small that the spectators, being at no time far from the riders, can see their every movement. The fascination that an element of danger has for most people is always in evidence at these indoor meets, and this, together with the electric lights, the brightness of the women's apparel and the peculiar sensation always caused by seeing the riders whirling at top speed around the bowllike circle of boards, brings out many people who would not find any interest in an outdoor meet.

There is another point that has made these indoor meets very popular, especially those held in New York, and that is the promptness with which the various events have been run off. There have been few tedious delays, and the audiences have been let out in good time. This is a feature of which the managers of outdoor tracks would do well to make a note.

Motor paced races promise to be an important factor in cycling affairs in the future. These events are generally exciting and always interesting. There is one difficulty in connection with them that has troubled the riders ever since the introduction of paced racing—the equalizing of the pacing factor. This inequality was very noticeable during the recent 15 mile race between Harry Elkes and Jimmy Michael. Both followed pace without a hitch or break, and the Welshman displayed on two or three occasions his wonderful ability to change from one machine to another without losing a second. Michael's machines, however, were not as fast as the one used by the Glens Falls lad, though nominally of the same horsepower, and he lost. I do not say that Elkes would not have won out anyhow, for Elkes could have taken faster pace had it been necessary, but the real ability of the riders was not shown.

That race, by the way, proved Elkes to be a marvel as regards cycling. The week before he had, with a partner, won a six day team race which was so grueling that such well known experts at that game as Charley Miller and "Dutch" Waller were forced to quit. In this event Elkes displayed both staying qualities and sprinting ability of the highest order. Then, but one week later, he went in and in phenomenally fast time won a 15 mile paced race from one of the best men in the business.

For those who are fond of analyzing such matters Elkes and Michael form an interesting study. These two riders are probably the fastest cyclists behind pace in the world. Whereas Elkes is tall and thin, the Welshman is but a shade over 5 feet in height and is well put together for his size. Where do they get their wonderful pedaling ability?

A close examination of their muscles should prove an interesting study for a scientist.

CHARLES F. EDWARDES.

ROWING MATTERS.

Reports from various sections of the country show that unusual preparations are being made even at this early date for the next rowing season both by colleges and the boat clubs. The action of Jack Rumohr in resigning from the Harlem Rowing club of New York and announcing that he will go back to his home at Toronto is plainly pointed out as a move to forestall any action the N. A. A. O. may take. If Rumohr has any idea of rowing as an amateur, he prefers to take his chances in a trial or investigation by the Canadian association.

It was known in professional rowing circles last season that, while training Rumohr at New York for the national regatta, Eddie Durnan took quite a fancy to him, and they may row double next season. The Lynch brothers of Halifax will be in the field again in the spring, as Mike, who has lost one of his legs from the knee down, has heard of the remarkable work of Fred Tyler, Jr., Boston Athletic association, and has promised his friends to try his hand again with his brother. It is not generally claimed that Mike was known to be the faster man of the two in singles, but this is vouched for by J. Watson Fraser of the Halifax Herald, who has known them intimately ever since they began to row fast.

Lynch's friends will provide an artificial leg and otherwise rig the shell so that he can get the greatest results from the power applied. A race between Durnan and Rumohr of Toronto on one side and the Lynch brothers on the other is among the possibilities of the season.

It has always been a wonder to rowing men that shell models have not cut more of a figure in yacht racing, and now that Mr. Crowninshield is interested in the new cup defender some radical changes may be looked for. Mr. Crowninshield was stroke of the Boston A. A. four that beat the famous Riverside scullers' crew and stroked the B. A. A. eight to victory in many hard fought races. Oarsmen regard him as one of the most finished strokes the club ever turned out.

THE PRINCE AT GOLF.

The Prince of Wales, it seems, is quite unable to appreciate the solemnity of the ancient and royal game of golf. One of the caddies at St. Andrew's can be drawn occasionally into expressing his views upon golfers great and otherwise, upon whom he has attended. He is evidently no respecter of persons, for when his opinion was asked on the respective merits of the prince, Mr. Asquith and Mr. Balfour he replied gravely: "Aye, I mind the names. They'll ha'e muckle to learn. I telled the prince so, but he only laughed. A light heart is very well for cricket, but it's a solemn business in gowf."

A MILE A MINUTE IN AN ICE YACHT.

PEOPLE OF THE STAGE.

W. G. Stewart, the baritone, sings the character of Ned Royster in the new De Koven and Smith opera.

Julia Marlowe has secured the dramatic rights to the successful novel, "The Redemption of David Corson," by the Rev. Charles F. Goss of Cincinnati.

Marie Corelli writes to an American friend that she has so safeguarded her new novel "The Master Christian," that its stage representation will be absolutely impossible. She is determined that it shall never be acted, although her "Sorrows of Satan" has proved so successful in dramatic form that William A. Brady has just sent out a second company to play it.

Clyde Fitch's new play of plain life in a country village, written for production by William A. Brady, is rapidly nearing completion.

Jerome Sykes as Foxy Quiller is meeting with greater success on the road in that comic opera than he had during its run in New York.

Odell Williams is to star in "Pudd'nhead Wilson" next season under the direction of Sam S. Shubert. A London engagement is announced after a limited tour in this country.

Nance O'Neil will play Lady Macbeth in Sydney, Australia.

Julia Marlowe has put in rehearsal her new play, "The Sword of the King."

Gerhardt Hauptmann's new play, "Michael Kramer," was unsuccessfully produced in Berlin recently.

Ethel Barrymore, Estelle Mortimer, Mrs Thomas Whiffen, Fanny Addison Pitt, Sydney Cowell, Kate Ten Eyck, Anita Rothe, H. Reeves-Smith, Edwin Stevens, George W. Howard, Charles Marriott, M. J. Gallagher and William Sumner are in the cast of Clyde Fitch's new play, "Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines."

Ignace Paderewski's future tours will be directed, it is announced, by Mme. Paderewski, who will act as his secretary and business manager. A recent cable rumor had it that the great pianist had been killed in a duel, but this report was promptly denied by M. Paderewski, who is with his wife at Lausanne.

"The Belle of New York" was produced in German at the Central theater, Berlin, recently.

Francisco de Souza, second cousin to the king of Portugal and a concert singer of note on the continent, has arrived from Europe to give a series of concerts here.

Augustus Pitou's new romantic comedy for Chauncey Olcott has been named "Garrett O'Magh."

A daughter of Roland Reed, it is said, is to appear soon upon the stage.

It is reported that Primrose and Dockstader will part after this season and that the latter will head his own company.

Another version of "Nell Gwynn," made by Mrs. C. A. Doremus, was tried by the Girard Avenue theater stock company in Philadelphia recently.

Little Ethel Dyffryn and the Dyffryn trio will head their own company in repertory next season.

One of the best English plays presented in New York this season is "Lady Huntworth's Experiment," now running at Daly's theater.

Mme. Sembrich is to make her first appearance in London in song recitals during May. She will give these recitals at Queen's hall.

When the routine business was completed a social session followed during ... addresses ... by Brothers F. T. Smith, H. M. Booth, and S. C. Kelsey, of Denver, Rev. Brewster, Mayor Robinson and Regent W. P. Hart. This was interspersed with music by Brothers E. R. Stewart, W. Herbert R. Stote, and F. A. Prior. The evening was passed most pleasantly and the council starts the new century under favorable auspices. At the next session another class of eight initiates will present themselves for membership, at which time another social session will be enjoyed. The social feature of this organization has been somewhat neglected in Colorado Springs in the past but it is the intention of the new officers to lay more stress on that portion of the council's duties. Due notice of the next meeting will be given in the columns of this paper.

THE PLAZA HOTEL COLORADO SPRINGS

A Modern Caravansary—The Property of Walter W. and Guy F. Atkinson.

Famous as Colorado Springs has always been for the beauty of its homes and hostelries, the past year has witnessed the addition of many handsome structures, among them the Plaza hotel, owned and built by Walter W. and Guy F. Atkinson.

The site has been most wisely selected, being on the car line and in the best residence section of the city, and yet only a short walk from the business center.

Situated at the southwest corner of North Tejon and Cache la Poudre streets and opposite the reservation of Colorado college it has a location unsurpassed, the site being an ideal one for a hotel, for the park is to be improved by the city, and will always remain an open ground dotted with trees, shrubs and flowers. The building itself as can be seen by the accompanying cut, is of imposing appearance and great architectural beauty, being designed after the old Spanish style with broad overhanging eaves.

The hotel is a solid, well constructed brick edifice, with facades ... streets of light-colored St. Louis ... brick, four stories in height, and frontage of 100 feet on Tejon and 190 feet on Cache la Poudre.

On the ground floor are the rotunda, office, dining room, kitchen, ... and a large, well-arranged drug store, and on the Cache la Poudre side a ... with private entrance and communication from the inside to the hotel.

On the second floor over the rotunda are the parlors, with low windows opening on the veranda, making them particularly pleasant and attractive.

There are 120 guest chambers and 23 private baths connecting with suites, and all the rooms are ... and can be used en suite as desired.

The bed rooms are all large, light and well ventilated, there being no inside rooms, and besides the private baths there is on each floor a public bath room free for the use of guests.

The plumbing is of the latest fashion exposed with nickle-plated fixtures and every sanitary precaution taken.

In the bath rooms are porcelain lined tubs, marble wash-stands and noiseless closets.

The building is entirely lighted by electricity, and it is wired throughout for electric bell service. The Messrs. Atkinson have installed one of the Otis rapid elevators with speed of 200 feet a minute so that their guests may not be annoyed by the vexatious delays that occur in many hotels from the poor elevator service provided.

One of the features of the interior finish is the hardware which is of Barbarr iron and old brass.

The dining room is spacious and cheerful and can comfortably seat one hundred persons. The ceiling is of sheet steel embossed with handsome designs, and the decorations are all in ... with the surroundings.

Special attention will be given to the dining room service, and no expense will be spared in furnishing the cuisine ... and effort will be made to secure the comfort of those who make the Plaza hotel their home.

The kitchen ... every modern device known to the culinary art.

The hotel is heated throughout by steam, insuring cleanliness and warmth.

The billiard room and barber shop are in the basement with entrance from Tejon street.

Two ... towers surmount the roof and offer to the visitor a view of Pike's Peak and the mountains in the west, and an extended view of the plains to the east, unsurpassed from any ... in the city.

This latest addition to the hotels of Colorado Springs is due to the energy and public spirit of the Messrs. Atkinson ... be a great success.

These young men deserve much credit for the manner in which they have carried out their plans.

This hotel fills a want long felt in Colorado Springs and is the only uptown hotel in the city. It will be conducted on the American and European plans, and guests will be made to feel as much at home as if in their own house, while everything will be done to provide for their comfort, the idea being to make ... a ... hotel with a restaurant to delight the epicure and please the most fastidious.

That the hotel should be well designed and constructed it is only necessary to say that the owners and builders have for a number of years given their attention to the erection of ... buildings. They are both natives of Pennsylvania and after receiving a good education served an apprenticeship under their father, G. W. Atkinson, who had been a leading contractor all his life, doing large work in Pittsburg and for the Standard Oil company in the state of Pennsylvania.

... to Colorado Springs, at once taking a leading place among the larger contractors and builders of the city.

NO. 7275—29TH YEAR. COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO., SUNDAY, JANUARY 13, 1901. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

Founded 1871. Present Population 30,000

Our City of Gold and Sunshine

Best Residence City in the World.

COLORADO SPRINGS is the gateway between the east and the west.

Scarcely a generation old, it has moulded itself into a beautiful city, second in the state in wealth and business, and the greatest mining center in the world. One need not search far or profoundly for the cause of such wonderful growth and material prosperity. The source lies in nature's rich gifts of climate, soil and unique surroundings on the one hand; and in the strenuous life and efforts of her citizens. When in the early sixties the stream of emigration began its course westward, El Paso county was getting her share of the newcomers equally with Arapahoe but soon the war between the states changed all that; the guerilla warfare in the Arkansas valley made travel along that route unsafe, the tide swung to the north, and thus the porridge that would have been the fatherland of Colorado Springs was dished up for the fattening of Denver." And so El Paso was ignored, her county seat was robbed of her expectations and just quota, however numerically unequal, and, the odds all against her then, she now equals her rival in many respects and surpasses her in others.

From the very earliest its pioneer citizens and incorporators gave evidence of the faith that was in them of the future greatness of the city. Here upon the arid plains, the treeless waste, they laid off a unique and stately city, to be built upon the most improved plan of municipal construction. They designed not for a day, but for generations to come. With prophetic eye they saw handsome homes and model public buildings. Their wisdom planned the broad streets, running for miles as level as a floor and flanked on either side with shade trees and parking.

With a foresight for which an succeeding generations will rise and bless them, they placed in each deed as the land was sold to private individuals a clause to the effect that no liquor should be sold upon the premises. To insure the continuity of the broad streets, all additions made to the city are required to be so platted as to conform with the streets already laid off. Their noble ideas of building a city were faithfully adhered to by their successors in office; the result we have before us today a city to which scientific sanitation after modern approved methods, added to the gifts that nature has so lavishly bestowed, make it a fulfillment of their wise planning.

THE CITY'S EXCELLENT GOVERNMENT.

There is both wisdom and good luck in the choice of the city's chief executive, Mayor John R. Robinson, a man of energy, of progressiveness and undoubted ability, for whose firmness in execution and faithfulness to the best interests of the city she is to be congratulated. He is ably assisted by a select council of men, characterized by the pride of citizenship, labor and zeal for the public good.

Their good sense is shown in the many good laws that govern the city, the perfect orderliness, and protection to life and property. The curfew ordinance forbids the little ones to loiter about the streets at night. No power wires are allowed to mar the beauty of the streets, but they are required to be placed in the alleys, so minimizing the danger from live wires. Health ordinances such as the obligation to wash the paved sidewalks daily, the prohibition of promiscuous spitting on streets and in public buildings, the personal responsibility of the lessee, holder and resident for the cleanliness of his premises, have the hearty co-operation of the citizens. The streets' irrigation ditches are often flushed to wash away any refuse that may accumulate. The removal of garbage is strictly attended to; building, plumbing, sewerage and drainage are all under special inspectors, and the integrity of the food and milk supply is looked after.

SEWERS.

The city has as complete a sewer system as any place twice its size in the west. It was carefully planned and thoroughly built, and from time to time numerous extensions have been made, until at present the lines aggregate a distance of over 30 miles. The system now practically reaches throughout the whole city, and as it expands the lines will be extended to meet the demands of sanitation.

FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The city has a first class fire department composed of three paid and three volunteer companies. The paid department promptly responds to every alarm of fire and always does efficient work with hose and ladder. The three volunteer companies aggregate about 90 men, who [illegible] to the paid department when called upon. The efficiency of the department is best illustrated by a remark of a newsboy, as the hose wagon dashed by him in response to some call of fire, someone asked him why he did not run too. "Shucks!" he said, "those firemen will have the fire all out long before I could get there."

SPLENDID PEACE AND ORDER.

The people of Colorado Springs take a pride in the extreme orderliness of their city. This fact is thoroughly appreciated by the people, and its fame has gone beyond its gates. Crime is hardly known. There has not been a murder in the city for over a year.

Ladies walk about its streets at all hours of the day or night with perfect security. The fewest number of hold-ups are reported. As the city has no saloons or gambling houses, or other feeders of crime, the footpad and the thief have it black-listed, knowing that its active police department will soon have them in tow if they remain long within its limits.

The records of the police court show vagrancy to be the predominating offence, and half of these cases are non-residents. The greatest offence of the citizens is fast driving, the smooth and level streets proving a temptation too great for some of the most law-abiding citizens. One of our late residents, in speaking of the good order, said: "I have been here almost a year and I have yet to see an arrest, or one who has been arrested."

The respect for the rights and property of others is noticeably recognized in the children, at whom the easterner never ceases to wonder. Trees laden with luscious cherries and plums, ripe, red apples hanging temptingly in reach from the sidewalk, remain safe from depredation until gathered by the owner. It has been the common talk of the tourist and sojourner, and he wonders what has become of the small boy or does the altitude chasten from his busy brain the desire "to do those things which he ought not to have done?"

THE WATER SYSTEM.

Our mountain water system is pointed to with the utmost pride, and there are just causes for this sentiment. [illegible] where so much is dependent upon irrigation, nothing could be of more importance to the health, cleanliness and beauty of Colorado Springs.

This fact was early recognized, and the city set out to build its own waterworks. The result is that today it owns one of the finest and most perfect water systems that can be found anywhere throughout the world. The total cost has been $1,066,876, and it is secured by the gravity system. High upon the side of Pike's Peak, 19 miles away, some 8,000 feet higher than the town and 14,000 feet above sea level, is gathered from the melting snow the city's water supply, free from any contamination and as pure as the air we breathe, whose purity is of world-wide renown. There the abundant supply, amounting to over a billion gallons, is collected in reservoirs and conducted at first in the open ditches, and when in danger of contamination by pipes to other reservoirs some few hundred feet above the city, thence by the mains through the streets and to the houses. The pressure on the mains is great enough to throw a stream of water upon any of the buildings in the city in case of fire."

A WEALTHY, MODERN CITY.

Statistics will show very few cities of our land, or of the world, that have a greater wealth per capita. It is the home of many wealthy men. Millionaire avenue, otherwise Cascade avenue, with its sumptuous homes and tasteful lawns, would be a fair second to any residence street in our country, but given the unobstructed view of the foothills and the mesa, standing against the everlasting mountains, it has [illegible] no rival.

The enormous wealth in the city calls for all the modern improvements that this highly advanced scientific age can give. Electricity in all its modes of appliance is used to the ease and convenience of its citizens. The city is illuminated throughout by arc lights. Also, a large gas plant lends its aid for lighting and heating.

There are telephone connections all over the city, to all the towns and cities of the state and to all the intermediate points.

An electric rapid transit line runs from one end of the town to the other, to the foot of the mountains, and to the mouth of the canons. Some $200,000 worth of improvements are being made in the car system in the form of cars and putting in new lines to take in outlying portions heretofore not covered. At the north end of town, at the coal mines, an electric plant is being installed which, when it is completed, will be one of the finest in the world. It will furnish light and power throughout the whole city, and to factories. In connection with this plant there is being put in a central heating station to heat homes and public buildings. Surely no other city of this size has such modern improvements.

The streets are broad and well-kept. And right here may be mentioned another of nature's many gifts to the city; the fine, gravelly soil of the streets absorbs the small amount of rainfall quickly, making the native soil one of the finest of natural pavements.

The city is proud of its many public buildings and the number of its handsome residences, many of which are architectural gems. The completion of the new Stock Exchange building, the new Antlers hotel and the Court House building will add much to the city's stateliness.

THE NEW RAILROAD.

Colorado Springs has six trunk lines, but to this goodly number is to be added another the Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District railroad. This road is being rapidly constructed and in a short while the company will operate about 60 miles of broad-gauge road. When fully completed, trains on this thoroughly-equipped and in every respect up-to-date road will make the trip between this city and Cripple Creek in about two hours. Those who have taken the trip upon the road as far as it has been built can testify to the enchanting scenery. Where it crosses Bear Creek canon the views indeed are beautiful, but those in North Cheyenne are beyond all description. At Point Sublime, Colorado Springs is presented to the eye in its greatest beauty and loveliness.

But this steel-railed, ladder has a greater mission than to be simply a wonderful scenic line. As the discovery and development of the rich mines at Cripple Creek have been the chief cause for the fast growth in the wealth and population of this city, so the completion of this short line will insure in the future a greater growth and prosperity to both Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek. To the camp it means cheaper fuel and lower rates, making it profitable to handle low-grade ores which before could not be marketed because of high freights. To the Springs it means greater mining activity and business; a greater field for its wholesale merchants; it will make this city forever the residence of the mine-owner of Cripple Creek and bestow many more benefits of a mutual character than can be enumerated. The faith that the projection of this road will bring compensating results to this city is evidenced by the fact that it is being built by Colorado Springs men and money.

EMINENTLY A CITY OF CULTURE.

Colorado Springs is a cosmopolitan city. Being a health resort of world-wide renown, it has gathered within its gates people from every country and from every section of our land. On the streets is heard the painstaking accent of the cultivated Bostonian, the tone of the New Yorker, the southerner's soft and rather languid tongue, the northwesterner's pronounced accent.

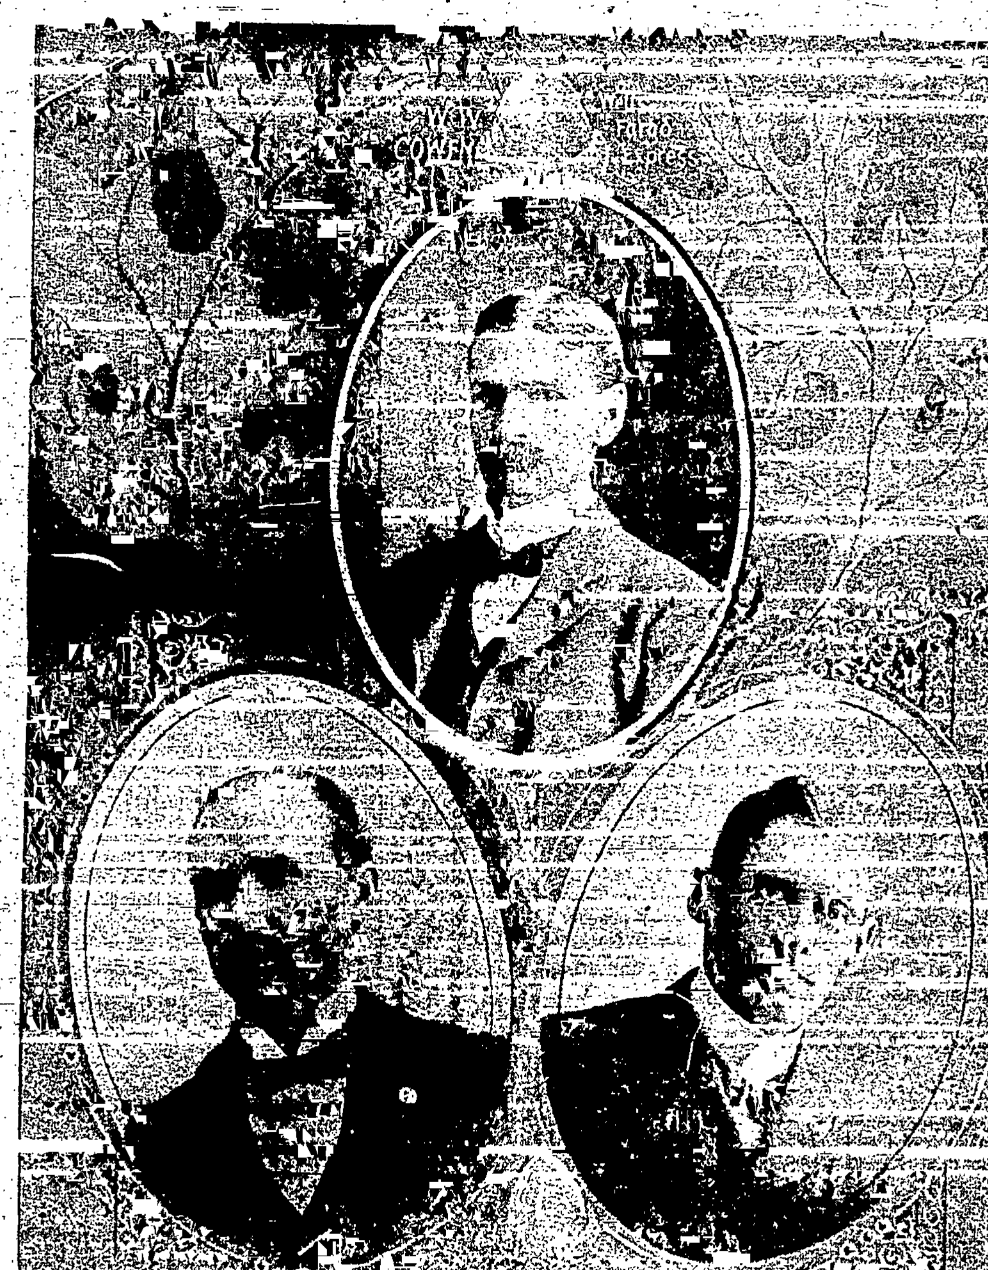
Many of the wealthy and cultivated class, women of social prominence and men eminent in the various professions, have been forced to give up their homes in the east and come here in search of health. This fact places the professions here on the highest plane. The clergy are leading men of brains and thought. The bench and bar are ably represented, and so is the medical profession, many of our physicians having a national reputation. Any metropolis of the east would be proud of the physicians of this city, and it is not to be gainsaid that this is the headquarters of the finest mining engineers in the United States.

All things conspire to make the newcomer in our midst feel that he is but a few miles from New York, instead of far out in the west. He is most agreeably surprised to find, instead of the wild west as he had anticipated, a most modern civilization affording all the comforts of life and society, highly entertaining in its clubs and cultured homes. There is the Town and Gown Golf club at the north end of the city, and the Country club out at beautiful Broadmoor. Those in the city are the Elks' club, a fraternal order that is noted for its grand works of charity, the Pike's Peak club, lodged in commodious rooms, and the El Paso club, a social organization of the highest standing, occupying its own elegantly furnished home costing $75,000. There are several ladies' clubs—social, literary, artistic and musical.

Comparisons are odious, so we will only claim for this city that it has an unusually large number of well-to-do people, people of the leisure class whose immunity from the cares of bread-winning has enlarged their opportunities for culture. The cultured taste of the citizens draws hither the leading dramatic, musical and literary artists of the country. Be it the club room, the music hall or opera house, it is always filled with an appreciative audience.

It has ever been the aim of this city of culture to make it an educational center. It has many good private schools. With its public schools, its dozen school buildings, imposing in architectural, artistic design and models in hygiene and sanitation; with a corps of teachers unsurpassed in qualifications, it may be justly proud. Those coming from the grammar schools are prepared by the High school and Cutler academy for the Colorado college—a splendid institution of the higher learning. The coeducational policy, its present buildings and the ones to be built, the rich endowment, the ample and rare reservation in the heart of the city's fashionable residence portion, and the unique mountain scenery, are all prophetic of the present and future greatness of this seat of learning. A Boston professor has declared that the children of Colorado Springs have as good educational advantages as those of Boston. The children of this city have the double advantage of the healthful climate and the first-class educational facilities at their doors.

A city of churches—convenient, comfortable, commodious, every few blocks one comes upon the house of prayer. Sojourners and visitors coming to the city and especially those seeking health may find themselves at home in the church of their choice. Each denomination is ably represented: the Baptist, Christian, Christian Science, Episcopal, Lutheran, Methodist, Methodist South, Presbyterian, Roman Catholic, Unitarians—with large, interesting Sunday schools and missions. The vitality of her churches and organized charities is evidenced in substantial and generous results. When, in September, the news of the awful storm in Galveston reached the city, ere her citizens could realize the enormity of the disaster, one and all gave of his little or abundance and it can be said to the credit of Colorado Springs that she gave $10,000 to stricken Galveston. The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. are strong organizations. Their work is of far-reaching usefulness, and nowhere is the necessity, the comfort and helpfulness of these organizations more beautifully demonstrated than in the city of cosmopolitan inhabitants.



WHY THE CITY MUST GROW.

There is no city which has such prospects, nay, certainty, of a brilliant career, and that, in the immediate future. It is the coming city of the Rocky Mountain region. This is no idle boast—the facts speak for themselves. Its far-famed climate draws hither thousands of visitors in winter, the strong and the ailing who find in Colorado sunshine and pure ozone-filled air renewal of vitality as well as a cure for harrowing ills. As pilgrims to a shrine, some 40,000 tourists seek relief from the heat and discomfort ... the delights of ... summer. Taken ... San Francisco ... the greatest resort in the country. These facts alone make this city personally known to tens of thousands of wide-awake, enterprising people as well as the pleasure-seekers.

During the past summer a capitalist from a metropolis from the south-east came here to escape the heated term of his home and also for much needed rest from busy cares. Having secured both to his satisfaction, he said on leaving: "Were I a young man and did not have these white hairs, I would sever my connections at home" (they are large and lucrative), "and come to live here in Colorado Springs. I advise you, and all young men to make this your home."

Those who have spent their summer here wish to return, and it is a recognized and often discussed experience, that having lived in this climate a year, one is never satisfied elsewhere. As has been truly said it is a city well equipped with every thing that tends to make civilized life agreeable, safe and satisfactory. Its rapidly increasing population is causing this city to enlarge her boundaries; there is no direction to which beautiful additions could not be made. There are no vacant store houses or office rooms; many firms are taking steps for larger houses to accommodate increase in business.

There are absolutely no vacant houses to be had in any portion of the city; new ones to meet the demand are going up everywhere and there are building sites, that to the eye for the beautiful, would be beyond all price, for they command the most majestic, varied and enchanting scenery in the world.

It is a city of culture and refinement; it is made up of public spirited citizens who are ever alive to its interests. It has scores upon scores of active business men, alert, energetic, who have made fortunes for themselves, and an enviable reputation for their city. In fact a history of this city could not be written without the histories of these men. In seven short years it has taken away from Denver—that has the finest exchange hall in the west, and several times its population—the mining stock business and made itself, through sheer pluck and industry, the center of the mining business of the land, and with the exception of London, the largest mining stock market in the world.

The short line to Cripple Creek will connect the stock market with the mine itself, and the importance of this railroad to the future growth and prosperity of this city cannot be over estimated. Even before its completion it has brought to this city a large reduction works, which, when finished, will cost $300,000. As the outlet for the gold camp, it will bring to Colorado Springs more smelting works and many other industries. The coal beds lying three miles to the north will ever furnish a bounteous supply of fuel at minimum prices, and will also bring about the location of manufactories in that section of the town. Already a large light and power company is going to build a plant at these coal beds that will furnish unlimited supply of power and this in itself will induce the location of factories about the city.

Of late universal attention has been called to the subject of irrigating the arid plains of the West, and during the coming summer there is to be a National Irrigation convention in this city, from which there is every reason to look for satisfactory results. With state and national aid in this matter the boundless plains to the east would be made to yield great agricultural wealth. So that mining on the one hand and agriculture on the other would make of Colorado Springs a city of untold wealth and enormous population.

The Business.

The strength of Colorado Springs is increased with the activity shown upon its streets. This activity is caused by the enormous volume of business transacted. The principal feature lies to deal with mining in all its phases, from the location of the claims to the development and operation of great mines. The prospector, wherever he may be, who has located a claim and found ore-bearing rock, comes with it to Colorado Springs to obtain capital to assist him in the development of this property. It is here that mining corporations are promoted and organized and enormous deals are consummated. Stock brokerage is the center of great activity in the city's business. Pike's Peak avenue is a veritable Wall street on a small scale. And like that famous market, it has a never failing object of interest to every one. Within it fortunes have been made in a very short time.

But while mining business naturally overtops other industries it by no means the only one here. All businesses flourish. One need not send east for the latest in fad and fashion; our wide-awake merchants know the tastes they serve, and so keep the trade at home. There are most inviting openings to industries at present along all lines, especially manufactories, for the reason of the abundance and cheapness of coal and power. The four banks of the city have an aggregate deposit of $10,000,000, and this is ever increasing. Their registers show a daily transaction of nearly $1,000,000.

Nature's Gifts Climate and Scenery.

The climate and scenery are the foundation stones upon which this beautiful and attractive city has been built. These have done as much to build Colorado Springs as the mining industry. It might be claimed that they have done more, since there has been no arrest in the growth of the city from the beginning, while the discovery of gold mines in the vicinity is of comparative recent date.

It is claimed that are more days of winter sunshine than any health resort in the world. The blue sky, the sunshine and the dry air are the chief characteristics of this "Empire climate." No mists, no fogs nothing to mark the crystal air or obstruct the view to infinite space. No matter how cold the day, there is always warmth and cheer in the never-failing sunshine. The sunshine leads to scenery. The people live the out-of-door life. Like a fine gem the city is enhanced by her surroundings. He must see the weird Garden of the Gods, unpeopled now and silent—the tourists disturb only the magpie. He must see Glen Eyrie, unique in its charm and character; the canons interesting and beautiful throughout.

As it is a cup the city lies—mountain-girt on three sides, on the fourth the plains—lies with gentle decent. A special feature of the situation accounts for the perfect summer climate, the proximity of the mountains acting as a safeguard for coolness. The city escapes that excess of midsummer heat suffered by others on the plains of the west. The light showers of the summer come with almost regular frequency, and having served the double duty of sprinkling both under foot and over head, disappear too quickly to interfere with social or business engagements. There is felt no humidity at this time, as in the east, on account of the dryness and the thinness of the air at this altitude. In atmospherical effect this place is 18,000,000 miles nearer the sun than points at the sea level, for as the altitude increases, the density of the air decreases, and it is free from dust and vapor that obstruct the sun's rays.

Hotels.

Upon the site of the old and popular Antlers has risen a magnificent structure of the same name, which, when finished may not be excelled by any hostelry in the west. This hotel is fireproof throughout, depending for heat upon the public heating system which also furnishes heat for culinary purposes. Eminently modern and up-to-date in all its appointments and rich furnishings, it will be open to guests in early summer. The Alta Vista, whose fare and service are always popular, whose courteous and genial host and hostess, and general air of quietness and refinement make it a family hotel, is centrally and pleasantly situated. The Alamo has been lately remodeled and enlarged for the entertainment of a large patronage, and the Elks, Spaulding, La Veta and others are the favorite resorts of commercial and business men.

New Buildings in Colorado Springs

IT IS the man who went away from Colorado Springs about a year ago and has recently returned who can appreciate what has been done in the building line in the city during 1900. He knew what business buildings there were in town a year ago, and he knows what he sees as he goes about the streets now. The man who has gone by each rising structure daily in his round of duties, too busy to realize that the city is assuming a new appearance does not feel impressed with the change that has taken place. For that reason it is a good thing to pause once a year and take a look around, just to see what the situation is.

The man who went away a year ago could stand in front of the postoffice and get a good view of Pike's Peak and as he did so he lamented the burning of the Antlers, thinking to himself that it was a blow from which the city would be years in recovering.

He could roam at will through the Alamo park and wonder whether the much-talked-of project of building a new county courthouse would ever assume shape.

He could push his way through the dense throng in the Mining exchange and complain of the lack of facilities for the proper conduct of the exchange business.

He listened to the assurances of one man to another that there was ample business in the community for a couple of big institutions for the reduction of ore and he wondered why someone didn't take advantage of the opportunity and build a couple.

If he wanted to find the mayor's office he wandered around the city looking for the city hall, and finally asked a policeman who told him that the mayor's office was his own private office in the Bank building.

He heard prominent local capitalists talking about building a new railroad to Cripple Creek, but he had heard it before and expected to hear it again.

He was told that during 1899 there had been erected in the city of Colorado Springs 35 business blocks, aggregating in cost $350,000; 151 residences aggregating $375,000, and $70,000 worth of buildings of a miscellaneous character. He expressed himself as greatly pleased over this excellent showing and resolved that he would tell all his friends in the east about it, because it was a record of which any city of the size of Colorado Springs might well be proud.

But now he is back.

What does he find?

If he wants to see Pike's Peak he must get off from Pike's Peak avenue because the Antlers, once laid low, is risen again, and a hundred fold more grand.

The Alamo park has become in very deed the courthouse site and El Paso's pride is fast rising.

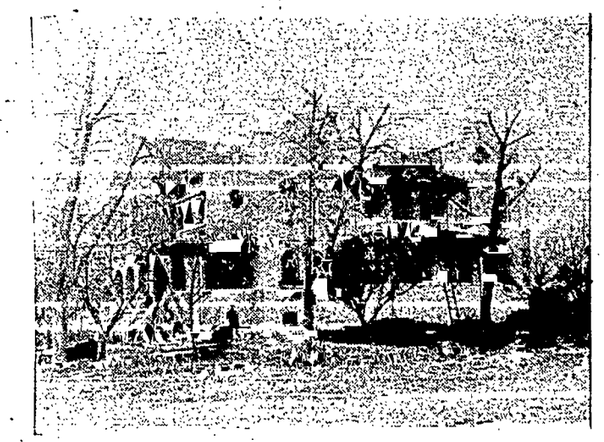
He finds a magnificent stone and brick structure rearing itself, massive, yet graceful, at the corner of Pike's Peak and Nevada avenues and as he walks admiringly around the structure he learns that it is the new Mining Exchange building.

The man who a year ago told him that there was need for new mills now informs him that this need is being met by the expenditure of three-quarters of a million dollars at Colorado City, and of half a million by the Portland company and he sees it for himself as he ascends the foothills on a ride on the grandest scenic line of railway in the United States—the new Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District railway.

He looks for his friend the mayor and finds him at the old stand, but learns that the city has acquired the corner of Nevada and Kiowa, and will in the spring begin the erection of a new city hall to cost $100,000.

As he goes out for a trolley ride on the line which he understands Mr. Stratton now controls and will immediately improve, he is impressed with the vast amount of building going on and the high class of houses that are being erected. Blocks that were prairie when he went away have become home sites for hundreds of people; streets whose existence was only on the plats a year ago are now built up on both sides, what he knew as the east side, the north end, the south end or the west side of the city is regarded by newcomers as quite central, the boundaries of the city are new.

He tells his impressions to the man who has been in the city throughout the year and the latter goes to the office of the building inspector to see whether these impressions are justified by the figures.



RESIDENCE OF WM. LENNOX.

RESIDENCE OF W. S. MONTGOMERY.

The best month in the building inspector's business in 1899 was September, when permits to the amount of $219,769 were issued. In 1900 the best month was February, when the business done amounted to $242,010. In 1899 the total of permits issued, including everything, was $850,000. In 1900 the total, not including any of the biggest jobs that are under way, is $1,336,600. The record for 1899 of 151 houses with a value of $375,000, is to be compared with that of 1900, which is 700 houses with a total valuation exceeding $1,000,000.

The building inspector's business for the year by months was as follows:

January	$ 52,000
February	242,255
March	102,030
April	83,650
May	152,736
June	102,640
July	68,920
August
September	114,090
October	143,090
November	84,310
December	120,000
Total	$1,366,600

The building inspector's records as shown in the above table do not include the permits for any of the work included in the following:

Court house	$ 300,000
Antlers hotel	480,000
Montgomery house	50,000
Woods house	50,000
Allen house	35,000
Lennox house	36,000
Steele school	45,000
Mining exchange	300,000
Total	$1,299,000

In addition to the structures mentioned in these tables attention must be called to the following improvements of the present year in the Colorado Springs community, though not within the city limits or the jurisdiction of the building inspector:

Standard mill	$ 50,000
Portland mill	450,000
County Poor house	29,000
Total	$1,229,000

The following list of buildings which will be under way within comparatively few weeks are among the things to be looked forward to, but which, all arrangements for their construction being complete, are properly to be included in an estimate of work now on hand:

Hillside school	$ 25,000
Bristol school addition	10,000
Colorado City school	22,000
Y. M. C. A.	75,000
City hall	100,000
Methodist church	50,000
College Science building	130,000
Total	$337,000

Adding to these items the new Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek railway, an enterprise backed almost entirely by Colorado Springs capital, it makes a grand total of expenditures by local capital either during the year 1900 or now under way, as follows:

Miscellaneous buildings, 1900	$1,366,600
Eight large contracts	1,299,000
Not in city limits	1,229,000
About to begin construction	337,000
C. S. & C. C. D. Ry.	3,000,000

RESIDENCE OF V. Z. REED.

"I should say, in connection with the subject of band concerts that we ought to be looking out for better and bigger public parks. My observation at the meeting of the National Municipal league is that eastern cities are away in advance of us on this matter and that if we do not get to work immediately they will continue to lead us. Grand Rapids, Detroit, and innumerable other cities that I might name, have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars and even millions on the improvement of their park systems and every cent of the money I count well expended. It is the duty of a city, according to my idea, to provide something more than sewers and streets for the people. These things are necessary, but so are some other things. I think it is the duty of the city to provide for the people places that will always be bright and fresh and clean, where the visitors and particularly the sick ones

Progress and Possibilities

Mayor John K. Robinson Talks of the Present and the Future for the New Year Gazette.

ONE of the political speakers who was heard in Colorado Springs during the campaign which recently came to a close, said, in reply to the statements made by certain speakers of the opposition to the effect that there was no prosperity in the land:

"Don't tell me that there is no prosperity. I know that there is because I can carry it around with me in my pocket and I can buy things with it."

And its a good deal the same way with the progress that has been made by the city of Colorado Springs during the year 1900.

Everyone people who look around at some little corner where there is need for attention on the part of some of the city's heads of departments and say that the city is not improving; that things are not as they should be.

Everyone will admit that there is room for improvement and nothing impresses the needs of the city so strongly upon the minds of the citizens as the improvement that has actually been made. But that there has been improvement and progress there can be no doubt.

The improvement that has been made is tangible; it is real, just like the prosperity that the political speaker mentioned.

We have seen it drawn around the streets by a team of horses bearing the sick or wounded to a place where proper care could be administered.

We have spent whole evenings in the summer listening to it in the parks.

It won't be so very long until we will be holding council meetings in it.

Realizing that the city has improved, and that there is need for further improvement, the Gazette man asked Mayor Robinson the other day what he thought on the subject.

"Of course," said the mayor, "the greatest achievement of the year has been the provision whereby we are to have a new city hall. The need for a city hall has been the most imperative that has confronted the city in its history. There has been a cramped condition in all the city departments for years and it had reached a point where, if the work of the city was to be conducted properly it was absolutely necessary that some provision be made for a new building. The only thing that remains to be done before the work can be started is for the people to authorize an issue of bonds to cover the cost of the construction. I do not think there is any doubt but this will be done at the regular spring election, which is the earliest time at which the matter can come up for a vote. The building that we are planning for will cost $100,000, but no citizen of Colorado Springs will ever regret that we built a good structure while we are about it.

"The site, the corner of Nevada and Kiowa, now occupied by the Methodist church, is certainly as desirable a one as could possibly be selected. With the court house in the South park, the Mining exchange building at Pike's Peak avenue, the city hall at Kiowa street and a handsome new Y. M. C. A. building a block further to the north, the Nevada avenue section of the business district will be a very attractive locality.

"I might mention the removal of the trees from Nevada avenue as one of the improvements of the year. The trees in the middle of the avenue in the business section were poor and were not in any sense ornamental. The avenue is needed for the transaction of business and will be continually more needed as the years pass and the business of the city increases.

"The band concerts which have been established as a summer feature of Colorado Springs life certainly constitute an improvement. I think that the people of Colorado Springs and the visitors to the city last summer amply manifested their appreciation of these concerts to justify us in maintaining them with very liberal financial support. Our appropriation for the concerts last year was $1,500, but I personally favor a larger one for the coming year. I think we should have [illegible] and if we have more of them they will cost us more money.

"In mentioning the needs of the city it is difficult to cover the ground and still remain within what may seem to be practicable. The first and most important need of the city is for a water supply that shall be at all times far greater than any possible demand. The completion of the Strickler tunnel, which has been accomplished during the year, adds at least one-third to our water supply, but with the city growing as it is and as it will continue to grow for a good many years, it will be necessary for us to keep the possible shortage of water in mind and to overlook no opportunity to put the supply continually farther and farther ahead of the demand.

can go and sit in the sunshine and listen to the music, where the children can have their games, and where everyone will feel at home and at liberty to enjoy himself as he sees fit. The sooner we take up this matter and make provision for the future the sooner we will have a park ... to us and the less it is going to cost us in dollars and cents.

"I think, furthermore, that the time has come when the appearance and the comfort of the city demands more sidewalks than we have. The business section of the city, including Cascade, Tejon, Nevada and Weber, between the parks, should be provided with good sidewalks of stone. The people owning ... property in this district ought to be willing to stand the expense of putting them in.

Another need of the city now is better care of its streets. The city has reached the point where the vast extent of its streets, more than 100 miles, makes it impracticable to go over them for purposes of repairs as frequently as we have been enabled to do in the past. One of the most certain ways in which we can overcome this difficulty, in my mind, is to purchase a good street roller so that when we have put a street in good condition once it will not require our attention again so soon as it has heretofore.

"Another need is for increased police protection. The number of men on our force is too small and we should have a district telegraph system and patrol system in order to make more efficient ... dence districts of the city require better police protection than they now have and this need should not go longer unheeded.

"Among the possibilities that I see for the future for us to secure the establishment of a national chautauqua here that will be second to nothing of the kind anywhere. People from everywhere come here every year and thousands who do not come here but visit places where there is intellectual, as well as physical rest and recreation, would prefer to come here if we had something of the kind. It would keep thousands here all summer who now remain but a few weeks or a few days. It would be worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to our merchants, would add thousands to our permanent population and would make our city in every way more attractive and more popular even than it is today.

"Some of these things, perhaps, cannot be accomplished during 1901. It would be a good thing, however, to start as many of them as we can with the new century.

"It would mean that with the new century begins Colorado Springs' real greatness."

The Work of the Chamber of Commerce

PRESIDENT M'KINLEY may visit Colorado Springs early in the new year. The chamber of commerce understanding that the president might make a transcontinental trip to San Francisco, to witness the launching of the warship Ohio, invited the president to stop at Colorado Springs en route, and yesterday Secretary McClurg received a letter from the executive mansion, Washington, thanking the chamber for its courtesy and thoughtfulness, although plans for the tour have not yet been matured.

The chamber, through its progressiveness, wide-awake public spirit and real worth, has grown to be the most powerful organization of its kind—the hardest working and best known chamber of commerce not only in Colorado but in the Rocky Mountain region. The good it is accomplishing in this community and ... is recognized by the city, officially, and by the citizens individually. Its membership has grown remarkably, increasing over 50 per cent during the past year, and now numbers nearly ... best known men of this vicinity. The proper spirit of "one for all and all for one" was shown during the past year by Colorado City and Manitou men, who presented applications for membership, recognizing that the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce works for the advancement of the three sister cities—of homes, of manufactures and of summer resort.

The chamber is ever alive to the work of advertising for and bringing increasing numbers of tourists here. The more tourists coming, the more among them will decide to become permanent residents. Last year Colorado Springs showed a gain of more than 100 per cent in her tourist travel from the east, far distancing Denver in this, and her tourist travel was more than twice as large as that accorded the larger city ... The chamber has earned ... for this splendid record.

For ... the chamber has been ... to secure ... and ... summer ... arranged at last, and next year they will be continued.

And not content with this the chamber is now at work trying to secure Homeseeker excursions to Colorado from points east of Chicago—something never yet accomplished—and the chamber will keep at it until these proposed excursions become facts.

From starting a mass meeting to send relief to ... and $10,000 was so secured and sent from Colorado Springs to our suffering southern friends—to securing the National Irrigation congress, tenth annual convention, for our city (the most important convention ever brought to Colorado Springs); from raising money to secure the building of a smelter here to getting funds for a National Farmers' congress; from acting in the initiative to get the Rough Riders convention here in 1901, to petitioning public legislators to allow a new public building for Colorado Springs; from increasing local census returns to entertaining Alabama editors ... advocating more water storage reservoirs, to publishing a splendid quarterly magazine and distributing local advertis... the chamber of commerce has been persistently, judiciously active and eminently successful.

It has worked for the advancement of the stock exchange and for Cripple Creek's development by securing the daily publication of stock quotations in ... journals of America, like the Boston Herald and Cincinnati Enquirer ... It has worked earnestly for the ... of the Elk's national home. It aided in bringing the Trans-Mississippi congress to Cripple Creek. It has brought many business establishments and permanent residents and home builders to the city and region during the year past and has been in every possible way a credit ... and representative organization worth many times its cost to Colorado Springs.

The Society in Colorado Springs

COLORADO SPRINGS is the most cosmopolitan city, for its size, of any in the union. This is due, largely, to the fact that the inhabitants are congregated here from every quarter of the globe. They come to enjoy the unrivalled advantages afforded by a superb climate.

[illegible] ... of culture and leisure possessed ... This is shown in ... up-to-date ... mountain ... [illegible] ... sides, these homes are enriched with a profusion of priceless curios, the fruits of years of travel in every land.

Such homes lend themselves most admirably to the demands of social life. The tendency of a people ... is to seek the most congenial companionship in their homes of rest and recreation. Hence, it is but natural that those residing in Colorado Springs divide up into several circles. For instance, those whose earlier life was near together, in the transplanted home they still seek each other's society.

About the scholarly confines of Colorado college center the many whose interest lies along educational pursuits. Music and art are strongly fostered by all connected with college social life.

The wonderful climate of Colorado makes it possible to enjoy out-door life in a social way nearly every day in the year. Many enthusiasts are attracted toward the Town and Gown club and the country club. Golf, polo, tennis and other favorite athletic sports are enjoyed to the fullest extent. There are a large number of accomplished athletic ... the men and women of this city.

For those who enjoy riding, there are fine horses and equippages and excellent saddles horses abound.

The El Paso and other clubs each have their coteries ... the Alamo and other hotels.

In summer the various scenes of social life are transferred in a measure ... to the Cliff, the Barker, the Mansions, the Iron Springs and other hotels at Manitou.

Among the most notable social happenings of the year just closed were the annual El Paso club ball, the fancy dress ball, the Leap year ball, and the Knights Templars ball.

A GROWING INDUSTRY.

The Hassell Iron Works Company, Colorado Springs.

At a time when our citizens have begun to direct their efforts toward ... Colorado Springs, it is well to direct attention to the above company, which is now outgrown its facilities and finds its necessary to enlarge its plant in order to keep pace with the healthy and steady growth of its business.

They have added a boiler department and will build a line of specially designed high grade boilers of both the tubular and water tube type, the latter capable of developing as high as 200 pounds pressure to the square inch with safety.

A general engineering business will be conducted and a line of heavy engines of the "Corliss" type, as well as smaller high speed variety will be made a special feature in conjunction with their regular standard mining machinery.

Mr. ... A. ..., formerly superintendent of the Bass Foundry and Machine works of Fort Mayer, will have personal charge of this department. He has recently acquired an interest with Mr. Hassell and he brings to the establishment a long, varied and ... experience ... in the engineering profession, which ... ability make the Hassell Iron Works Co. leaders in the engineering business.

In the iron fence department they are doing more business than ever, their designs and prices being such as to gain a steadily increasing patronage ... seventy five men are now employed under the able direction of Mr. Hassell and with the encouragement from local mining men that this business ... can be largely increased.

The ... company are prepared to give estimates on all kinds of work in their line and enquiries at 18 Gazette building will receive prompt response.

...Colorado College...

As each year comes and goes it becomes more and more clear that Colorado college is surely developing into an institution of commanding importance. No one would imagine as he counts the buildings of today, sees the hundreds of students passing in and out of chapel each morning, that a dozen years ago many people thought that it was not worth while to continue the struggle to maintain the institution. It is true that the college never needed financial aid as it does today, but it is the need growing out of the growing child, who is becoming larger and more vigorous each day. One who is not in and about the college, who has not made himself acquainted with its inner life can realize what changes have taken place and what a part it is playing in the educational movements of the country.

Endowment and Scholarship Funds.

No institution for liberal education can maintain itself, which has not behind it a constantly increasing endowment fund. This was the first movement which President Slocum set in motion when he took up the burden twelve years ago. While the amount obtained is yet altogether too small as compared with the endowment funds held by eastern institutions which are educating a much smaller number of students, yet most important steps have been taken and the eastern college has had one and two centuries for growth when our college has had practically only a dozen years. With the gifts of the past year the endowment and scholarship funds now amount to nearly $400,000, this including the $50,000 just received from Dr. D. K. Pearsons of Chicago. This amount, Dr. Slocum says should and must be increased immediately to $1,000,000 if the work is to be maintained at its present high level, and the demands are to be met which are resting heavily upon it.

Faculty.

A growing college must have an ever-increasing corps of instructors and in nothing has the management of Colorado college shown its wisdom more strongly than in its strong and constantly increasing faculty. It is holding men who can command positions in the best educational institutions and already some of the largest universities in the country have drawn men from the teaching force of Colorado college. These places have been more than made good, however, and the faculty was never stronger either in ability and numbers than it is today. During the past year there has been added to the faculty a number of strong men. Dr. John C. Sheda, who has been called to the chair of physics from the University of Wisconsin, has brought decided strength to the department of science. Dr. Thomas K. Urdahl is also a new member this year in the department of history and political science. Mr. Roland Ritchie who came from the University of Chicago, to take charge of the work in forensics and oratory, has brought new life and power to this department, the college having a high position in intercollegiate debates. Mr. Sydney Pattison has been placed in charge of the work in English, during Professor Parson's absence in Europe; and Miss Pearl Cooper has been added to the department, and Miss Edna M. Jacques has been given the position of private secretary to the president and instructor in Latin. Mr. J. L. Wald has been appointed to take charge of the department of commercial art, and Miss Mary Erhorn is a new instructor in German.

Buildings.

During the past year there has been completed and dedicated a valuable addition to the college buildings. The Perkins Fine Arts hall is one of the most useful of the various structures owned by the college, containing, as it does, the large auditorium with its beautiful pipe organ, and the conservatory of music and the department of fine arts. It is in constant use and with its public lectures and concerts has done more than any other thing to bring the life of the college into touch with that of the city, unless it be the single exception of Coburn library. An important enlargement was made to Hagerman hall and the Apollonian club house has been a valuable addition to the literary society work of the college.

The most far-reaching advance which the college has ever made will be the erection of the new Administration and Science building, for which the sum of $160,000 has been secured. This will contain the offices of administration and be the center of the work of the college, the older building, "Palmer hall," being turned over to the uses of "Cutler academy."

The careful personal supervision of the young women and the administration of this part of the college life and work has attracted the attention of thoughtful people to such an extent that there has been a decided growth in the number of young women in attendance. Not only have Ticknor and Montgomery halls been full to overflowing, but it has been found necessary to rent and furnish a part of the large Apartment hotel, at the corner of Tejon and Cache la Poudre streets, as an added residence for the young women students. [illegible] in this new building which will be known as "South hall," has been taken and this, with the other two college residences, will be under the supervision of the dean of women.

Another new building which is greatly needed is an added hall for the young men, as "Hagerman hall" is entirely inadequate for the demands made upon it.

The number of books in the college library has increased so steadily that plans are already made to increase the shelf capacity as the 30,000 volumes are seriously crowding the present space for books.

Students.

The student body has steadily increased in all departments year by year and now numbers something over 500. They come for the most part from the Rocky Mountain country; but there are also people from almost every state and territory in the union. The reputation which the college has made for thorough work and the unusual attractiveness of Colorado Springs as an educational center will draw students here in increasing large numbers. The college has come more and more to hold a place of preeminence in the minds of educational leaders and those in charge of the high schools are glad to draw the attention of their pupils to Colorado college as a leading educational institution.

Athletics.

With the rapid development of the college there has come a constant growth in the interest in athletics. The laying out of the Washburn field, and the erection of the grandstand gave to the college what is the best athletic field in the state for out-of-door sports. Football and baseball have especially interested the faculty and students. Well-trained coaches have been secured and much enthusiasm has been developed so that the college now holds the championship in both baseball and football. A very valuable addition to the athletic field has been the gift of the Burns grand stand, the money for which was contributed by James F. Burns of Colorado Springs. This will seat 1,000 people, the old grand stand holding 700 additional.

Glee Clubs.

The College Glee club is this year doing very efficient work under the direction of Mr. George Crampton, of the conservatory of music. Although it has had but two public performances, on both of these occasions it was well received, and with a little more practice will do work equal to that of last year's club, which attracted so much attention. Mr. Barr, the manager of the club, has planned a two week's trip through the state and Utah during the spring vacation. The Young Ladies' club, also under the direction of Mr. Crampton, is holding excellent practices regularly and will probably appear later in the year.

Art and Music Department.

In no department of the college has the progress this year been more noticeable than in the Department of Fine Arts. Mr. Soutter, the director, spent the summer in Europe making a careful study of the methods of the best European art schools, and has returned to his work with new ideas and valuable suggestions.

It is the purpose of the board of trustees to make the work of the college as practical as possible, and to this end during the past year a department of applied art has been introduced. Mr J. L. Wald, who has had thorough education in the Chicago School of Design, was placed in charge of the work in commercial art. This includes magazine and newspaper illustration, lettering, designing, etc.

In connection with the school of fine arts there the picture gallery has been established, with many excellent works of art. A valuable collection of Japanese pictures was the gift of James F. Burns, and other valuable gifts have been made to the collection by Mr. L. R. Ehrich, Mr. L. J. Skelton, Gen. Wm. J. Palmer, Mr. J. G. Shields, and an unusually beautiful marble from the chisel of J. Larkin Mead, by Mrs. Philip Washburn, the subject being Dante.

The Greek Play.

During the year there was produced with much credit by the students of the college a Greek play. So great was the interest in this that large numbers of people came from all parts of the state to witness the two performances of it.

Within the past year also there has been purchased by the college the large natural history collection which was formerly at Coronado Beach, and which cost the people of California $32,000. A part of the $50,000 given to the college by Winfield S. Stratton last year was, by his request, devoted to the purchase of this collection, which is now stored, awaiting the completion of the new Science building.

One event which has been of great interest to the college recently, has been the visit of its patron, Dr. D. K. Pearsons of Chicago, who spent two weeks at the college looking over and making a critical examination of all of its affairs. [illegible] all that he saw that on his return to Chicago, he sent President Slocum a check for $50,000 for the endowment funds of the college.

Men who have taken time to look into the affairs of Colorado college have discovered that it is developing into an institution of farreaching importance, which is affecting for good this whole great secton of the country. By the persistent efforts of its management it is maintaining a standard of scholarship, and courses of study that equal those of the best schools of the east. Many thoughtful people are sending to it their children for their college education rather than to the east, finding that they can secure just as good advantages here as in the east, while they give their encouraging patronage to Colorado's own college.

Its graduates are already becoming a great power in the west, and in many ways are showing their ever-increasing loyalty to their college. The generous gifts which are constantly coming to it are the strongest kind of indication of its growing power and influence. Not only is Colorado Springs becoming an important educational center, but Colorado college has already stepped into a place of leadership and is doing more than anything else, and perhaps more than all other things together to make the city to be well known throughout the whole country. It has become an important factor in the financial development of the city; but more than this, it has become and is becoming a great power in the intellectual life, not only of Colorado Springs, but in that of the whole state.

make a specialty of building homes in desirable locations and selling them on small monthly installments. These payments are practically the same as rent, the difference being that at the end of a term of months, the purchaser owns the home instead of the landlord. These homes are planned to meet the respective needs of the purchasers. By their method of developing certain locations, the purchaser gets the benefit of rapid surrounding improvements. This means enhanced value for the purchaser—a home, such as he needs, at the lowest possible price.

MANITOU

MANITOU is the "Saratoga of of the the West"; the summer resort of the Rockies. There is no place where the foot of civilized man has trod that does not know of this fair place. During the year of 1900 it is estimated that some forty thousand tourists visited this unique and interesting locality of varied attractions. The energy of nature reveals itself in grandest sublimity of mountain peak, of huge boulders hurled from some height in times past, now lichen covered, lying peaceful in bosky dells, shadowed by pines and mountain cedar, while the energy of man has contributed all the comforts, necessities and luxuries of exacting humanity. Located as it is at the base of Pike's Peak and the foot hills rising on three sides, it has the appearance of a Swiss village, nestled high up among the Alps. Its rolling streets, the manner in which the houses are built and the small clock surmounted by a female figure in bronze in the [illegible] give it a [illegible] of an Alpine town. The tens of thousands who yearly come here find in it a haven of rest. They are charmed by the scenery, built up by the faultless climate, the dry, bracing, exhilerating atmosphere and toned up by the health giving mineral water.

Being one of the oldest and most frequented, no town in the state is so rich in tradition and legendary lore as Manitou. To all the restless spirits, explorers or adventurers who roamed the west in the early days, whether American, Indian or Spanish this locality was known.

One of the earliest visitors of note was the Spanish explorer Vasquez Coronado who came in 1540. Lieut. Pike came in 1806, Fremont in 1811 and [illegible]ton in 1847. Hither frequently came the numerous tribes of red men—the Utes, Cheyennes, Arapahoes and others. The wild children of the mountains and plains regarded with awe the "medicine" waters of these springs as the habitation of a spirit who breathed through the transparent water and by his exhalations caused bubbles to rise to the surface and the water to effervesce. They attributed to this water-god the power of healing and of ordaining the success or defeat of their war expeditions. Whenever passing the mysterious springs they never failed to bestow their votive offerings upon the water-spirit in order to propitiate the "Manitou" and insure success in war. They would observe some religious ceremonial in the form of characteristic medicine dances, casting various offerings and discharging quaintly decorated arrows into the waters. The early visitors tell of how the basins of the springs were filled with beads and wampum, and pieces of red cloth and knives, while the surrounding trees were hung with strips of deer skin, cloth and moccasins.

There are many interesting traditions told of what happened many hundred winters ago, when the cotton-woods were no higher than an arrow, and when the red men who hunted the buffalo all spoke the same language, and the pipe of peace breathed its cloud of Kinnick-Kinnick whenever two hunters met at the springs to drink of the "medicine" water.

With such beautiful traditions, it is not surprising that it is as interesting and delightful to the white man today as it was to the red man in days gone by. The place is associated with the early [illegible] of the state. As they traveled across the plains and saw the white crest of Pike's Peak loom up in the distance, they directed their course for this great land mark, and at its base rested from the perilous, wearisome journey and quenched their thirst in the sparkling waters of Manitou springs. While settlements here was begun at an early date, yet it was not until 1872 that it became prominent.

At this date the Colorado Springs Land company began improvements at Manitou simultaneously with those at Colorado Springs. In the summer of that year the Manitou hotel was completed and opened to the public, but it was found to be inadequate to the demands; many were compelled to live in tents during their summer stay. Improvements followed from time to time, more hotels were built, churches erected, stores and residences sprung up, a school building was erected and the streets graded. The budding village bloomed out into a fashionable resort. In 1880 a branch of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad reached out a friendly arm and took in this mountain village.

Today Manitou is a city of the second class under the laws of Colorado, with a mayor and six aldermen. The town government maintains splendid discipline. Disorder and vice are practically unknown.

It has 1,500 inhabitants in winter and many times that population in summer. The population being composed of wealthy and cultured people, the society is very refined. The people of Manitou are noted for their open-heartedness and hospitality. Its railroad facilities are all that could be desired: the Colorado Midland and the Denver and Rio Grande railroads with their connections make it easy of access from all points. An electric railway runs the length of the town and connects Manitou with Colorado Springs. Although topographically the place is rocky and hilly, the streets are well graded, broad, clean and shady. The soil being of gravelly sand, the water disappearing rapidly after each shower leaves the streets always smooth and compact. The stream that comes leaping like a wild thing from its home in the clouds makes its way through the length of the town. Fontaine qui Bouille it is called, a veritable water witch now splashing its crystal waters high into the sunlight, now hiding in some deep channel its roar seeming far away like the wind in the pine tops, then out again with a somersault over the rocks foaming as it plunges into a whirlpool. Its every caprice is set to [illegible] [illegible] pretty gardens spanned by rustic bridges, its mission seems one of beauty and picturesqueness alone, but no its wild waters are caught and harnessed for useful purposes. Diverted into [illegible] to deftly constructed [illegible] valley and hillside they often present the illusion of water running up hill as they are led away to irrigate many a [illegible] garden. The water supply is at the [illegible] being gathered into reservoirs from mountain springs and piped down to the town by the force of gravity. This is amply sufficient for domestic and irrigation purposes and for protection in case of fire. Two electric light plants furnish illumination for the buildings and some three miles of streets and avenues are thus lighted at night. A handsome stone town hall costing about $10,000 is an evidence of municipal enterprise. Both grammar and high schools furnish splendid educational facilities for the resident children. The only manufacturing establishment is a large soda water and ginger champagne bottling establishment. Here the famous Manitou mineral water is put up, re-charged with its own gas, shipped to all parts of the United states, and used as a deightful table water. There are four churches and church organizations; the churches are all artistically built and their several organizations are strong and active. Meantime, a sanitarium, where sick people are most satisfactorily cared for, is one of the most picturesque structures of the place, being built of red sandstone right against the rocky hillside. Its architecture is medieval in design and exceedingly unique and interesting. The place contains many summer villas and pretty cottages. The residences are well built, and their location upon eminences and in coves gives them distinct individuality. The home of Dr. W. A. Bell, first seen upon entering the town from the valley, is one of the handsomest residences. It is built in a lovely glen where the native shrubbery and trees have been protected and cared for, shady walks have been laid out, the [illegible] mountain stream flows through the grounds and is crossed by artistic bridges, four acres of ground taken from a state of natural wildness have thus been converted into a beautiful, blooming garden. The house is an Elizabethan transition in the valley of Manitou at the base of Pike's Peak. The building is of red sandstone and very attractive, the interior is very lovely and contains many valuable curios, and works of art. The most important of which is the priceless modern art treasure, Moran's picture of the Mountain of the Holy Cross. This interesting place is the home of one of Colorado's greatest men. Dr. Bell has ever been prominently connected with the many large enterprises for developing the natural resources of the state. No one has worked with greater zeal and enthusiasm at all times than he to stimulate its progress and growth. He has steadily promoted Manitou in every way possible by erecting buildings and beautifying it with grass plots and shade trees. The quaint and artistic little station of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad is the creation of this man who is especially fond of architecture.

One of the chief features of Manitou is her hotels. There is scarcely any place of its size that has so many fine hotels. The Manitou and the Mansions are in the lower part of the town. These are large frame buildings located not far from each other and under the same management. They are colonial in architecture and commodious throughout. At the west end of the town is the Iron Springs hotel, artistic in design and fortunate in location, being near the Ute Iron spring and the Cog Road station. Other houses noted for their popularity during the summer season are the Barker house, Hotel Buxton, the Sunnyside house, the National, the Grand View and the Arlington. The largest and most popular hostelry of Manitou Springs is the Cliff house which has been for many years under the management of its owners, Mr. E. E. Nichols, Sr. and Mr. E. E. Nichols, Jr. It is situated at the mouth of Williams canon and but a few paces from the Soda springs pavilion. The popularity of this house has necessitated additions almost annually to accommodate its many patrons. During the past season a stone wing of three stories was added, costing about $25,000. The rooms are in suites and the furnishings modern and elegant. The wing adds much to the beauty and attractiveness of the hotel. It is to be kept open the whole year round, so that not only the pleasure seeker will enjoy its hospitality during the pleasant summer, but the invalid may have the benefit of the climate and mineral water in winter. These pleasant hotels and lodging houses are filled during the summer with throngs of people who come from all points of the world to obtain much-needed rest, to escape heated season at their homes, or build up and be benefited by the healthful climate and water. Manitou has many things to keep her visitors interested during their stay.

The soda spring, near the center of the town, is a source of great attraction. The pavilion is thronged from [illegible] in the morning until late at night, by representatives of many states of the union and foreign countries. All [illegible] come to drink of the health giving water. At the upper end of the town is an iron soda spring, which is exceedingly popular. Six glasses of water from each of these springs are drunk each minute, 360 each hour and 4,866 each day. The water from both springs aggregates 7,920 gallons, making 440 gallons a day.

Some of the points of interest surrounding Manitou that the visitor takes in during his stay are a trip to Williams Canon and through the Cave of the Winds and Grand Caverns; a ride up Ute Pass, a buffalo ride to Crystal Park; a drive through the Garden of the Gods and Glen Eyrie; then across the Mesa to Colorado Springs, and out to the Cheyenne Canons and up to the Seven Falls. The Bear Creek Canon is another interesting drive. Within a day's ride by rail there can be reached the Grand Canon, the Platte Canon, the Royal Gorge, and the famous loop near Georgetown. During the coming season a visit to Cripple Creek over the short line will be a most enjoyable trip.

Of special interest is a trip to the summit of Pike's Peak. This great mountain was named after Lieutenant Pike who in November of 1806 reached its base with his escort of troops sent out by the government to explore the country. With his men he caught sight of this great land mark, while yet far out on the plains and it took them then about ten days of marching to reach its foot. His attempt to reach the summit was a failure. Upon giving up the attempt and starting down he turned to its snowy summit and said, "No one but a bird can reach its top." There was prophetic significance in his remark for some years after Isabella Bird, the noted English traveller, and achieve succeeded where he had failed, being one of the first women to reach the top. Now the ascent can be made by walking the trail, or in carriages and upon burros, or by the Cog Road.

SOME LEADING MANITOU CITIZENS

DR. OGILBEE. E. E. NICHOLS. JEROME B. WHEELER. WM. A. BELL.

The Colorado Midland Band

COLORADO SPRINGS has always enjoyed the reputation of being the most delightful city in the entire country as a place for summer visitors. Thousands of pleasure seekers from every quarter of the land make an annual pilgrimage to Colorado Springs and the famous springs of Manitou and the number increases with each year that passes.

Until two years ago there was nothing whatever provided for the people of the city for the entertainment of these guests and they were wholly dependent upon the natural scenic attractions of the community for the pleasure that they had while here. In the summer of 1899, however, some prominent business men of Colorado Springs decided that the time had come when they must do something to make the visit of the summer tourists in Colorado Springs more enjoyable than it had ever been. They decided that the evening, the closing hours of the day, when the visitor was tired after a long tramp in canons or on the mountains, was the time when he would most appreciate some entertainment at which he did not have to exert himself. Accordingly the citizens decided to establish a series of free public band concerts.

The Colorado Midland band, which has for several years been recognized as the leading musical organization of Colorado, was contracted with for the concerts and they proved more popular than the promoters of the idea even had hoped for. There were about six thousand people out to listen to the first concert and the interest held strong throughout the season, which, however, by reason of the late date at which the concerts began, was rather short.

It sufficed to demonstrate that the idea was one that appealed to the people. The city and the citizens agreed that the summer of 1900 must see the idea carried out to a greater extent than had been at first contemplated. In the spring of 1900 the city council appropriated $1,500 for the expense of the band concerts and the citizens and business men, being asked to make subscriptions to the fund, responded liberally and the programme of the season—including four evening concerts and a Saturday afternoon each week, was carried out in full.

The proposition for 1901 is the same that it was for 1900.

There must be more concerts and more money to pay for them than there has yet been. The citizens who has been most prominent in promoting the entertainment furnished in this manner are agreed that during the summer of 1901 that there must be more evening concerts and more afternoon matinees than there were in 1900. Thousands of people come to Colorado Springs every year who find it impossible to remain in the city more than one day. These people have an evening here and the oncoming of evening finds them tired after spending the day in seeing as much as they have been able to in the mountains. The rest and pleasure that would be brought to these people could they spend the evening listening to such a programme as is given by the Colorado Midland band cannot be estimated. Its value to the city cannot be computed.

The name of the Colorado Midland band is as wide as the country today. The appearance and performance by this organization at the national Democratic convention in Kansas City last summer was of the best possible character. Tens of thousands of people from every section of the country stood and listened throughout the concerts given by the band in Kansas City or followed the musicians for blocks through the streets. The band received a tremendous ovation in Denver at the time of the Republican state convention and also at the time of that held by the Democrats.

It is proposed that the band shall be increased to 35 or 38 men during the coming season. In order that the organization may be maintained, however, it is necessary for the business men to do what they can to aid the musicians during the season when the services are not as much in demand [illegible] in the summer. There are in the band a large number of young men who need employment and are capable of giving good service if they can have an opportunity. Director Irving, whose able leadership of the band figures very prominently in the success which it has everywhere met, is familiar with his men and any business man needing a clerk, an office man, a bookkeeper or in fact a man for almost any line of work, if he will call upon the director, can probably secure the help that he needs.

The [illegible] [illegible] will be [illegible] appropriate for the coming [illegible] band concerts more liberally than it [illegible] and the business [illegible] [illegible] the same.

The [illegible] of the band as a Colorado Springs institution is one of the most valuable advertisements that the city could possibly have and Colorado Springs must be depended upon to maintain it as such.

THE COLORADO MIDLAND BAND, OF COLORADO SPRINGS

COLORADO CITY

THE growth of Colorado City during the past year has been steady and most pleasing. It has been substantial in all lines of business and during the coming year this growth will be much augmented.

The benefit of the Cripple Creek railroad to Colorado City as well as to Colorado Springs cannot be over estimated. To begin with it will make this place one of the greatest milling centers in the land.

Even before the completion of the road it has brought about the enlargement of the [illegible] in operation and the erection of two other ore reduction works. The railroad establishing [illegible] [illegible] this point and the greatest good coming of the completion will bring about the location of more mills and other industries. Cheaper freight rates will make it profitable to market low grade ores which were allowed heretofore to remain on the dump of the mine because the cost of transportation was too high.

The [illegible] [illegible] reduction mill now in operation has a capacity of three hundred tons in a day of twenty-four hours. This enterprise has proved a success in every respect from the very beginning. Each year has experienced an increase in business and an enlargement of the works. From time to time improvements in the way of new machinery have been introduced with a view to saving as much labor as possible. In close proximity to the Colorado Philadelphia mill and to be under the same management and control, there is being built the plant of the Standard Smelting and Milling company. Work was begun on this plant about five months ago and it is now nearing completion. It is being constructed in the latest and most improved manner, and when completed will have a capacity of 500 tons a day, and will be as nearly automatic in the handling of the ore as possible. The motive power throughout the works will be electricity.

It is seen that with the location of these mills and the strong probability of others being placed here in the near future as the great mines of Cripple Creek become further developed, Colorado City is destined to be the ore milling center of our land.

Aside from its milling interests the city is rapidly becoming of great importance as a railroad center. The completion of the short line will make the third railroad for the city; the Colorado Midland and the Denver and Rio Grande railroads with their connections already give it excellent railway facilities. The new road will in all probability locate its machine shops here. Already Colorado City can boast of having one of the finest railroad shops in the west. The old shops of the Colorado Midland which were burned two years since were rebuilt in the same locality on the south side of the tracks.

Colorado City is an established industrial center; it offers tempting results not only to the capitalist but to the enterprising young man who counts upon giving a return for his time and talents [illegible] future, aside from [illegible] pleasant place for home [illegible] scenery holds out [illegible] to refined tastes. Many desirable building sites suggest [illegible] possibilities to the eye appreciative of the beautiful.

Situated as it is with Manitou on one side and Colorado Springs on the other, it thus [illegible] a famous summer resort at its very limits where its citizens can find recreation and pleasure, and a modern [illegible] springs full of life and activity, of interest and attraction. [illegible] to Colorado City and desirable employment in its industries and on the pay roll of the mills and shops [illegible] they may also avail themselves of rare chances of promotion, of establishment in business with successful results. Here they may make happy and permanent homes for their families, gathering comforts about them and as business increases enlarging and beautifying their residences.

The climate is everything that could be desired. The town is modern, clean and healthful. The sewerage of the place which covers the business and a large part of the residence portion was accomplished without bringing the city in debt, it is practically paid for.

The water supply is absolutely pure and abundant. Coming as it does from the mountain far above contamination it will always insure health to the consumers. The city has all modern conveniences, electric street cars run the entire length of the town and connect it with Manitou and Colorado Springs, the streets are well graded, clean and shady and well illuminated by electricity at night.

There are five churches within its limits, besides numerous others close at hand in Colorado Springs. The Methodist church is the oldest, having been organized in 1869.

The Episcopal church located on Third and Jefferson avenue, is probably the next oldest, being organized in 1887 by Rev. A. R. Keiffer, then pastor of the church at Colorado Springs.

H. T. IRVINE.
(Leader of the Midland Band, formerly Leader of the 1st Colo. Vols. Regimental Band.)

The church now has its own building and regular minister.

The Baptist church, located on Lincoln avenue, has a large membership and is very prosperous.

The Christian church is a young organization. It secured its present site only three years ago, and has built a neat little church in which to hold its services. Before the building of the church the congregation held its meetings in tents on Lincoln avenue.

The Roman Catholic church owning its own grounds and building, situated on the south side of Main street, is one of the most prosperous churches of the city.

Families living in Colorado City have unquestionable advantage in the excellent school facilities for their children. Amid the many calls upon the time and attention, the public spirited citizens of this busy town with commendable foresight have given first considerable attention to the public schools. They have ever been wide awake to the advantages derived from keeping the standard up to the latest and most approved methods of instruction. And so the interest has not flagged, but with the progress of the place the public school has kept equal pace.

At present the main school building is the Bancroft school. This is situated near the central part of the town. It is a two story brick structure and massive in architecture. It has been found the present accommodations are inadequate to the number of children seeking admission. So now plans are being drawn for a new school to be located near [illegible] of the town. This building will be a two story brick with [illegible] rooms. It will be built in the [illegible] of the letter T. There will [illegible] on both floors, large [illegible] [illegible] equipped in every [illegible] [illegible] attention will be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] be so constructed that [illegible] comes necessary two [illegible] added at the back. [illegible] the shape of the building [illegible] that of a Greek cross.

Work upon the [illegible] will soon begin and it is [illegible] completed by the fall term. This very considerable [illegible] the school system will [illegible] adequate means for instruction [illegible] course of study being offered here most excellent.

Colorado City begins the new century with brighter prospects for larger growth and [illegible] pretty than any year in the history of the place. The great [illegible] ity, the large railroad shops, the completion of the Cripple Creek Short Line which a short while [illegible] completed, bringing [illegible] important industries [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] mines close at hand and the abundant supply of pure water are all sureties of the future growth of the city itself and the development of the adjacent territory.

The Police Department....

FOUR HUNDRED more arrests than ever before in one year in the history of Colorado Springs is the record of the police department for 1900.

When the citizens are asked the cause of the increase in crime and lawlessness they give the same answer that is given everywhere else in the city when the cause of an increase in business is sought.

"It is due largely to the construction of the new railroad," is the ready reply. The new mills have been built to do with it, the increased employment of common labor and the increased amount of money that is being earned and spent for whisky. More work means more labor. More labor means more men to get money on Saturday night. More money on Saturday night means more drinks and more drinks means more drunks.

Four years ago the record for the year was 1,750 arrests. That stood as the record until the present time, but the close of 1900 finds 2,717 arrests entered on the books of the police department.

The most common cause of arrest is drunkenness. The year had 576 cases of drunkenness in police court, the worst month in the twelve being August, when there were 70 cases, and the lightest month January, when there were but 24. Vagrancy cases were 106 in May and 5 in February, the total for the year being 278. Fugitives from justice have been captured here and returned to the proper officers in 25 cases.

There has been no murder in the city, and but one in the county during the year, the latter being the killing of Carrie by Jack Williams at Wade's place, on Cheyenne mountain, the murderer being promptly taken into custody by the sheriff's office.

Both the city and the county officers realize that they have in their charge an exceptionally orderly community, but their well known efficiency and promptness in handling all the business that presents itself has had a very quieting effect upon that element of society which is more active in other places.

Consultation Room of the Electro-Thermatorium.

The Electro-Thermatorium,

The favorable location and climate of Colorado Springs make it the ideal resort for invalids, and it is to meet the requirements of this class that Dr. B. B. Grover established his "Electro-Thermo-Therapy and X-Ray Institute."

There is not a city in the United States, not even New York, that has an institute of this kind so thoroughly equipped with all the best modern apparatus for the scientific application of electricity for the treatment of disease for which electricity is applicable.

The arrangement and furnishing of the rooms, which occupy the third floor of the new Davie building, 124 South Tejon street, ... general reception room and doctor's private consulting room are in the front. Another reception room is across the hall ... where the patient can be treated by thermo-radiant, thermo-therapeutic, electro-therapeutic, improved Turkish, plain electric and other baths best suited to the disease.

One room is especially fitted for ladies treatment. In the rear room is the largest and best electric generator that has ever been designed for medical purposes, and in this room is also the apparatus for manufacturing ozone, and the nebulizers for inhalations of medicated air.

In the doctor's private room is a complete galvanic and faradic apparatus, and all the delicate electric implements used in surgical operations, also a complete X-Ray apparatus. The X-Ray is known to perform cures of epithelial cancer and lupus.

The thermo-radiant or hot air and electric-baking machines are for the cure of rheumatism and kindred ... and to their efficacy Dr. Grover has many a relieved sufferer to testify.

A visit to this establishment will well ... and the doctor takes great pleasure in fully explaining the uses for which the various apparatus are designed.

His success in this venture has been most pronounced, and he demonstrates daily the wonderful curative power of hot air and electricity, properly applied.

Outdoor Life in Colorado Springs

Amusements

"YES," SAID a man who has been spending a year in Colorado Springs to a Gazette man the other day, "I have decided to stay here and make my home. The weather is always fine, the people are pleasant and the surroundings ... are matchless, and ... besides, a man can make a dollar."

And this man was right.

Nowhere else in all this broad country of ours is there a city which has all these qualities in so great a degree as has Colorado Springs. The weather is fine, the people are pleasant and the surroundings of the city are matchless, ... besides a man can make a dollar.

"And a man can make a dollar."

In Colorado Springs, as nowhere else in all this broad land, a man can enjoy the fine weather, his friends and his environment, and at the same time make a dollar.

This is proved beyond a doubt by the fact that the leaders in the out-of-door life of the city in all the numerous branches of sport that are indulged in are the leaders in the city's business life as well. The strongest man in the business community is he who on Wednesday or on Saturday mounts a pony and takes a whirl at a polo game, he who, with his neighbor, on Tuesday or Friday goes out upon the greens and, forgetting his morning in the pit, tests his ability as a putter or he who, preferring to take his recreation while Nature ... is growing ruddy with the glow of rising day, mounts a swift steed and seeks the wary coyote.

No other such arena for sport!

Nowhere else so many kinds of sport entered into by all the people of the community, rich and not so rich, young and not so young, from morning until night, from January until January again!

Bowling, polo, cricket, baseball, football, shooting, tennis, golfing, coursing, driving, wheeling, all going on the year round and every month finding new lovers in each and every department and old lovers reaching out into new lines.

The year has been a great one; the greatest in the history of the city.

A polo club, a cricket and a gun club are among the new institutions.

The world's greatest golfer has visited the city and says it is a good golf town.

Baseball and football championships have been brought to the institutions of learning.

Coursers look to the city and see half a dozen dogs that are the best in Colorado and have proven it.

The best race meet ever known in the community is held and all former horse shows have been eclipsed.

It's a good town for sport.

But for 1900,—What?

FOOTBALL

For the first time in the history of football in Colorado the interscholastic and intercollegiate championships have come to Colorado Springs in the same year.

A year ago it was the happy province of the Gazette to proclaim the Colorado college football eleven the only one in the Colorado intercollegiate association that had not met defeat at the hands of a rival member of the association during the season. This year the happy duty is again to be performed, but it becomes doubly happy with the sister proclamation that the local high school as well as the local college stands with a clean record to its credit for 1900.

Joseph G. Ewing, of the University of Chicago, was secured by Colorado college. Mortimer of Chicago went to Boulder, McIntosh of Nashville to Golden, and Lister of Chicago to the Agricultural school. It was not to be presumed that the latter institution would cut any considerable figure in the season inasmuch as the game is young there and the men are of practically no experience or were when Coach Lister arrived, but on the outlook for the season the institutions at Golden, Boulder and Colorado Springs were on an even basis. Colorado college, in conceding this, is generous, for the men of the team of 1899 who had gone were the bone and sinew and experience of the team and the men who showed up to take their places had less of bone, sinew or experience. Rice, one of the former team's scrubs, and Moore, another of the same class, together with Houk, who had had a little experience, also with the second eleven, were the best of the new men and the local critics did not expect, at the opening of the year, to see any one of them make the 'varsity team if men of experience should show up to try for their places.

Ewing arrived, however, and immediately went to work with what he had at hand and the result was a championship team with only one new man, Wheeler, who came from Iowa and proved a very good tower of strength for the team. His fast aggressive and heady game, at times almost putting the umpire to a little embarrassment, was the feature of the football season in 1900 in Colorado.

Captain Griffith worked unceasingly and with fine effect for the success of his team and Caldwell and Ployd of the '99 team did effective coaching during the closing days of the season.

When the year opened, however, it was the opinion of the local critics that whatever success should be achieved would be the result of the work of the head coach and at the close of the season the verdict should be and is that Mr. Ewing did a good season's work.

With the high school team the result is no less creditable to the coach, Mr. G. M. Karshner, who was secured from the Ohio State university, but the conditions which confronted him were unquestionably more favorable than those which confronted the college. There is always more work in getting conscientious work out of candidates for a high school than for a college football team but aside from this, the high school had the better prospects when the season opened. The men were strong and big and numerous and most of them knew something of the theory of the game. Coach Karshner put in ... however, and overlooked no opportunity to make the strongest team possible out of what he had, regardless of what might be encountered ... ens.

BASEBALL

John D. Clarke, who coached the Colorado college football team of 1899 to a successful finish for the season, was retained at the college last spring to take charge of the baseball team. With Ben Griffith, the well known college player who was barred from college games last spring because of the expiration of his four years as a member of the college team, he coached the players throughout the season and the result was all that the most ardent enthusiast of the college hoped for: an undisputed claim to the championship of the intercollegiate association in baseball.

The final game of the season was with the School of Mines and resulted in a victory for Colorado college with a score of 8 to 3.

The high school did not have a baseball team. Friends of the school would be exceedingly glad to see it round out its athletic individuality by organizing a good baseball team. It might be a year or two and it probably would be, for the team could play ... nearly even with the college players as the football team did during the fall, but there are enough boys in the school to furnish material for a baseball team and it should be organized.

GOLF

The season has been the most memorable in the history of Colorado Springs for the high grade of golf that has been played on local links, which is to say on the courses of the Town and Gown club, since that organization has become the center and almost the circumference of the Colorado Springs golf circle.

The year has been one of activity from January to December and this is the great reason why Colorado Springs is becoming so widely known as a city of golfers. There is no month when the game cannot be played with pleasure and consequently the interest in the game is always at floodtide.

The trophies which have been offered as prizes in tournaments held during the year have aggregated several hundred dollars in value. Some of them have been finally won and are now the property of members of the club to be held permanently. Others are to be won two or three times by some individual player before becoming the property of any one and are now held by tournament winners only until such time as they shall be won from them by others or won again by them.

The first of the cup competitions of the year was that for the Midwinter cup, offered by Mr. C. V. Barton to the members of the Town and Gown club. The play began in the fall of 1899 but continued throughout the winter, interest in the competition being very strong until the spring when it was finally won by Mr. H. B. Davis, the other player in the finals being Mr. W. K. Jewett.

The crowning event in the history of golf for this year and for all the years that golf has been a game played in the west, was the trip taken to Colorado greens by Harry Vardon, the great English golfer who has held the world's championship on several occasions. Mr. Vardon visited the Town and Gown course early in December and played 36 holes against the club's best players, Messrs. Jewett and Davis and the professional Mr. Campbell. The local players showed up exceedingly strong in their play against the champion, the best hole losing by three up in the morning match of 18 holes and playing even with the champion in the afternoon match. Messrs. Campbell and H. B. Davis played in the morning and the champion opposed Messrs. H. B. Davis and W. K. Jewett in the afternoon. Mr. Vardon pronounced the course the best in the west and said that with turf greens he would regard it as perfect. His play was of a wonderful character, his long drives and accurate approaches arousing the greatest admiration among the gallery. His putting, the first he ever did on hard greens, was entirely chargeable with the fact that he did not win by better scores.

The present officers of the Town and Gown club are the following: President, L. F. Curtis; vice president, Walter Scott; secretary, Butler Williamson; treasurer, Dr. S. J. Caldwell; captain, E. C. Allen.

TENNIS

The chief interest in tennis during the year culminated in the tournament that was held in the summer at the courts of the Town and Gown Golf club.

The tournament held in 1900 was won by Mr. C. E. Dodge, now a resident of Colorado Springs, formerly the champion in tennis at Yale university. The other player in the finals was Farrington, one of the star players of Harvard university, who was a visitor in the city. There was an intercollegiate ... materially to the excitement of the finish.

CRICKET

The time is not far distant when Colorado Springs will rank with the first cities west of Chicago in the playing of cricket.

... between the cricket teams of Colorado Springs and Denver with the result that Denver has a little the best of the season's showing. Colorado Springs is younger at the game, however, and with a little more experience and a ... the more constant practice on the part of its players will hold its own with the best exhibitions of the game that Denver or any other city in this section of the country can make.

The first of the ... games of the year occurred in Colorado Springs on the 30th day of May, Decoration day. Denver carried off the ...

... the ... of July Colorado Springs went to Denver and met a defeat that stands as something to be told about when the team shall have become the undisputed champions of the west. Denver won by the score of 175 to 57.

Early in September Denver came to Colorado Springs and lost by a score of 165 to 70.

About September ... Colorado Springs ... at the home grounds of the latter organization, the score being 163 to 120.

H. J. Bryant of the local club went to Chicago during the mid-summer to compete in the tournament of the Northwestern association.

During January the Colorado Springs cricket club will become a member of the State association which is already a member of the Northwestern association. It is probable that several local players will be included in the team that will go to Chicago during 1901.

The officers of the local club are the following: F. E. Bryant, president; H. D. Osborne, treasurer; A. L. Rich, treasurer.

Following are prominent among the thirty or more members of the club: Messrs. F. E. Bryant, J. H. Bryant, Douglas, Every, Ferriday, Haup, Sachs, Miller, Newton, Strachan, Sillem, Webb, Wood, Scott, Rich.

COURSING

In no line of sport has the reputation of Colorado Springs been more strongly upheld in Colorado than in the various coursing meets that have been held during the year.

Joe Kenyon's dog "Corbett," by far the best known dog in the state, is generally conceded to be the champion courser and the record of the year's meets justifies the claim made by Corbett's friends.

His record for the season is as follows:

January 23.—Meet in Denver, 32 dog stake. Corbett was runner up.

January 30.—Colorado Springs, 24 dog stake; Corbett was defeated.

August 25.—Gillett, 24 dog stake, Corbett ... the winner.

September 9-10.—Denver, 22 dog stake, Corbett won two courses, but was turned in by third dog on the third course.

September 16.—Gillett, 24 dog stake, Corbett was the winner.

September 22.—Colorado Springs, 16 dog stake, Corbett lost, being beaten on second course by a very hard first.

October 16-18.—Mankato, Kas., Corbett given fourth place in open stake, 70 dogs, but unanimously given better rating by all disinterested persons and many who were interested.

November 11-12.—Gillett, open stake, 34 dogs, Corbett was the winner.

Corbett is grandsired by an imported dog belonging to S. Van Hummel and sired by John Kerr's Vaness. His mother is Ribbons belonging to Scott Brothers of Colorado Springs. He is now four years of age and is improving with every course that he enters.

Mr. Kenyon has not placed any certain price upon him because he is not anxious to sell him, but has refused an offer of $350. Mr. Van Hummel recently requested Mr. Kenyon to allow him to take Corbett to California where he would meet some stronger competition ... Mr. Kenyon preferred to have him home and did not allow him to go.

J. S. Ray, of Colorado Springs, has a remarkably good dog named Cuba which has shown up to good advantage in the various meets that have been held.

Colorado Springs' Water Supply

WHAT is regarded by Colorado Springs city officials and Colorado Springs citizens without exception as the most important subject to which the attention of the tax payers can be called is the city's water supply. No city in the world has a better or more unique water system than the gravity system of Colorado Springs, by which our water is brought to the city from the slopes of the Peak, ... 12,000 feet above the level of the sea.

The only fear ... that has been felt by the people of the city over the water supply was a fear that it was not sufficient in quantity for the number of people who were coming to Colorado Springs to live. In order that this danger might be removed the city about five years ago, during the administration of Mayor Strickler, began the construction of what has become known as the Strickler tunnel.

The tunnel has been completed during 1900, the men being taken off the work about the first of November, and the ... is being used to reinforce the water supply of the city. The tunnel is about a mile in length and is used to bring the water from reservoirs No. 7 and 8 located on the west slope of the Peak, through the watershed into the original water system located on the east slope. It diverts from its natural course the water of the two Beaver creeks and secures it to Colorado Springs.

The total cost of the tunnel construction to the city has been about $115,000. This includes the cost of the construction of one dam and of the conduits which serve as approaches to the tunnel. ... storage capacity of the water system was 1,350,000,000 gallons of water, and the storage which is made available by the completion of the tunnel amounts to 430,000,000 gallons. The fall of train said snow in the basin tributary to the tunnel during the season is ordinarily about the same as the capacity of the reservoirs there, making the total increase of the water supply, by reason of the construction of the tunnel, about 800,000,000 gallons per year.

The water now coming through the tunnel is the natural flow of the streams draining the Beaver valley above the tunnel, nothing coming at the present time from the reservoirs ... which are available when needed. The present flow of water is varying from 2½ to 40 feet per second.

Alderman Charles St. John, who has been the chairman of the water committee of the city council ever since the tunnel was started, is preparing a report on the work, to be submitted to the council late in February. It will contain a complete history of the proposition and explain the difficulties and causes of delay that have been met with, together with his suggestions for the improvement of the city's water system.

One of the subjects ... being considered by the water committee at the present time is the laying of a pipe line from Lake Moraine ... the water ... down to the head of the city ... a comparatively short distance ... of interest to the ... the lake and the ... of the ... this week.

Numerous propositions for the still further increasing of the ... of the city water supply have been made during the year. None has been taken up by the ... but they have received consideration and the further ... will interest ... until the city ... have acquired ... for this purpose.

A New Era for Colorado Springs

Cheap Power for Manufacturing Plants in all Sections. Electric Light Now Reduced.

THE march of progress is relentless in its advance, and whatever community will not ... accompany it must needs fall behind and ultimately sink into oblivion.

When the founders of Colorado Springs conceived the idea of a city on its present site their plans did not contemplate anything further than a health and summer resort where visitors could come and ... benefit of the unrivalled climate and inspiring scenery. This was good at the time, but the original fathers of the city had not dreamed that Cripple Creek's wealth lay so close or that Denver would become so stagnant as to miss her opportunities.

As a health resort Colorado Springs was a good town, but with the wealth of Cripple Creek being poured into her lap she has become a metropolitan city with many of the improvements that are to be found in a place ten times her size.

In the upbuilding of the city by reason of her climate and her mining interests, many people not only throughout the country but even locally, have lost sight of its advantages as a point for manufacturing plants. The present industries, such as the Colorado-Philadelphia Reduction works and the Standard smelter are located at Colorado City, yet our coal fields, from which an inexhaustible supply of fuel can be obtained, lay three miles north of the city, making them six miles apart. To bring these together has been the problem to solve, for it means that here we will have one of the industrial centers of the state.

Man's ingenuity has bridged the difficulty by the erection of the new power house of the Colorado Springs Electric company, which is located ... feet from the ... near the ... city. ... Colorado Springs ... It is one of the most complete plants in the world and is prepared to supply power ... at ... cost. The power house being located ... feet from the shaft of ... a supply of fuel ... the cost of getting it to the boilers is reduced to a minimum ... gravity. The construction of the plant is ... described in detail but a ... will possess more than passing interest.

The power house building ... of brick ... with steel girders and beams ... the machinery ... the most modern ... on the grounds ... a maximum of ... horse power will be generated and conveyed from there ... the car barn on South Tejon street. From here it will furnish the power for the street railroad and the lighting for the ....

From the distributing station the current is carried to Colorado City ... the reduction works and smelters ... smaller enterprises ... after which it continues back to the power house, thus making a complete double circuit, for the current can be sent from the power house either way. This system obviates any chance of a breakdown, for did such an accident happen it would be a hard time for our city. Just picture what the condition of affairs would be—street railroad, elevators, reduction works, machine shops, printers, and almost all places using power at a standstill. However, the company has taken every precaution against such a calamity and will still further provide against its happening by duplicating the plant which will then have a capacity of 5,000 horse power.

That the management of the Colorado Springs ... company is alive to the demands of the people is shown by the fact that on the first of December they reduced the cost of lighting one-third, thus giving the people of Colorado Springs a rate that is lower than the greater majority of cities in the country having similar conditions. This reduction is all the more notable because it is made at a time when the price of almost every other commodity has been raised. In addition to the reduction of prices the company have conferred a still further benefit by making the supply continuous throughout the 24 hours ....

... the company Colorado possesses a convenience enjoyed by few cities of 25,000 people, viz., a supply of steam heat for her hotels and office buildings from a common source. The heat is generated in the boilers of the old power house of the ... company and conveyed over the business portion of the city, supplying on its way the new Antlers, Elk, Alamo and Spaulding hotels, while arrangements are under way that will result in heating the largest business blocks of the city.

The pipes for conveying the heat have only been laid recently, and while the distance covered is short still the cost has been over $50,000. This is explained by the fact that the pipe is laid at a depth of six feet, the iron pipe containing the heat being laid on rollers inside of a pipe made of wood with a covering of asbestos and tar. The iron pipe is laid on rollers so as to admit of expansion, while the space between the iron and the wooden pipes being filled with dead hot air, provides a splendid heat resisting coating.

As soon as the company has demonstrated the advantages of steam heat in the business portion of the city they will be prepared to carry it among the residences to the north, provided they can be assured of sufficient support to warrant the outlay of capital. Already the housewife who suffers from having her best furnishings ruined by the dust of coal fires, and the man who consigns the furnace to the regions below, are picturing happy times when all they will have to do is to turn the tip and have the ... a desirable temperature. While that condition of affairs ... is paramount in the minds of householders, there is still the additional one of the saving of cost, for steam heat will come at a much reduced price in comparison with heat from gas, open fires or furnaces.

The Colorado Springs Electric company is decidedly a local institution as will be seen from the names of its officers and directors, which are as follows: W. A. Otis, president; W. P. ..., vice-president; ... Bonbright, treasurer; Henry Hine, general manager. The directors are the foregoing and Philip B. Stewart, L. E. Curtis, Jas. F. Burns, Jas. P. Pomeroy, Jas. A. Hayes, F. H. Morley, K. R. Babbitt, S. B. Bertron, C. E. Palmer and R. J. Bolles.

These gentlemen are all numbered among the progressive citizens of our city, and are men respected for their rectitude and public spirit. Wm. Hine, the general manager, has had many years' experience in electrical work, and the vast fund of knowledge that he has brought to bear in shaping the plans of the above company is evidenced in the magnitude of its improvements, and the success that is attending their carrying out. Cheap light and power means much to our city, and every citizen should take a pride in endeavoring to bring it to the attention of men who desire a location for manufacturing plants. By this supply of power new factories are saved the outlay of thousands of dollars in the purchase of boilers, erection of boiler houses, etc., and have all the power they want. What this means to the future of Colorado Springs can easily be figured for the day is not far distant when many factories will come here, and the hum of the wheels of toil will be the music for our march of progress.

The question is more important to the man with $500 to invest than to the man with $50,000.

We are giving nearly our whole attention now to the development of oil lands in California, especially Sunset district, Kern county. You may know nothing of it. Take our word for it and investigate. You will find there is no avenue of investment open anywhere that pays such enormous profits. The region in California capable of producing oil is said to be the largest in the world. It's used for fuel. Coal is high—oil is cheaper, cleaner, better; no refining.

We are now putting up the machinery to drill our first well on the Colorado and California Fuel Oil company's property. Good wells now flowing all around us. It's a choice bit of ground—40 acres. Get in while you can at 12½ cents. This stock will soon be worth 25c. In fact the ... write to the Gardner Electric Drill and Machinery Co., Nos. 1725, 1727, 1729 and 1731 Blake street, Denver, Colo. and get particulars of their electric drill.

The Gardner drill is a winner. It is now beyond the experimental stage. For over a year past the company has been making experimental tests in different parts of the west, proving the merits of their drill, and for the past few months have been shipping out numbers of their drills to mining companies scattered all the way from New Jersey to California. Every drill in use is working successfully. The drills can be seen in active operation daily at Rico, in the Pro Patria tunnel; at Telluride, on the Bessie mine; at Idaho Springs, on the Edgar Consolidated mines; at Yankee, on the Oro Verde mine; at Butte and Silver, Montana; in Oregon, or in California.

The drills in use have made a new record for the world, as without a single exception they are working satisfactorily. The Gardner drill can be operated with merely nominal power, taking only from three-quarters to two horse power, varying with the different sizes of the drills. In districts where electric power can be rented the cost will not exceed an average of fifty cents per day for power to operate the drill. The Gardner drill not only facilitates the operations of mines, doing the work from three to four times as fast as it can be done by hand power, but it also reduces the cost in some cases more than fifty per cent. Careful records have been kept by companies using the Gardner drill, showing a saving of over fifty-five per cent over what it costs to do the same work by hand power.

The cost of installation is a great deal less than for air plants. The Gardner drill is simple in construction and durable. Any practical man can run it. The Gardner drill is a coming machine, and you cannot afford to mine without it.

Either write for particulars or call at our works. We shall be very glad to show you the drill in operation and show you the numerous testimonials we are receiving from mine managers now using the drills.

REPORT OF SMOKE ABATEMENT COMMITTEE

Report of the [illegible] of the smoke [committee]

Gentlemen: Your committee have done a good deal of investigating and studying [illegible] the [illegible] of Colorado Springs [illegible] present [illegible] rather than [illegible] the [illegible] promised better times in the future. This assurance chiefly comes from the officials of the Electric Power and Light company as they hope by supplying electric power to most of the hotels office buildings and laundries and also by furnishing [illegible] steam for [illegible] the [illegible] smoke will be done away with. As you doubtless know the Antlers hotel will be thus supplied. The manager of this company states that as soon as their plant at the coal mines north of town is completed the manufacturing electric power and light [illegible] by this company will be removed beyond the city limits. They will however on the site of the old electric lighting plant produce steam for heating purposes. It is however claimed with the [illegible] lignite coal used and the constant and careful stoking [illegible] of their business [illegible] of smoke [illegible]

The present smokey [illegible] reproach to us and also interferes with [illegible] prosperity [illegible] many invalids and visitors [illegible] who would [illegible] to so.

Your committee respectfully suggests that the mayor and the council [illegible] one of their officials to [illegible] and [illegible]

The present statutes are probably sufficient [illegible] to regulate this matter with [illegible] to the producers of [illegible] smoke [illegible] with great comfort and [illegible] the residents and the [illegible] within our gates.

TALK REGARDING CLIMATE OF COLORADO SPRINGS

The altitude of Colorado ranges from 4 000 to 14 000 feet and the climate varies from the cold of perpetual snow on the mountain peaks with their [illegible] healthfulness in the lower valleys. [illegible] in the climate of any particular locality depends upon whether the place is sheltered or exposed but regardless of altitude or shelter all places in Colorado enjoy pure dry air and an abundance of sunshine and clear weather. The atmosphere is tonic and electrical. The air is a stimulant for the weary and a cure for various forms of lung and throat troubles. When in Colorado one's lungs take fuller and deeper respirations as the increases and general nutrition improves.

Here the asthmatic finds relief the consumptive [illegible] during the [illegible] while the [illegible] Sunshine [illegible] the [illegible] Take the city [illegible] Springs as an example [illegible] days in the year [illegible] against eighty [illegible] hundred [illegible] New York and of the forty five cloudy days mentioned there are usually but ten between September and April when the sun wholly fails to appear at any time during the day. Statistics show that along the [illegible] of the possible time while in the Atlantic coast cities the percentage is less than one half. During winter the proportion [illegible] largely in Colorado's favor fifty six per cent [illegible] thirty two days the sun was visible some part of the day at [illegible] remarkable record. On New Year day at Colorado Springs the sun is above horizon nine hours instead of only five at Davos Switzerland.

Colorado's soil is dry porous and sandy and the atmosphere contains only forty-five per cent of saturation as [illegible] New York City. This humidity [illegible]

The Bicycler's Paradise

Average annual rain [illegible] and melted snow is [illegible] 15 inches being 25 inches less than at Boston. During the winter the plains and foothills are quite free from snow and what does fall quickly disappears. Fogs are unknown. The bicyclist may ride his wheel almost every day in the year at Colorado Springs [illegible] by bad roads or [illegible] weather.

The wind velocity along the foothills [illegible] is less than at New York City while up in the mountains [illegible] is quite slight. [illegible] is a misleading [illegible] There is a rapid warming [illegible] when the sun shines and [illegible] may be very warm [illegible] the cold [illegible] that a blanket [illegible] January is [illegible] degrees [illegible] May [illegible] degrees July [illegible] degrees August [illegible] When [illegible] a step into the shade [illegible]

OUR HYGIENE AND HEALTH.

For many years consumption was considered only as a hereditary disease, now it is also known to be one of the results of bad air, poor food, damp dwellings and lack of sunshine. In order to maintain health the air we breathe, the water we drink, the food we eat, the earth we move upon and the sunshine must be considered. Our little city of Colorado Springs situated 6000 feet above sea level with its broad shady, electric-lighted streets, pure water, good markets, gravel soil and perpetual sunshine, can claim all the advantages for the preservation of the health of her citizens and of bringing the joy of health to the sick that come within her gates.

Air must be pure for the proper aeration of the blood, and anything that tends to render its composition impure is a menace to the health of the community. Gases and substances may pass into the air and be inhaled causing a number of diseases. In order that the air of Colorado Springs may be kept from this pollution, no factory, smelter or business that would produce disease and be detrimental to health, is permitted in our city. The removal of all organic waste material ... and sewers and cesspools are flushed by water before gases can collect or decomposition can take place. Pavements must be washed each day and gutters are like beautiful little brooks, flooded several times a week with clear, sparkling water, taking away all impurities.

Fogs and damp ... deleterious effects upon the respiratory organs, but in Colorado Springs twenty-eight days of each month are clear and sunny.

The City's Pure Water.

The water supply of Colorado Springs comes from Lake Moraine nearly at the top of Pike's Peak. The supply is pure at the source, almost eight thousand feet above the city. Also care is taken that there can be no contamination at any point of its di... ... careful bacteriological examination are made. The variety of bacteria found is not great, and the species are chiefly the usual, harmless water bacteria.

That health may not be affected by certain foods, the service of a "Food Inspector" is provided by the city, whose duty is to examine and inspect any article of food kept or offered for sale within the city of Colorado Springs and to condemn any such articles as he, upon inspection, shall find unfit for human consumption. It is compulsory to have dairies registered, and the city possesses one dairy under the care of a physician, which presents pasteurized milk to its patrons.

The city is built upon a gravel soil which extends to a great depth, rendering it pervious, and not allowing stagnation. After a heavy rain the roads are soon dry and there are very few days during the year in which the bicyclist cannot use his wheel.

Board of Health Regulations.

The board of health of the city of Colorado Springs, being conscientious in regard to its duty, has made rules and regulations for the preservation and promotion of the public health of this city. Notification must be made by all physicians of contagious diseases, when quarantine is established and maintained; after convalescence the premises and all the belongings of the patient are thoroughly disinfected by the health officer. All rooms that have been occupied by tubercular patients are required to be disinfected while our hotels are scrupulous in this particular.

The dwellings of Colorado Springs are modern and usually separated from each other by lawns. The hotels compare favorably with any in the land, and there are numerous excellent ... boarding houses. Furnished cottages or rooms may be had when desired. All the modern appliances ... ence are adopted in the residences of Colorado Springs.

Consumption Rarely Contracted Here.

In the east, Colorado Springs is regarded as a haven for those afflicted with tuberculosis. With the careful inquiry as to the danger of those in health contracting tuberculosis by a residence in Colorado Springs, it has been proven that with the factors of altitude, sunshine and hygienic surroundings there is less likelihood of contracting the disease here than elsewhere. In seven years spent in the state of Colorado, I have not met with a ... valids have resided here a short time they take on a healthy color, and several times I have been asked, "Did you say that man is here for his health, he looks so well?" The city extends so far and wide that those very ill are scattered about, and do not produce the bad effect of close contact with others that is so much dreaded.

Children of tuberculous parents are to all appearances strong and well here, and can maintain their standing in school work with those of healthy parentage. It has been my pleasure to see students that have manifested symptoms of tuberculosis ... from eastern institutions take up their interrupted work of Colorado college, secure their coveted degree, and still continue to improve in health.

Advice of Physicians.

The diseases of infancy and childhood are of a mild type, and more easily controlled than in a lower altitude. Physicians make a great mistake when they state nervous diseases are more numerous or less tractable here than at sea level. It is always wise for those coming to Colorado Springs for the sake of health, to consult a physician regarding their condition and the amount of exercise to be taken. It was the writer's misfortune to be told before coming here by two worthy and excellent physicians to climb the mountains daily, and keep in the open air. After three months of strict obedience to orders, without any benefit, but being decidedly worse, advice was sought as to the advisability of returning home to die. The physician consulted ... from time to time there was a change for the better, the progress made being rapid and satisfactory.

With the beneficial effects of dry air, high altitude, absence of micro-organisms, and matters incident to their existence, cool summers, delightful sunny winters, Colorado Springs is indeed the ideal city for those in health. From us who have been within the grasp of the dreaded phthisis and have slowly but surely felt the happiness of returning health, there goes forth a prayer of gratitude for the paradise of Colorado Springs.

HANNA TAYLOR MUIR, M. D.

By-Laws of the Chamber of Commerce.

PREAMBLE.

In order to promote the general prosperity of the city of Colorado Springs and its vicinity, and in particular with reference to its trade and commerce, its arts and manufactures, its stock, wool growing, agricultural and horticultural interests, its public improvements and its educational, professional, social, moral and benevolent interests, and further, in order to procure, preserve and disseminate information relating to the commercial, financial and industrial interests of the city and vicinity, and to its preeminent advantages as a health and pleasure resort and the remedial and curative value of its climate, the members of the Chamber of Commerce of Colorado Springs adopt the following by-laws:

ARTICLE I.—MEMBERSHIP.

Section 1. This corporation shall comprise active and honorary members.

Sec. 2. Any person of good character and of lawful age, on presentation of a written application stating the nature of his business, may be admitted to active membership, if elected by the board of directors, on paying the initiation fee hereinafter provided, together with the annual assessment then due, and on signing an agreement to abide by the by-laws, rules and regulations of the corporation and all amendments that may be made thereto.

Sec. 3. The board of directors may, by a unanimous vote, admit to honorary membership, without fee or dues, any person who, from eminence, shall seem entitled to such consideration, and such honorary membership shall confer all the rights and privileges of an active member during life, except that of holding office, unless withdrawn for cause. But not more than two persons ... admitted in any one year.

Sec. 4. Any member found guilty of dishonorable transactions, by which another member is defrauded, or the corporation brought into disrepute by virtue of his membership, may be suspended or expelled in manner as may be regulated by rule.

ARTICLE II.—Entrance Fees.

Section 1. From and after the date of the adoption of these by-laws the entrance fee shall be five dollars.

ARTICLE III.—Annual Dues.

Section 1. The annual dues for active membership shall be ten dollars, to be paid semi-annually in advance on January 1 and July 1. Any member neglecting or refusing to pay the same within sixty days after the same is due, and after due notice from the secretary, shall be suspended from the privileges of the corporation until payment is made, and any member failing to pay the assessment during the entire year for which the same shall have been levied shall be deemed to have relinquished his membership, and his certificate be canceled.

ARTICLE IV.—Government.

Section 1. The government of the corporation shall be vested in a board of directors consisting of the president, first and second vice presidents, and treasurer and nine directors, all of whom shall be elected by the corporation by ballot at the annual meeting of the corporation, to be held on the second Tuesday in January in each year, and shall hold their offices for one year and until their successors are elected and qualified. The secretary shall be elected annually by the board of directors.

Sec. 2. No election for directors or officers shall be held unless ten per cent of the members are present and voting.

ARTICLE V.—Duties of Officers.

Section 1. The president shall preside at all meetings of the corporation. At the annual meetings of the corporation, and at such other times as he may deem proper, he shall communicate to the corporation such matters as may in his opinion tend to promote the prosperity ... and increase the usefulness of the corporation, and shall perform such other duties as are necessarily incident to that office. He may call special meetings of the corporation whenever he shall deem it advisable or upon the request of the board of directors or of ten members of the corporation, notice thereof being given in one of the city papers.

Sec. 2. In the absence of the president one of the vice presidents shall perform his duties.

Sec. 3. The secretary shall keep an accurate record of the transactions of the corporation and of the board of directors, collect all moneys due for membership and annual dues, turn all corporation funds over to the treasurer, taking his receipt for the same and shall act as secretary of any of the committees when so requested. He shall send out notices of all regular and special meetings, conduct the correspondence, have the custody of the seal and perform such other duties as usually pertain to his office. He shall receive such compensation for his services as may be fixed by the board of directors.

Sec. 4. The treasurer shall receive from the secretary all dues, donations and fees, pay bills or drafts on him when approved by the board of directors or its auditing committee, and countersigned by the president (or, in his absence, one of the vice presidents). He shall keep a regular account of the financial concerns of the corporation and submit a detailed report at its annual meeting, or whenever the board shall require the same. The treasurer may be required to give a bond with sufficient sureties, approved by the board of directors, for such an amount as they may require for the faithful performance of the duties imposed on him by virtue of his office.

ARTICLE VI.—Duties and Powers of The Board of Directors.

Section 1. The business and financial affairs of the corporation shall be managed and conducted by or under the direction of the board of directors, but said board shall have no power to make the corporation liable for any debt or debts beyond the amount of cash in the hands of the treasurer, or in process of collection, not otherwise appropriated.

Sec. 2. The board of directors, in addition to the duties specially enjoined by these by-laws shall enact such rules as may be deemed expedient for the government of this body, and for the guidance and control of the committees herein provided for; it shall provide suitable rooms for the use of the corporation; it shall judge of the qualifications of persons applying for membership, and shall generally do such other proper and needful things as, in its judgment, tend to promote the usefulness of the corporation, and carry out the purposes of its organization. For the better execution of its powers and duties, said board may appoint from their own number or from the members of the corporation, such committees as occasion may require and they may deem necessary.

Sec. 3. The board of directors shall hold its meetings at such times as they shall from time to time determine. At all meetings of the board of directors five members present shall constitute a quorum. A meeting of the board may be called at any time by the president, ... by causing reasonable notice to be served upon the directors, of the date of such meeting.

Sec. 4. In case of any vacancy from death, resignation or other cause, in the board of directors, the directors shall have power to fill such vacancy for the remainder of the official term.

ARTICLE VII.—Standing Committees.

Section 1. The standing committees of the corporation shall be:

Committee on Finance.
Committee on Commerce and Manufactures.
Committee on Railroads, Tariffs and Transportation.
Committee on Membership.
Committee on Mines, Mining and Smelting.
Committee on Legislation and Legal Advice.
Committee on Education, Libraries and the Arts.
Committee on Information and Statistics.
Committee on Advertising.
Committee on Insurance.
Committee on General City and County Improvements.
Committee on Good Roads.
Committee on Irrigation and Water Supply.
Committee on Conventions and Excursions.

Sec. 2. The standing committees shall be nominated by the president and confirmed by the board of directors and shall consist of three to seven members each, as the board of directors may determine. They shall report to the directors upon such subjects as may be referred to them and upon any matters of interest or importance pertaining to their departments.

ARTICLE VIII.

Section 1. No expenditure shall be incurred by any officer or committee of the corporation without ... first authorized by the board of directors or its auditing committee.

ARTICLE IX.

Section 1. The seal of this corporation shall be the word "Seal," surrounded by the name of the corporation.

ARTICLE X.—Quorum.

Section 1. At all meetings of this corporation ten per centum of the number of members shall constitute a quorum, but in no event shall the number necessary be less than ten members.

ARTICLE XI.—Amendments.

Section 1. These by-laws may be amended at any regular meeting of the corporation, or at a special meeting called for that purpose, ten per cent of all the members being present, two-thirds of those present voting in the affirmative.

MR. ARUNDEL ORCHARD'S CONCERT

At Perkin's Hall on Tuesday evening next at 8:15, Mr. Orchard will give his farewell concert. It is now generally known that he has resigned his appointments of organist at St. Stephen's church and the conductorship of the Philharmonic society and leaves for New Zealand this week in order to take up new musical work. On Tuesday next the programme will be as follows:

Organ Solo—(a.) Andante Sostenuto .... Bach
(b.) Allegretto from "Ottone" .... Handel
Mr. Orchard.
Song—"The Gallant Salamander" .... Barnard
Mr. Victor Clemence.
Songs—(a.) Loch Lomond ....
(b.) Damon .... Stange
(c.) It Was a Lover and His Lass .... Anderson
Mrs. H. H. Seldomridge.
Violin Solo Sonatina op 100.... Dvorak
Mr. Louis Soutter.
Song—"The Wanderer" .... Schubert
Mr. George Crampton.
Song—"Hear Ye Israel" (Elijah) .... Mendelssohn
Mrs. J. S. Tucker.
Organ Solo Overture to "Euryanthe" .... Weber
Mr. Orchard.
Song—Wotan's Abschied (Die Walkure) .... Wagner
Mr. George Crampton.
Song—"Doris" .... Nevin
Mrs. Garrison.
Song—"The Carnival" .... Molloy
Mr. Clemence.
Organ Solo The Royal March. Vincent
Mr. Orchard.

Accompanists—Mr. Rubin Goldmark and Mr. Orchard.

With such a fine programme and the fact that the concert is a benefit to Mr. Orchard, there ought to be a large audience so that the concert may be a financial as well as an artistic success. Tickets may be obtained and reserved at the Hext Music Co.

Four daily trains to Salt Lake over Rio Grande. Round trip $18.00, Jan 12, 14 and 15.

THE CHRISTIAN.

The most successful play to come today is Hall Caine's great drama, "The Christian," adapted from his famous novel of the same name. This splendid attraction, in all of its metropolitan completeness, will be seen at the Opera house tomorrow evening with Julia Stuart as "Glory Quayle," Lionel Adams as "John Storm," and a company of fifty people. The original scenery and stage effects, exactly as seen in New York, where the play had a run of 175 nights will be seen here.

Mr. Hall Caine owes his position entirely to his own industry, persistence and conscientious workmanship. Nothing is due to birth, except the peculiar mental qualities of his race, little to conditions and if anything to friendships they are ... He began literary life as a journalist, but he never intended to remain a journalist. His ambition soared from the first. He had a form, which of course with such a one, means to prune the ... essays, he lectured, he exercised himself. It was Rossetti, the artist poet, of all people, who thought him tenderly, not to use unfamiliar words, under the impression they were fine. Mr. Caine soon acquired the very vehicle which he wants brother and his bride, for she fears to aggravate the affair now that the ... has announced herself, so she makes her brother assume the guise of a music teacher and the young bride becomes the teacher's sister. The complications in the "Smith" household are heightened by "Mr. Smith's" sister, who fancies she has attracted a German count, the count in reality loves "Mrs. Smith," though he imagines it is she who is unmarried. To rid himself of unwelcome visitors, "Mr. Smith" determines upon a conspiracy with the cook, who, for her part of the contract, is to prepare such villainously bad dinners that the guests will immediately take up their traps and go. This is possible because the ... secretary of her union cannot be discharged without disaster to the household, since she would be ... to enlist the sympathies of the Ice Carriers' Brotherhood, the Registered Drug Clerks' association and the Chambermaid's Federation.

The company engaged to illustrate the ... farce includes many well known farceurs, among them Douglas Flint, Rose Hubbard, Eugene Redding, Nellie Maskell, Augustus Mortimer, Lizzie May Ulmer, Frederic Bond, Frank Craven, Eleanor La Salle, Jennie Engle, Bessie Bruno and Charlotte Love.

SCENE FROM THE CHRISTIAN.

id, a richly marvelous, direct, clear, and if the adjectives may be allowed to pass, a fairly simple English. Students of his stories know well that he takes enormous pains with his modes of expression, and it may be stated as a fact that he will write and re-write, and write again, unless he has satisfied his artistic conscience. He has strengthened himself to close study of English literature. What he has read, two such volumes as his sonnets and his excellent little book on Coleridge, prove. In a word, he has done what he could, in the slang of the studies, to obtain the best possible medium and to perfect his technique. If originality means eccentricity, Mr. Caine has an originality in style, but the one in which he reveals himself suits him like a glove—his style c'est l'homme—and nowadays, having taken the heart of ... warning, he is never affected and precocious.

SHENANDOAH COMING.

"Shenandoah," with the complete Broadway theater production and its great battle scene, is a greater success than ever before under the management of Jacob Litt. The patriotic spirit is, if anything, stronger than ever in the hearts ... human interest which is in the play, the big spectacular battle scene at the end of the third act is very attractive. The depiction of the battle of Cedar Creek, as shown by Mr. Litt ... is one of the empirical triumphs of stagecraft. It requires the services of ... men and fifty horses to give it the verisimilitude that is necessary, and everything must go on like clock work. A ... company carries twenty-five artillerymen ... of the ... artillery, United States army, under the command of Sergeant James Warren. All of these men have seen active service either in Cuba or in the Philippines, and it is they who lead the fighting. The company is reported to be one of the best that has ever been seen in the play. "Shenandoah" has been secured by Manager Nye for the Opera house on Tuesday, January ...

Theater goers will have an opportunity to witness George H. Broadhurst's Anglo-American success, "Why Smith Left Home," Wednesday evening at the Opera house.

The play is described by those who have seen it as being a fit companion piece to his "What Happened to Jones."

The lines are bright and snappy, and the dialogue distinctly superior to that of the average farce.

The story is as follows: John Smith has been deprived of his honeymoon by pressure of ... and a band of relatives who ... make things lively for him.

Just as he is ready to lay aside dull care, his wife's aunt, who has been to all intents a mother to her, decides to visit them ... added joy ... ish enough ... away from home to go on the stage, comes to her for a haven of refuge. The wife dare not reveal to her husband the presence of both her

... "Mrs. Dane's Defence" ... their Jones at his best. The play shows its originality in character drawing and the dialogue is liberally sprinkled with platitudes, but human interest is there in full force, and the situations are strong and are skillfully led up to and away from. Mrs. Dane is easily the most unusual and cleverly drawn personage in the play. It is also the best acted at the Empire theater. Played by Margaret Anglin, it is one of the strongest, most sympathetic characters now on the New York stage ... Stock company's ...

Charles Frohman and David Belasco have finally settled the much mooted question as to what actor shall have the part of Bertie Cecil, to play in their production at the Garden theater in January of Paul Potter's dramatization of "Under Two Flags." There is no ... sympathetic Bertie Cecil, and the lucky ... This is another instance of "all things come to him who knows how to wait." Mr. Carlisle has been knocking ... roles and he is now appearing as the ... and ... Earl in "Hearts Are Trumps."

Mme. Melba told a friend who called to see her last week that on the night before at the performance of "Faust" she had her first symptoms of stage fright. The ... she didn't realize what it meant, and thought she was going to be ill ... as the symptoms grew stronger and she was a positive disinclination to go on the stage she made up her mind that it was what she had so often heard described, but never before felt. Melba said stoutly that she did not mean to encourage these delayed symptoms. She did not have them at her debut and wouldn't have them now.

... the steamer Bohemian ... sailed from Boston last Wednesday she carried as passengers members of the "Belle of Bohemia" company, which sailed for London to take the place of "The Casino Girl."

Miss Henrietta Crosman refused to go on at the Savoy theater last Saturday night and the house was dark. The curtain was rung up at 8:15 o'clock and the actress, in street dress, stepped to the ... and after asking pardon of the audience for having inconvenienced them ... been persecuted to such an extent by the management of the house that she did not think it in keeping with her dignity to play. Miss Crosman's action was the outcome of a fight which has been on for some time between her manager, Maurice Campbell, and Alfred E. Aarons, who conducts the theater.

John Philip Sousa and his military band returned to New York musical circles Sunday through the medium of two concerts at Carnegie hall. The programmes were carefully arranged to exhibit the capabilities of the individual members as well as the entire organization. The big auditorium was comfortably filled ... Sousa has lost none of his popularity. He was compelled to respond to several encores ... most popular numbers were ... "Stars and Stripes Forever," ... and "Hands Across the Sea."

A NEWSY LETTER FROM WASHINGTON

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—In the Indian appropriation bill which has been passed by the house and is now pending in the senate Colorado gets a very comfortable slice. For the support of the Indian school at Grand Junction the bill provides $39,[illegible] for the Southern Utes $11,140. "Lo, the poor Indian" does not apply to the Utes. The confederated bands, consisting of the three bands, i. e., Uncompahgre, White River and Uinta Utes at the Ouray and Uinta agencies, number at present 1,702; at the Southern Ute agency 995; total 2,700.

These Indians are financially fairly well fixed, having an annual income of $113,740. In addition these Indians receive annually an income from grazing privileges amounting to $[illegible]. The annual income of the Utes is derived from two sources. Thirty-eight thousand dollars per annum is paid under the provisions of the treaty made with them in 1868 for subsistence, pay of employes, and purchase of tools and farm implements. Fifty thousand dollars is the interest upon the sum, $1,250,000, paid the Indians in 1880 for sale of part of their reservation, and $25,000 is the interest upon $500,000, paid for another cession of lands in 1874. In a recent report upon the status of the lands in Colorado bought from the Utes Commissioner Binger Hermann, of the general land office, says: "The survey of the lands in Colorado ceded by the Confederated bands of Utes, has never been completed, and the entire area of such lands has therefore never been determined by actual survey; but the area of such reservation has been computed by this office from an astronomical determination of its boundaries, and such computation shows the area of the entire reservation subject to sale under this act to be 11,011,840 acres.

"It appears from the records of this office that prior to June 30, 1899, 780,586.75 acres of such lands have been sold, and that the moneys received therefrom and covered into the treasury as receipts from such sales amount to $1,419,099.50.

"The area of such lands sold, 780,586.75 acres deducted from the computed area of the reservation, 11,011,840 acres shows the area remaining unsold to be 10,231,253.25 acres.

"It was ascertained that of such lands remaining unsold 960,680 acres are embraced in the White River plateau timber land reserve, and 858,240 acres are embraced in the Battlement Mesa forest reserve, making a total of 1,825,920 acres of such lands that have been withdrawn from settlement and sale and set aside as public reservations."

Senator Teller has been for several making an effort to have a portion of the funds to the credit of the southern Utes devoted to the purpose of supplying them with water for irrigation purposes. The Southern Utes' reservation contains many thousands of acres of land, valueless at present, except for grazing, but susceptible of cultivation if water were applied for irrigation purposes. Senator Teller contends that it would be far more profitable to the government and the Indians if the funds of the Utes were expended in purchasing water to reclaim these lands so that they might cultivate farms and be self-supporting, rather than to purchase provisions and clothing and allow the Indians to live in idleness. Several years ago Mr. Teller secured in the Indian appropriation bill an authorization for the interior department to send an inspector to the Southern Ute reservation to examine irrigation conditions and report the amount of water necessary to be secured and the cost of the same with recommendations. The inspector reported that the water for the necessary irrigation purposes could be obtained from the Montezuma Water company, which owns extensive irrigation works on the Dolores river. The company submitted a proposition, which provided that the government should pay $150,000 for perpetual water rights for ten thousand acres of land and an annual assessment of one dollar per acre for three years and thereafter a fixed rate of sixty cents per acre per annum.

The inspector advised that the proposition of the Montezuma company be accepted, and the secretary of the interior in transmitting his report to congress said:

"Due to aridity, agriculture is only possible on this reservation by irrigation. A considerable part of it, estimated variously up to 100,000 acres, is said to be irrigable from this canal, and capable of producing abundantly, if properly watered by artificial means.

"It is believed to be possible to ultimately advance these Indians in farming to a self-supporting condition if the lands can be re-claimed; and it seems practicable to obtain the requisite water supply only from the owners of the Montezuma canal.

"In view of the entire situation the department would recommend that the secretary of the interior be authorized to expend from the funds of these Indians in the purchase from this company of perpetual water rights sufficient to irrigate ten thousand acres on the western part of the reservation and for annual charges for maintenance, such amount, and upon such terms and conditions as to him may seem just and reasonable not exceeding such sum as, in the wisdom of congress, may seem to be a proper maximum; provided that after such investigation he shall find all essential conditions relative to the water supply and to the perpetuity of its advisability for use upon the lands referred to, such as in his judgment, will justify the proposed expenditure."

Notwithstanding this recommendation all efforts to obtain an appropriation for the purpose have proven unavailing. Senator Teller will continue to press the matter during this session of congress but with slight hopes of success.

Senator Teller never loses an opportunity to advertise Colorado. Asked the other day his opinion of the [illegible] oleomargarine bill, the senator said:

"There are two towns in Colorado almost as well known as Denver. They are Cripple Creek and Rocky Ford. Everybody knows that Cripple Creek is the great mining region, and nearly everybody also knows that Rocky Ford is the home of the finest, sweetest cantaloupe that is grown anywhere in the world.

"Rocky Ford," continued the senator, "is a little south of Denver, on the Arkansas river. It is the center of an agricultural region. It was long famous in the state for its cantaloupes, and now its melons are shipped to all cities in the United States. There is a certain peculiarity in the soil which makes the melon so delicious. It seems to be full of sweetness. Sugar beets grown on the same locality produce an average of 20 per cent of [illegible] matter, whereas 14 per cent is considered high elsewhere. It was thought at first that the cantaloupe was of a peculiar kind, but this is evidently not the case, because the seeds when planted outside the sugary soil do not produce exceptional melons."

"But the Grout bill?" insisted the questioner.

"That's another story," said the senator; "Call again."

Advocates of statehood for Arizona and New Mexico have given up hope of success during the present session of congress. Governor Otero of New Mexico left here some days since prepared to postpone his efforts for statehood until next winter. Governor Murphy of Arizona has also returned to the west convinced that his pet scheme has no show from congress just now.

"The competition is too keen," admitted Governor Murphy, with a smile. "There is a small chance for getting a hearing for young Arizona when there are ship-subsidy, military and apportionment bills to hold the attention of congress. Of course, I shall continue to press the matter quietly, but not with the idea of success at this short session."

Perhaps the most engrossing theme in Washington at the present time is the probable fate of the ship subsidy bill. There have been some intimations during the past fortnight that the sentiment of the house had undergone a change adversely to the bill. A careful canvass of the situation clearly shows that on the contrary the house sentiment has undergone a reaction in favor of the bill, so that now the passage of that measure by the house may be accepted as a foregone conclusion if it passes the senate. The alteration of the sentiment of the house is interpreted by Representative Grosvenor, chairman of the committee having the [illegible] in charge, who [illegible] keeping in close touch with the situation to be due principally to two causes. "One of these," he remarked, "is the recognition of the fact that the chief source of the opposition of the bill comes from the free trade and the free ship interests and second that there is a growing manifestation of favor to the measure on the part of the various labor organizations of the country. It is obviously beginning to be regarded by these organizations that the practical workings of the measure will be greatly to their interest. Consequently their influence in its behalf is beginning to be felt. The demonstrations on the part of the labor interests will doubtless prove a culminating influence in favor of the bill because if the [illegible] and laborers of the nation both unite in favor of a proposition the foreign influence against this measure must give way. In fact there is no question about the passage of the bill by the house. It is already settled that the necessary rules will be reported by the committee on rules for its consideration immediately after it comes from the senate and not more than two days' debate will ensue thereafter."

The inter-state commerce commission in reviewing its work for the past [illegible] recites in its report that during the year in the proceeding known as the Colorado Fuel and Iron case the circuit court of appeals reversed the decree of the circuit court and directed dismissal of the complaint. This case was based upon an order of the commission holding that the rate on iron and steel articles from Pueblo, Colo., to San Francisco, Cal., amounting to $1.60 per 100 pounds, was unlawful under the act and that the rate charged on such articles from Pueblo to San Francisco should not be more than 75 per cent of the rates contemporaneously charged on like traffic from Chicago to San Francisco, nor more than 45 cents per 100 pounds on steel rails and fastenings and 37½ cents per 100 pounds on bar iron and other enumerated iron articles. The circuit court upheld the decision of the commission, but the circuit court of appeals, following later decisions of the supreme court, held that the commission was without authority under the act to regulate commerce, to prescribe rates for future observance by the carriers, and that this applied as well to an order of the commission determining the relation of rates between localities as to an order prescribing maximum rates.

The court further said that determining the relation of rates involved the exercise of legislative functions to the same extent as fixing the rate on an independent consideration of what would be a reasonable compensation for the service. The commission points out in this report a distinction apparently made between prescribing maximum rates and determining the relation of rates by the supreme court in the maximum rate case, in which the commission's power to prescribe maximum reasonable rates was denied. In reviewing the decision of the court of appeals the commission takes occasion to state the necessity for authority to regulate rates for the future, and demonstrates that a suit at law for damages can not, in the very nature of things, be an effectual or appropriate remedy. As a rule, says the commission, the person actually injured cannot obtain redress in suit for damages, and in those cases where the real sufferer can sue and recover the excess above unreasonable and unjust charges the aggrieved shipper cannot afford to bring and maintain an expensive suit every time an unreasonable or unjust rate is charged, nor to do business in reliance upon a possible recovery in the law courts of sums unlawfully exacted for transportation during any given period.

The famous case of George J. Kindel and the Denver chamber of commerce against the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway company and others, has been finally, after several years' deliberation, decided by the inter-state commerce commission.

The case involved the legality of greater freight charges to Denver than to San Francisco from Missouri river and points east; greater freight charges from Denver than from Missouri river and points east to San Francisco; greater freight charges to Denver than to Missouri river and points east from San Francisco; greater freight charges from Denver than from San Francisco to Missouri river and points east. Pending the controversy numerous concessions in rates in favor of Denver were made by the carriers, among which are changes making west-bound rates apparently no higher to or from Denver than those in effect from Missouri river or points east. The circumstances and conditions affecting the transportation, including the effect of water competition in both directions between the Pacific coast and the Atlantic seaboard, the competition of markets, the physical condition of the lines, and the condition of the carriers themselves, are considered at length in the opinion. Water competition fixes the rate between New York and San Francisco and the carriers in pursuance of their own interests have recognized the desire of Chicago and Missouri river points to do business on the Pacific coast, and, for that reason, they have given to Chicago and points on the Missouri river a rate in no case higher and in many cases lower than obtains at New York. The commission says if these railroads have carried the rate which water competition fixes 1,400 miles from the Atlantic seaboard they must not stop there. Neither the desire to do business nor the right to do business ceases with the Missouri river. Denver, a thousand miles west of Chicago, may demand the same treatment which its rival cities have received. It is held by the commission that the rates complained of [illegible] the fourth and third sections of the act to regulate commerce, and that, as a matter of general application, rates at Denver to or from the east, or to or from the Pacific coast, ought not to be higher than those between San Francisco or other Pacific coast terminals and the Missouri river or points east. While there are perhaps instances in both directions where higher intermediate rates may properly be maintained, no exception has been claimed as to any article west-bound. In the case of east-bound traffic, the carriers' contention that the rate on sugar might be [illegible] is sustained, it being found that the circumstances and conditions governing the traffic are different when it is carried to Missouri river points than when it stops at Denver. The commission also decides that Denver is not entitled by reason of its being nearer to San Francisco to a lower rate than that in force from the Missouri river. The decision is confined to the general situation, but the carriers are recommended to correct the injustice apparently resulting from rates on certain articles mentioned in the testimony, and the Denver chamber of commerce or any person interested is given leave to bring any specific complaint to the attention of the commission. A further ruling in this important case is that a railroad is not justified in discriminating against a community or an individual by the fact that the person or locality so discriminated against is not directly injured. The law declares that under like circumstances and conditions every individual, every commodity and every community shall be treated alike, and the fact that they are not is a violation of law. The denial of a legal right is itself an injury.

Some Philosophers Say that the character of a people is determined by climate and soil. A notion exists in this region that the underlying limestone and consequent mountain breeze produce large men, frank in manner, brave, inclined to oratory and ornamental conversation and women of uncommon beauty. A high altitude, sandy soil and good living are conducive to beauty of form and in a way to the free graces of life.

However, when you meet a person who is energetic, ambitious, jubilant, hospitable, prosperous and pleasant to look on, remember he has been to the Colorado Springs Infirmary of Osteopathy, Medicine and Surgery, and is, like the long list of other patients, well pleased and thoroughly satisfied with the world. BUCKHORN CONTROL CHANGES HANDS

William A. Otis and Company Will Now Steer the Destinies of This Company—New Officers and Directors Elected—Active Policy Outlined.

The control of the Buckhorn Gold Mining company has passed into the hands of the firm of Wm A Otis [illegible] stocks. The deal was closed yesterday when the holdings of H M Blackmer the former president of the company and of Asa T Jones the former secretary were purchased by the Otis people for a consideration of something like $50,000.

New directors and officers have been chosen and are as follows: President William A Otis; vice president N S Gandy; secretary and treasurer William P Sargent and assistant secretary C D Titus. These with Henry McAllister and F J Robinson constitute the directorate.

The Buckhorn company has a capitalization of 1,500,000 shares of which 250,000 shares are in the treasury and $12,000 cash. The company is in excellent condition with no debts or litigation—all the litigation having been recently settled and the trouble arising from the over-issue of the stock some time ago having been entirely smoothed over.

The company is one of the [illegible] camp and the stock [illegible] high [illegible] stock. The [illegible] the Cross claim nine acres adjoining the Golden Cycle on Bull hill [illegible] adjoining the block of ground of school section [illegible] is now being done and [illegible] located in the [illegible] between Bull hill and Bull mountain.

The showing on the [illegible] the most favorable of any of the different territory and it is very likely that the company [illegible] on its own account although it has not yet been definitely decided whether the company will do the work or whether the ground will be leased. The other [illegible] as soon as possible and the company will assume an active policy.

The books of the company have been moved to the offices of William A Otis and company in the Giddings block where the stock will henceforth be transferred.

POINTER HAS PRODUCED $41,173.23

During the Past Six Months—The Stock Was Yesterday Listed as a Mine on the Colorado Springs Mining Stock Exchange.

The sheets which were sent out by the Colorado Springs Mining Stock Exchange yesterday showing that the stock of the Pointer Gold Mining company had been listed as a mine also contained interesting information of the output of the Pointer claim for the past six months. The figures are as follows:

[illegible]	$ 692 0[illegible]
August	4,970 0[illegible]
September	6,690 23
October	6,050 2[illegible]
November	11,744 36
December	8,758 44
Total	$41,173 23

Inasmuch as very little information is given out by the officers of the company this official statement is of some interest. It would be more so if the exchange had made some requirements that the officers should state just how much ore is showing in the bottom level of the mine and really [illegible] [illegible] with the mine or whether development has already shown that it dips into the Irish Mollie of the Mint company.

It will be seen from the figures that the production last month when very little ore was shipped compared to the amount which is being sent out this month was valued at more than $8,000 [illegible] month so far.

Fifty men are at present working on the Pointer claim.

In addition to this property which consists of about three acres the company also owns 20 acres additional mostly on Mineral and Tenderfoot hills. The capitalization of the company is 1,250,000. There is at present $8,000 cash in the treasury.

The stock started as a ticker on the mines list yesterday by selling down to 18 cents due to the rumors to the effect that the Mint might get most of the ore [illegible]

MARGARET CLAIM HAS BEEN LEASED

For a Term of 18 Months to D. H. Sutton Who Will Do Vigorous Development Work, Employing 50 Shifts a Month.

The directors of the Margaret Gold Mining company have just grant[ed] a lease on the south 1000 feet of their Margaret claim on Ironclad hill.

The lease has been granted to D H Sutton who is to [illegible] work [illegible] [illegible] of the present month and work [illegible] shifts a month [illegible]

[illegible] done upon it. It is probable that the present lessee will put down a shaft to a good depth and he is confident of [illegible] up some good ore [illegible] vein [illegible] near the surface in [illegible] shafts but the values [illegible] extensive drifting.

The company also owns a little over [illegible] [illegible] the Sunshine [illegible]

MISSOURI MAY BE A MINE.

The Present Indications in the Property Are Highly Promising—A Large Body of Low Grade Ore in Sight Which Can Be Cheaply Mined.

Reports have been [illegible] Mining [illegible] in this [illegible] which has been [illegible] [illegible] rather than the [illegible] first made [illegible]

It will be remembered that the [illegible] [illegible] that Damp [illegible] McCarthy and others had been granted [illegible] in that portion of the Missouri which is [illegible] and that they had made [illegible] on the ore which encouraged them [illegible]

[illegible] to go to work even if the tests showed only [illegible] values. It now transpires that not only is there a very large body of low grade ore in sight which will pay handsomely considering the very slight cost of mining it but that there is also a streak of high grade [illegible] There has not been any [illegible] [illegible] property [illegible]

"I Told You So"

Late in December, 1900, I stated in my advertisements that Cripple Creek stocks were at bed rock, and predicted that a general advance would begin early in 1901.

It is yet early in 1901, but the predicted advance has occurred. A general advance began January 2nd, and is still under way, as a comparison of prices will readily show.

Another Prediction

This upward movement will continue, and prices of good stocks will reach a higher range than at any time in their previous history.

My Advice

Is to buy all good stocks at once, and get the full benefit of this advance.

While selecting stocks for purchase, investigate the merits of Zoe, Lucrative and St. Thomas. I am certain these stocks will show strong advances, as the properties they represent are steadily improving with development.

THE COLORADO SPRINGS MINING STOCK EXCHANGE

Colorado Springs, Jan. 12.—The market this morning on the Colorado Springs Mining Stock exchange was quite animated, and prices were on the whole very firm. There were some cases of weakness but they were offset by the stocks which scored advances. The market seems to be now upon a basis of very healthy trading and firm to advancing prices. The stocks which have made rather theatrical advances on mere rumors and excitement have settled down to prices more compatible with what is known of the showing, and the stocks which represent known quantities are holding on the front. The indications are for a moderately heavy market in the coming week; with a healthy demand and firm prices. The people who have been hiding their money behind pessimistic suspicions of Cripple Creek are coming to their senses and bringing out their coin to invest in the attractive purchases of which the market still has a goodly number; and the activity which is reigning in camp bids fair to create a constantly-growing demand.

Burlington Route

You Deal With But One Concern.

The Burlington Route operates its own trains over its own tracks every foot of the way from Denver to Chicago and St. Louis.

When you buy a ticket over the Burlington, you deal with but one concern. If you have any cause for complaint or think you have, which amounts to the same thing—you do business with but one railroad. You are not told that "we're not responsible for this," or "he shouldn't have said that," or "we'll refer this to our Chicago office."

Two trains a day Denver to Omaha, Chicago, Kansas City, and St. Louis—the Chicago Special at 4:00 p. m., the Vestibuled Flyer at 10:00 p. m.

Train for Black Hills, Montana and Puget Sound leaves Denver 11:30 p. m.

MINING REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Details of the Various Mining Transactions Which Have Taken Place and News of Strikes and Shipments at Camp.

DEVELOPMENT NEWS

Jolly Jane

The Jolly Jane company is making [illegible] cuts [illegible] Battle mountain [illegible] When [illegible] [illegible] this fate the company will [illegible] to start cross cutting for the big vein that was opened on the surface and which is expected to show plenty of pay ore with depth

The company is in [illegible] shape so that the work which it is now prosecuting can be continued steadily

Reports from the Grace Arthur claim which is another property of the Jolly Jane company, and located on Beacon hill are also very encouraging as the lessees feel sure that the big vein which they have opened is one of the El Paso veins. They are developing those veins as rapidly as possible and several hundred feet of work have [illegible] been done on [illegible] claim

St Thomas

The shaft house on the property of the St Thomas Co on Beacon hill has now been completed and the machinery installed Active work has just been begun under ground and the company will crosscut from the bottom of the 300-foot shaft at once for the contact vein and those running parallel to it The shaft is now being re-timbered and new ladders are being put in and everything made ship shape preparatory to a most aggressive campaign of [illegible] work [illegible] will be shipping ore regularly

Gold Bond.

The Gold Bond company owning the property on Gold hill has decided to begin work on its own account and will begin the sinking of a shaft from down to a depth of [illegible] feet to the 300 foot point [illegible] A very favorable [illegible] recently developed [illegible] tion of this ground under lease to Ross and Hummer and the company will [illegible] gaining the 300 foot point before any lateral work is attempted

It is believed that the Mollie Mc Guire claim of the Mint company has an excellent chance of getting the Pointer ore shoot as it is pretty well established that the vein extends into [illegible] to be of a permanent nature. The Mint company is engaged in sinking a shaft which is now in the neighborhood of 00 feet deep and which will be extended at least 100 feet before any [illegible] later work is undertaken of which up to the present there has been [illegible] working with a good plant of machinery and air drills. The property of the Merrimac Consolidated Mining Co has passed into the control of the [illegible] Blake & Griffin Investment company. The property consists of [illegible] acres of [illegible] [illegible] upon their property about a month ago has added value to it. The Merrimac ground is being developed by the company in a crosscut from the 10 foot level in the shaft. The crosscut is run [illegible] [illegible] Nevin vein [illegible] [illegible] in the value. Some ore is now being sacked—some [illegible] have been opened in the crosscut and one sample has returned as high as $614 40 to the ton. The Bull Hill Consolidated Mining [illegible] has just [illegible] over the 210 foot shaft on the O K claim on Bull hill. A well [illegible] vein is exposed in the [illegible] shaft and it is the intention of the company to immediately commence drifting in both directions. After the drifting is well under way the shaft will be [illegible]

STRIKE NEWS

Some of the strikes recently reported from the camp will be found [illegible] in the following items

Hart

The showing on the company property is growing better as work is prosecuted. At a depth of 95 feet the company is drifting on a [illegible] which was opened in the shaft and has now been [illegible] 183 feet each way northwest and southeast and the showing is very encouraging. The vein varies between four and five feet in width and the assays [illegible] between [illegible] [illegible] to the [illegible] is accomplished [illegible] and the present showing indicates that something very substantial should be encountered soon

The two center claims of the four the company is working [illegible] on is leased and the [illegible] will be. It is the intention of the company to lease all of the portion of the [illegible] which are not being worked now

Sahlaro

An important development has just taken place in the American Beauty claim of the Shannon company. In a drift to the west of the [illegible] distance of 30 feet the vein has widened out to six feet and the values have been improving from $8 to $22 across the entire breast of the drift and some ore is now being saved

An examination has just been made of the mine by Expert Durnell who reports that excellent indications are now showing for a permanent ore shoot. The strata in the vein are coming together along the hanging wall resulting in a concentration [illegible] the showing across the entire width of the vein is also very encouraging

This development has been made at a depth of 100 feet and the company has decided to sink to the 200 foot point at once and open up the ore from that depth. The mine is equipped with a good plant of machinery and the sinking can be quickly accomplished

The American Beauty claim is located on Gold hill and surrounded by [illegible] well known shippers as Pointer, Caledonia Anaconda and Gold Bond. The ore which is being taken out of the drift now resembles very closely that which is being produced from the recent strike on the Gold Bond property

The work which the company is prosecuting under able management is of a most vigorous character and from now on will be more so. A night shift is to be put to work at once which will mean the employment of several more men. The company has a good cash balance on hand and a good amount of treasury stock so that it is able to [illegible]

The main shaft on the territory on Bull hill being worked by the Amanda Consolidated company is now down [illegible] [illegible] dike has been encountered. This dike makes a very good showing and is well mineralized. It is expected that in a distance of about ten feet a known vein will be encountered which on the surface has shown splendid values. The surface on the Amanda claim pans well and the prospects at the present time are most encouraging. Stock in the company is largely held in the east and the company was one of the successful flotations of Mr J. M. Hawkins president of the Hawkins Acton Investment company

Atahaulpa Leasing.

The Atahaulpa Leasing company operating on the Cuess claim of the [illegible] crosscut to the vein at a depth of 4.5 feet and find it wider than it was before and even more mineralized. They are drifting both ways on the vein and saving shipping ore which they will store [illegible] ment accumulates. The ore which they have been taking out pays all the expenses of the good development work [illegible] now being continued down for another 75 foot lift on the [illegible] The indications are that they will have a mine by the time they attain a depth of 500 feet

Gold Dollar.

The reported strike in the Gold Dollar is merely a new development in the third level. A [illegible] has been run for 30 feet on the part known as the middle vein with the result that the shoot has increased in value and size. [illegible] from the recent shipment from the Cripple Creek Columbia claim under lease to [illegible] Mining company. The consignment consisted of about [illegible] mostly in the course of development work and returned an average value of $27 in gold to the ton. Ore is still being mined in the 300 [illegible] [illegible] in the near future. Negotiations are pending for a large plant of machinery to be installed over the shaft which will include large pumps to handle the water which has heretofore prevented the sinking of the shaft below its present depth

Since the company [illegible] an output of about 110 tons has been made and it is planned to maintain this. Estimates figured upon a most conservative basis show that the company can produce from $25 000 to [illegible] per month [illegible] dividend can be anticipated by the end of the first three months' operations. The dividend figured upon amounts to $4 000 per quarter so according to the above estimate it would be easily possible for the company to accumulate a cash reserve of over $100 000 besides distributing $180 000 in dividends

The stock is to be floated at [illegible] cents per share. On the par value of the stock the dividend represents [illegible] per cent and [illegible] per cent on the investment

Lease Makes $9 000 per Month

The major portion of the ground is being operated directly by the company, but one part of it is being worked under lease by Dalz [illegible] and Wilson. This lease is earning a profit of $9 000 per month although it extends from the surface down only to 300 feet. This part of the territory can easily be cut at good depth by extending the present company workings. grade ore which was sent out Wednesday by A. L. Monroe was hoisted from the bottom of the 100-foot winze sunk from the first level. As this plan of operation is somewhat difficult the new shaft which is being sunk on the property will be connected with the old workings and hoisting done from there. Indications of good ore are obtained at the 70-foot level in the new shaft although no assay returns have been received to prove that the stuff is pay mineral.

Acacia.

The production from the Wrockloff lease of the Acacia company is soon to be doubled. More men are to be put to work and development to be made more steady. The lease has been producing from $12,000 to $14,000 per month while considerable dead work has been in progress. Drifting continues on the vein at the 625-foot level with frequent five-ounce assays.

Detroit Property.

The Detroit Gold Mining company owning the Devide claim on Tenderfoot hill, are [illegible] blocks. James P. Tykerman has secured a two years lease on the north block, and is actively pushing the work preparatory to sinking a shaft on a vein that crosses the property at that point showing values of $8 per ton on the surface. It is expected that a rich vein will be opened deeper down. Prop[illegible] south part of the property, where the company have a shaft 200 feet deep from which point some drifting has been done. The proposition is to sink this shaft 400 feet deeper and then crosscut, catching the main discovery vein of the Hoosier which is known to come down into the Detroit property at about this point. It is believed that since the Hoosier found bonanza values in this vein that the Detroit will find the same. Work will be vigorously pushed as soon as the lease is completed.

Big Banta.

Howell, Olmstead and Carruthers leasing on the Big Banta on Battle Mountain have sent out their initial shipment of five tons of ore. Returns of about two ounces in gold to the ton are expected from this Battle Mountain Consolidated company's property. The present operators have only been working a short time and are obtaining the ore from a depth of 50 feet. The vein is supposed to be the extension of the [illegible] was the object of considerable search in the Rose Nicol company's ground.

Dante.

Lessees Sebeck brothers, operating the old Matoon block of the Dante company's property, are preparing a shipment of about 40 tons of average [illegible] three-ounce ore.

Zoe.

A shipment of 50 tons of smelting grade ore was closed Tuesday from the Zoe company's property. Considerable of the ore is from the drift at the 300-foot level. The ore is gaining in value with depth, making the shipment one of the most valuable which has ever been sent out from the property.

Col. Dames.

A trial shipment of from five to ten tons of ore is being saved by Lessee Crawford operating on the Speeler claim of the Colonial Dames Co.

El Paso.

For the month of December the El Paso company shipped 200 tons of average two-ounce ore, which returned $12,000 gross to the company. Crosscutting at 650-foot depth will be commenced in a few days.

Unexpected.

Returns have been received from the latest, and sixth shipment sent out from the Unexpected claim of the Central Consolidated company, under lease to Lennox and Giddings of this city. The consignment consisted of 32 tons and returned values of 1.13 ounces in gold to the ton which is lower than the previous shipment. [illegible] The company received a little over [illegible] as royalty from the present one. The lessees [illegible] for the extension of the [illegible] shoot opened at the surface, and are at that time [illegible] out a fair amount of the ore which was [illegible] above the second level, [illegible] feet below the surface.

Atlantis Mines.

The Atlantis Mines corporation has completed the work of cutting a station at the 300 depth and a drift has been run 40 feet in each direction on the vein. A shipment of [illegible] tons of medium grade ore was closed [illegible].

Mountain Beauty.

A shipment of 15 tons of ore that is expected to return 75 ounces in gold to the ton was sent out lately by Lessees Murphy and associates operating the block 3 of the Mountain Beauty company's property on Bull hill.

Anaconda.

Lessee Dave Welch, operating block [illegible] of the Anaconda company's property on Gold hill, sent out a shipment Monday of 20 tons of ore that is expected to return $50 to the ton.

Midget No. 2.

Lessee A. L. Munroe, leasing the Midget No. 2 on Gold hill, sent [illegible] 20 tons of smelting grade ore. Munroe is sinking a new shaft on the property and has already attained a depth of 50 feet at which point a promising vein is coming in.

Gold King.

Returns have just been received in this city from a shipment sent out from the Gold King claim on Gold hill, a property of the Savage Gold and Copper Mining company. The property is under lease to J. N. Dean & Co., who are working in the [illegible] level in a very good ore shoot. The recent consignment consisted of about 18 tons of ore which returned values of $24 in gold to the ton. This is the latest of a series of frequent shipments which is being maintained. The Savage company owns other properties in Cripple Creek, copper and lead properties in the Silver City district of New Mexico, and valuable lead and zinc mines in the Nogales district of Arizona. It is an interest of [illegible] Kinnie-Davis investment company of this city.

C. C. Columbia.

A shipment of between 15 and 20 tons left the property of the Cripple Creek Columbia on Beacon hill Monday. The ore came from the new vein at a depth of 340 feet, where the lessees now have [illegible] and have the shoot opened for a distance of about 20 feet. The present shipment is expected to run about three or four ounces in gold to the ton. From now on the lessees expect to be able to maintain regular shipments. A new plant of machinery is to be installed at once and the shaft put down another 100 feet. Sinking has been delayed on account of the heavy flow of water.

Deadwood.

Symes and Delany, leasing on the lower Deadwood, sent out a carload of ore Friday.

Findley.

A shipment of forty-five tons of four-ounce ore was sent out Friday by Lessee Steelsmith on the Findley. The present production is averaging about 150 tons per week of smelting grade ore, and at the same time sinking is being accomplished and it is the intention of the lessee to put the shaft down to the 800-foot depth where a level will be run.

Lucky Guss.

Judge Porter, who has a lease on the main workings of the Lucky Guss, will tomorrow send out a shipment of screenings which has been saved during the last month in the course of development work. The shaft has reached the 1,000-foot point where the property [illegible] decidedly well, and it is thought that the Noble ore shoot has been encountered at this depth.

DEALS AND LEASES

Little Bessie.

The directors of the Little Bessie Gold Mining company have just granted a lease on the Beacon hill property of the company to Messrs. M. Kinney and D. J. Duncan, well known in connection with the Zoe, Lucrative, St. Thomas and other popular companies.

The lessees to extend his two years from date and shipments for 50 per cent flat royalties. The lessees intend to sink a deep working shaft on the property and to install a plant of machinery, prospecting the ground thoroughly for the extension of the El Paso-Kimberly-Columbia veins which have been determined by a careful underground survey of those mines to cross the Little Bessie property.

D. J. Duncan left Thursday for Cripple Creek to let a contract for 200 feet of sinking to be done immediately. The shaft will be a modern, double-compartment affair, complete in every way, and will be put down to a depth much greater than the immediate contract will call for, but the first stop for lateral work will be made at the 200 foot point. After the shaft is started a plant of machinery will be [illegible] decided whether it will include an electric or a steam hoist.

Two distinct veins have already been traced across the claim, which is located on Beacon hill adjoining the Cripple Creek Columbia and the Raaler of the C. K. & N. One of these veins is known as the east and west vein, and the other is one of those which extend into the Columbia and the other properties, and is the extension of the west branch of the famous Mary McKinney vein. Both have been opened up in various shallow workings on the Little Bessie and recent examinations which have been made [illegible] the new lessees' behalf have been successful in showing very favorable indications which determined Messrs. Kinney and Duncan to take the ground.

The new shaft which is going down will be an entirely new one to be sunk somewhere near the junction of the two veins. If the appearances at a depth of 100 feet justify it, crosscutting will be started at that point, if not lateral work will not be attempted until another 100 feet is gained.

NO GREASE OR DANGEROUS DRUGS.

In "Herpicide" the New Scientific and Successful Dandruff Treatment.

Have you dandruff? Then you have a contagious parasitic disease unpleasant, unhealthy and one that will eventually lead to baldness. To cure it you must destroy the parasite that eats at the root of the hair. The only preparation for destroying these germs is Newbro's Herpicide. Charles Klein of Laramie, Wyo., says: "Herpicide allayed the itching, cured the dandruff and stopped my hair's falling out." Herpicide is free from grease or dangerous drugs and makes hair glossy and soft as silk. One bottle will convince you of its merits.

MINING NOTES AROUND TOWN

The shaft on the Lett sad Consolidated property has attained a depth of about 40 feet at which point sinking has been suspended and a crosscut has been started to catch the vein. It is estimated that it will take at least 100 feet of work to reach it at this depth which cannot be accomplished in less than 30 days. Sinking was resumed a short time ago from the 250-foot level where good values were opened. The values, however, were [illegible] running about the as high as [illegible] ounces for several feet [illegible] again. The management then decided that greater depth was needed for consistent values and began sinking at once. The developments in the vein at the present depths will be awaited with interest.

F. H. PETTINGELL HAS NICE CALENDARS FOR CLIENTS.

The well-known mining broker, F. H. Pettingell of this city, is distributing among his clients very attractive calendars and invites all those who have not yet received one to call at his offices in the Bank block to be presented with one. Mr. Pettingell spent much time and thought in selecting the designs for the calendars, and it can be said that he has succeeded in securing some which make very acceptable souvenirs of a [illegible] solicitude for the up-to-dateness of his clients.

LARGE PUMP FOR LUCRATIVE PROPERTY.

The Lucrative company, operating the Eagle mine, at Bonanza, Saguache county, has decided to put in a much larger pump than the one now in use. The water is not making any faster than it was, but the pump in operation now is only good for about 50 feet further of the shaft, and as the intention of the company is to sink to at least 500 feet, a larger pump is necessary. The company is doing nothing but development work, but is taking out ore of the same character as the first shipment made, which ran upward of $50 to the ton, and is opening an immense body of ore that will make a heavy output within the next two or three months or as soon as the shaft is sunk deep enough to give a sufficient depth of stoping ground.

LEGAL TENDER FOUNDATION HAS BEEN COMPLETED.

C. F. Smith has completed the big foundations on the Legal Tender, in [illegible] worth of stone and other material. The big hoist is on the ground with the exception of a few minor parts, and it is [illegible] without them, as the company is [illegible] present two engines are being used in this work, one for each compartment.

BIG PRODUCTION FROM BURNS OF ACACIA.

Two [illegible] now [illegible] ore on the Wrockloff lease of the Acacia company, and production this month will be more than doubled, and for several months to come. The production in previous months has amounted to from $12,000 to $14,000. Drifting continues on the Orphan Belle vein at a depth of 625 feet, and while $100 assays are frequently secured they are mainly from stringers not having any aggregate size to warrant saving. With the air connection completed, and other [illegible] will now devote more time toward locating the shoot on the fourth level which several months' exploration has failed to disclose.

Chambers and associates, operating the block of the Burns of the Acacia company, have replaced the gallows frame and other structures recently destroyed by fire, and they are hoisting ore again.

ELECTRIC HOIST INSTALLED ON THE PAUPER CLAIM.

E. O. Trescott, leasing the west block of the Pauper, located on the east side of Bull hill below the American Eagles, has installed an electric hoist and built an engine house, and has had a shift at work cleaning up for several days. He began crosscutting a few days ago on the 150-foot level, where he starts north through a dike, at the first wall of which a former lessee discontinued operations. Mr. Trescott expects to find the Hull City-Lillie vein within or just beyond the dike.

RED MOUNTAIN DISTRICT.

The Silver King is producing some fine silver-lead ore, and is being worked under lease.

The Mountain Lion group, an old-time property, is witnessing considerable work and supplies have been taken up for the winter. The property is located between the Camp Bird and Bob Tall, and commands excellent territory. The operating company will inaugurate development by starting a 3,000-foot crosscut, which will tap several leads at great depth. Three shifts will be constantly employed and the mine again brought to the front. Some work has been done in past years and splendid silver-lead ores shown. With modern appliances the ground will again prove a profitable proposition.

A crosscut is being driven on the Mathews lode and is now in about 100 feet. It is considered a first-class piece of ground and careful tests show the ore to be worth 22 ounces silver and 74 per cent lead, with a small gold percentage.

A car of good ore has just been shipped from the Congress.

The National Bell is working a number of leasers and some fine ore has been taken out during the past few weeks.

M. Lonergan and others are developing the Alexander with good results.—(San Miguel Examiner.

OIL AT RATON.

An expert from the oil fields of Pennsylvania and Ohio has been in Raton this week investigating the oil prospects in the vicinity of this place. He represents large capital which will take hold readily of any proposition which he may report on favorably. The gentleman is well pleased with his investigations and believes that the indications conclusively show the existence of oil a few miles southeast of the city, and he thinks the probabilities are favorable for this proving an oil field of great extent and exceptional richness. The rock taken from the prospect which was examined by the expert is strongly impregnated with oil, and the fact that it shows in spots a "bleeding" of petroleum is regarded as a particularly favorable indication. The chances are that an oil boom such as has never been seen in the Rocky mountain region will soon be on in Colfax county.—(Maxwell Mirage.

A Review of Colorado Mines, and the Colorado Springs Market for 1900.

From WILLIAM P. BONBRIGHT & CO.'S Market Letter of January 3, 1901.

The year has been marked by steady progress in the development of Colorado's mineral resources, and the results, summed up at its close, are of a generally satisfactory character. At Cripple Creek somewhat exceptional conditions prevailed during the greater part of the period under review, a more detailed reference to which will later be made; in spite of this fact the production of the district shows a handsome gain, while the foundations have been laid for larger accomplishments in the future. A notable feature of the year was the marked increase of interest in districts which for a while had been overshadowed by Cripple Creek's marvelous accomplishments. This has been evidenced by accessories of capital and by the projection of a very large number of new mining enterprises, specially has this been true in Ouray, San Miguel and San Juan counties, in the Leadville district, and in Clear Creek and Boulder counties; in fact, there is scarcely a district throughout the state in which this impetus has not been distinctly felt. It is most pronounced in the San Juan region, where as the result of the inauguration of a large number of new mining enterprises, extensive development may be expected during the coming year. Each of the San Juan counties shows a marked increase in its production of the precious metals. Leadville's advance has been surprising, its production of gold, silver, lead and manganiferous iron have increased from $9,672,550 in 1899 to $12,775,000 in 1900. There has also been a revival of mining interest in Hinsdale county; and attention has been directed to the Crestone district, in the Sangre de Cristo range, where important developments are in progress on the Baca Grant. To sum up, the year has witnessed a very decided increase of interest in mining throughout the state; and since this has taken the form of property development rather than speculation, the outlook for the future is full of promise.

Production The gold production of Colorado for 1900 may be safely placed at $29,775,000, an increase of $3,525,000, or 13 1-3 per cent., over the revised figures for the preceding year. An equally conservative estimate of Cripple Creek's production is $22,500,000, an increase of $3,000,000, or 15 per cent. over 1899. To date, the Cripple Creek district has produced a total of about $89,900,000.

The following tables show the continued rapid increase in gold production in the state and in the Cripple Creek district during the past ten years:

Gold Production of Colorado.		Gold Production of Cripple Creek.
1891	$ 4,600,000 00	1891	$ 200,000 00

1900	29,775,000 00	1900	22,500,000 00

Dividends The dividends distributed by Cripple Creek companies during 1900 reached a total of $6,487,674.29, an increase of 19 per cent, over the preceding year. Of this amount, however, $2,219,190.53 was derived from sales of property. To date, dividends paid by Cripple Creek companies aggregate $18,033,560.57.

The following is condensed from a complete table, compiled by the Mining Editor of The Colorado Springs Gazette, of the 44 companies which distributed dividends during 1900:

The Market The check to speculation and investment inseparable from a presidential election and the disturbance incident to the numerous consolidations and property sales of the year in Cripple Creek, were the two causes largely responsible for the general unsatisfactory market of the period under review. The heavy losses sustained in the Independence T. and M. operation, and the more recent Stratton's Independence fiasco, gave severe shocks to public confidence, and seriously affected the general market. In spite of these adverse influences, the business of The Colorado Springs Mining Stock Exchange, while showing a decrease from that of the preceding year, was nevertheless very heavy, the transactions aggregating $30,498,154.91. The year was characterized by notable advances in several of the dividend payers and high class stocks and by numerous declines in the prospect list and among the more speculative issues. This will be illustrated by the following comparative figures:

	Dec. 29, 1899.	Dec. 29, 1900.		Dec. 29, 1899.	Dec. 29, 1900.

A Year of Readjustment Nineteen hundred will be looked back upon as one of the most important years in the history of Cripple Creek, witnessing, as it has, the inauguration of a movement of great significance to its progress and development. The consolidation in April last of the Elkton, Raven and Tornado companies provided a valuable object lesson which has set the fashion for the district. Sales and transfers of mining property in furtherance of consolidation plans, followed in rapid succession throughout the remainder of the year, the aggregate reaching enormous proportions. Following the sale of his Battle Mountain bonanza, Mr. Stratton began the purchase of mining property in several portions of the district, principally in Poverty Gulch and on Gold, Globe and Bull Hills, and has up to the present time acquired a total of about 500 acres, for which he has paid, according to current report, fully four and one-half million dollars. Plans for the development of this vast estate are on a scale commensurate with its magnitude, and the results cannot fail in being of immense importance to the district at large. A third important consolidation was that finally consummated less than a month ago of the Jack Pot, Ingham, Nugget and Doctor and Chief properties. This consolidation has put an end to harrassing and costly litigation, and, as in the case of Elkton, will enable extensive areas of rich ground to be rapidly developed, and with a vast saving in expense. In addition to these large operations, there have been innumerable changes in property holdings by companies and individuals, all directed to the same end. The movement thus begun will doubtless continue for some time to come, with the result of placing the enterprises of the district on a more substantial and businesslike basis. A likely consolidation of the near future, among the more important ones now pending, is that of the El Paso, Kimberly and Cripple Creek Columbia companies.

Important Happenings But little space is left for reference to a few of the more important events of the year. The construction of The Colorado Springs and Cripple Creek District Railway has proceeded without interruption, and completion is assured within the next sixty days. The importance of this road to the development of Cripple Creek can scarcely be over-estimated, and its completion will be the signal for a marked increase in the volume of ore shipments. Ore reduction facilities have been practically doubled by the completion during the past few weeks of the mill of the Standard company at Colorado City and of the Union Gold Extraction company at Florence. The Portland company's 300-ton mill at Colorado City is also under active construction and will be completed within the next six months. The faith evidenced by the projectors of these enterprises, themselves among the heaviest mine owners in Cripple Creek, should inspire a large confidence in the future of the district which now enters upon the second decade of its marvelous history. The coming year may be expected to go far towards solving one of the vital questions connected with this development, since numerous shafts will be sunk to far greater depths than have yet been attained. Recent developments, particularly on Gold Hill and on the southern borders of the district, with which readers of these letters have been made acquainted, are full of promise.

The Colorado Springs Mining Stock Association. The following figures show the rapid growth of the Colorado Springs mining market. Sales on the Colorado Springs Mining Stock Exchange:

	Shares.	Cash Value.
1897	49,723,857	$7,573,629.00
1898	66,575,999	10,253,146.00
1899	236,165,443	34,446,956.54
1900	195,604,910	30,498,154.90

Within the next three or four months the Exchange will be quartered in the new building of granite and steel which is being erected for its occupancy by Mr. W. S. Stratton at a cost of $300,000.

COLORADO STATE INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR BOYS.

Written for the Gazette — By Ellis Meredith.

THERE once said it was a hard ... for girls ... things ... father had said with the Shakespearean student. There is a divinity that shapes our ends rough hew them how we will and let it go at that he would have been nearer the truth. It is not an easy world for anybody unless we except a favored few who can hardly ... constitute a class.

It is not an easy world for boys. Certainly ... ready knows the fate of the boy. If there is a bedroom that cannot be heated it falls to his lot. If somebody has to put up with a wash ... instead of a bureau it is the boy. If there is a room with a patched carpet he has it. If there is any worn and battered furniture it falls to his lot. If anybody has to wait for ... the people or make the old clothes do, it is the boy, always and invariably the boy. This isn't because parents prefer their girls but because there is an idea prevalent that boys don't mind such things, and won't notice if the pieces are all misfits and the paper is a dull purple with yellow sky-rockets on it and a green border. Moreover for some unaccountable ... thing boys lacking in sentiment and much less easily touched than girls. It is to be hoped that some day a man will arise who shall be to the boy what Agassiz was to the bug and the beetle.

It is easier to find a home for a baby girl than for a boy. It is easier to place a little girl than a boy and while there is more prejudice against a reformatory girl than against a reformatory ... the weight of numbers on his side.

The use of the word "reformatory" by the way is discountenanced and ... the old time when the Golden school was spoken of as the institution ... the dark ages. There may be delinquents and defectives but it is at least a question if there are any incorrigible children under 16 years of age. There are children of incorrigible parents and children who have been born to the inheritance of Ishmael but it is the duty of the state to buy back their birthright for them and this is what is being done at Golden.

The majority of the boys at Golden have been sent there for petty larceny. They have found themselves face to face with the condition spoken of by Agur the son of Jakeh who prayed that he might not be poor and steal. Apparently the same difficulties that ... existed 700 years B. C. So long as there is hunger and poverty there will be theft and so long as boys ... the street we must expect to increase the size of our institutions where we ... to undo our sins of omission.

There are now at Golden 159 boys ranging from 10 to 19 years of age, most of them are from 12 to 1... They have ... for the following crimes:

Assault	4
Arson	—
Burglary	35
Embezzlement	—
False Pretense	4
Forgery	1
Incorrigible	1
Larceny	80
Malicious mischief	4
Obstructing trains	5
Rape	1
Robbery	[illegible]
Truancy	19
Total	163

It should be stated here that the statute defining burglary in Colorado is considered unduly stringent by many persons fully acquainted with the laws in other states. Anything taken from inside a house no matter of how small value immediately makes the taker a ... criminal than if taken from outside. Two boys, 10 years old might go into a yard together. One of them might pick up a valuable tool and be convicted of larceny, while the other, if he went indoors and pocketed a wornout glove would be guilty of burglary. It is only fair to state this in this connection.

The majority of the boys are from the second, third, fourth and fifth grades. Very few have any more ... who have no schooling is ...

The same thing is noticeable here that has already been remarked in the Home for Dependent Children and the School for Girls i. e. the homes are generally at fault. The following table shows the social condition of the boys received during the last biennial period as well perhaps as figures can show such things and that is not saying much.

... building the two cottages used for different grades as school rooms downstairs and as dormitories upstairs, the administration building, the officers' dwelling, boiler house, barns, sheds, etc, a hospital and a wretchedly inadequate ... until ... is full.

The boys put in their ... days a week in the school and three in the shops. Owing to the crowded condition of the school ... there.

It is a little dangerous ... during the last two years ... implies an elasticity in the ... dollar greater than we have any right to expect. The legislature appropriated $60,000 two years ago for a maintenance fund and $10,000 for needed repairs. Of this latter sum only $8,556 has been available but every dollar has counted as if it were five.

An electric plant has been put in which will light the buildings and furnish motor power to run the laundry ... water.

Last winter there were 14 stoves in the main building and the management used to have nervous prostration every time they thought of what might happen in case of a fire. This winter there is a complete steam heating plant ... all the building comfortably.

There is a steam laundry in the main building with all modern appliances, extractor, mangle, etc, run by electricity.

There are a lot of other improvements looking toward better sanitation and greater convenience that have been made but perhaps there is nothing that would so rouse the envy of the other institutions as the new bath room. Heretofore the boys have bathed in a big cement vat which is not particularly alluring when you come to think of it. The new room is cement lined with a gutter through the center to drain off the water and shower baths arranged so that every individual boy has his own fresh, clean shower under which to scrub and luxuriate. The temperature can be regulated to a nicety. There is a dressing room adjoining containing lockers for each ... military system prevails where the clean clothing is kept so that nothing could be more convenient.

Among some of the other improvements made ... which have ... available may be cited the following:

A new root cellar has been excavated in a convenient hillside walled up and covered thus making a dry frost proof cellar that easily holds 80 tons of vegetables for the use of the school.

Many of the buildings have been thoroughly repaired, painted and new floors laid.

The two cottages and the officers' quarters building have been newly carpeted, interiors painted, new furniture purchased and generally put in first class condition.

Iron roofs have been placed on several of the buildings replacing shingles and all roofs have been re-painted. All the buildings ... iron ... the risk of fire is greatly lessened.

Cottage B dormitory has been newly furnished with sixty white enameled all metal beds with steel woven-wire mattresses. The school room in this cottage has also received twenty new modern desks and seats and the remaining old desks have been thoroughly repaired, varnished and made as good as new. The school room of cottage C has been entirely fitted with new desks and seats.

Many important improvements have been made in our printing office.

A new 12x19 Gally Universal press has been installed, power for same will be furnished by an electric motor.

A ... paper cutter and a stapler together with new and modern type have been added.

The office printed the Proceedings of the Industrial School Section of the Conference of Charities and Corrections which was held in Topeka Kas in May last.

Words of praise for this work have been received from many of the newspaper and professional men of our own and other states.

January 1 1900 the old "Industrial School Record" was changed to magazine form and in name to the Industrial School Magazine. It is published monthly and easily ranks with the best institution papers published in the United States.

A brass band of twelve pieces has been organized and placed under the direction of a competent instructor. This is a valuable addition to the school, a source of benefit to the boys and a pleasure to all.

Several hundred feet of new walks of vitrified brick have been laid and many other improvements too numerous to mention have been completed.

But there are limits to the possibilities of even that sum of money and there are pressing needs that must be ... now if the school is to do its best work for the state.

The dining rooms can only be so called by courtesy. They are properly ... They are low of ceiling, dark even in Colorado, crowded past what is known as elbow room and uninviting. There is no way to ventilate them so that one does not absorb as much through the olfactory nerves as he can possibly feel inclined to eat.

The chapel is simply ... full when all the boys are in their places and the seats are ... squeezed together just as long as it is possible for a small boy to hang on to one ...

There is no excuse in this great free ... for crowding. There must be room for growth. We might as well realize this and put up the right kind of a building while we are about it.

The board is going to ask for an appropriation to erect a two-story building with dining rooms, kitchen ... with an assembly hall on the second floor suitable for entertainments as well as religious services.

If I was the board I should have a basement with a good gymnasium in it, the reading room and library on the second floor. There isn't any ... thing on earth that would ... over a boy ... a library made up of Bancroft's histories, not the original Bancroft but the other one who turns out ... Bancroft's ... the staff of the literary life of the school. This isn't anybody's fault in particular but it is interesting as an illustration of one of the ways in which not to interest boys in reading.

Besides this building the board will ask for another dormitory. This would enable them to utilize all the main building for shop work which is very desirable but one dormitory is hardly enough unless it can be ascertained now that there are to be less boys in the school during the next two years than there have been in the past two ... to accommodate the boys there are two dormitories now and one end of the main building is ... school. Anyone can draw his own inferences. In other words the board ... wants and ought to have, but modestly asks for the minimum with which it is possible to worry along.

About the only thing that is asked that could be dispensed with is an isolation ward for contagious diseases. If the general health of the school was not phenomenal — there have been no deaths since 1895 — there might be more necessity for this. The recent smallpox scare in Golden has made this seem necessary, but it might be feasible to make the building now used for manual training and very close to the hospital answer for this purpose, it being but rarely required, if the manual training ... building. It wouldn't be ideal but it would answer.

MAIN BUILDING.

The water supply is inadequate and the water tank is in a very bad condition. This is something that cannot be permitted without having to pay dearly for it in some way. Poor water always ... sickness and ... the result might be very serious.

Perhaps the greatest handicap upon the school is the fact that it was put in its present location. There are only about 57 acres of land, 25 acres of which can be irrigated and the water supply is scant and unsatisfactory. There is no land directly adjacent that can be irrigated that has much value as farm land. For this reason it is necessary to buy many supplies that are usually raised by the boys in such schools. They raise what they can and make hay while the sun shines and grow vegetables while the water runs but it only runs a very limited time. They ought to have a farm of five hundred acres but there is no way of taking Mohammed to the mountain in his case ... it would cost ... the ... buildings at Golden. Certainly it would be a mistake to move the institution to ... place where parents and friends would find it impossible to visit ... anyway one looks at it. With a farm the boys could be taught many things that are now out of the question. Any man who has had experience ranching will bear testimony that it is next to impossible to find capable farm hands. A good irrigator is a rarity. A competent dairyman is hard to find. A man who knows the difference between young tomato plants and weeds is a ... about nothing to do all ... this and the school is taking up other lines of industry.

There is no claim that the boys are taught to be skilled workmen ready to at once obtain lucrative employment but they are started right and their work is utilized for the school. For instance they make all their own shoes — they are not exactly what Gene Field called "Articles of virtu" but they last about three months and give a boy an idea of the trade of the shoemaker and harness maker. In the tailor shop they learn to make their new clothes and patch the old garments. Their uniforms are a pretty cadet blue and with the exception of their caps the ... everything on the premises ... journeymen but in two departments at least they approximate it. The print-shop is a touchless well arranged apartment that would gladden the ... turned out there is beautiful. There are no rush orders and every boy has time to learn to do things as well as if he was a machine worth $40,000. The report for the past two years which is just out would do credit to any job printing establishment in Colorado. The magazine printed monthly is very creditable but it would have a greater interest for the public if the matter also was at least in part the work of the boys. It might not be so perfect in construction and grammar but it would be better worth while. After all ... to teach the art of expression in as wide a sense as possible? It is the explosive ... long repressed emotions that make them so dangerous. The more fully a boy can express himself, whether it is with pen or pencil or jackknife ... the better for the boy.

The thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts, and sometimes they are beautiful and often they are valuable. The manual training or specifically the sloyd would convince any one that there was plenty of beauty in the minds of these boys. A youngster who can go out and pick a flower and pin it up before him and then carve its semblance so exquisitely that he preserves the veins in the leaves, and almost the texture of the flower itself cannot be said to be lacking in his appreciation of the finer things of life. This training of the hand and eye and mind is good but it would be a good thing to add to it this other form of expression. As a boy thinks in his heart so is he. What he really is is as important as anything he does.

There isn't anything that the boys like so well as the sloyd and no wonder. In sloyd everything means something, everything has some use and everything stands for just what it is in all its perfection or imperfection. It is what Kipling calls "Line work" merciless in its revelations of defects. One little lad in the school, sent there because there seemed to be nowhere else for him although he is guilty of no dereliction whatever, has made the model of a complete hay rack and made it on a scale one foot to an inch, so that it would serve as a perfect pattern for a full grown rack. There are all kinds of joints and sockets and mortises and the instructor has made many variations of his own that are an improvement on the original system. He has the same self satisfied look as the librarian at the state normal. He knows perfectly well the boys would rather be in his room than anywhere else.

Another fault of the present overcrowding and this holds good at the girls' school is a tendency to parole a boy just as soon as possible. It isn't that there is any desire to get rid of the boy but there are so many boys on the waiting list to get in that it is natural to send them out as soon as they bring forth works meet for repentance.

Theoretically it is all right to parole a boy early in the day but practically it is not always best for the boy. He frequently needs moral and mental and physical toning up and that takes time. He needs to grow away from old ideas and above all he needs to learn how to do something well enough so he can make a living. This thing of going off to make his fortune is all very well in fairy tales where you meet a lovely princess who tells you what to do at every turn of the road but it is very different when the princess is an ... who merely insists that one shall move on.

The idea is to keep the boy until he has learned to keep himself, to stand by him until he can stand alone but not to keep him so long that he will be incapable of any initiative on his own part.

The boys have recently organized a band but they have no musical instruction along other lines. Mrs Olds has done what she can but it would be worth while to have some one go to ... once or twice a week to teach them vocal music or have another officer who could be of use for other matters ...

When the college settlement at Rivington street was a new thing one of the problems was how to reach the older boys of the neighborhood. Their Sunday nights were generally spent in low concert halls or places of a similar character. The girls in the settlement decided to give them better music for nothing and to teach them to make music for themselves. After that there was no more trouble on that score. ... Music is yet another form of expression, and one that is too much neglected. The Welsh are the only people since the Greeks who have given it its proper place in their daily life.

The grounds are ample for play and drill if not for potatoes and alfalfa and ... reasonably ... The ... idea is pretty thoroughly eliminated. The only locks and bars are on the dormitories. The discipline is reasonably strict and they have the parole or badge system of merit marks which is usual in these schools. It provides that Each inmate at entrance will be given the twelfth badge.

To be entitled to a parole an inmate must pass for the eleventh, tenth and on up to the first badge and obtain first and second honor badges.

... a boy is entitled to 5 merits. Demerits will be charged against inmates for offenses, according to the schedule furnished.

Company commanders will call the roll of their company each evening and record the number of demerits any inmate has received during the day.

All officers will forward to the superintendent's office within twenty-four hours, on a blank furnished for the purpose a report of demerits or other punishments imposed on any inmate by them.

To advance a badge in any month an inmate must have to his credit after all demerits are deducted no less than the following number of merits viz:

Until the ... badge is obtained, 90 merits will be required each month.

From the sixth to the fifth badge, 100 merits.

From the fifth to the fourth badge, 110 merits.

From the fourth to the third badge, 120 merits.

From the third to the second badge, 130 merits.

From the second to the first badge, 140 merits.

From the first honor to the second honor badge a perfect month.

For exceptionally good conduct, correct information regarding escapes, attempts to escape or scheming, boys may receive additional merits or be ... more than one badge in a month.

For bad conduct, escaping, attempting to escape or scheming etc, a boy may receive additional demerits or be reduced one or more badges in a month.

Corporal punishment in any month may prevent a boy from being advanced for that month.

At the close of each month commanders will bring their daily record book to the superintendent's office, where all will be gone over and the grade standing of each boy determined for the month.

In determining the badge to be awarded the records of the corporal or other punishment will receive due consideration in arriving at the proper conclusion.

When a boy has obtained his second honor badge and held the same clear for one month he may be granted a leave of absence by the Board of Control for four months provided a suitable home is found for him and if good conduct ... maintained this leave of absence will be renewed for one year or longer in the pleasure of the board.

The demerit list is a very comprehensive one but if any boy has a grievance he can see the superintendent on application and be sure of a hearing. Corporal punishment is never permitted except by order of the superintendent.

This is a very inadequate report of work that needs only to be known to commend itself. There is a full line of literature telling all about the school and its different activities, its rules, regulations, parole system, etc, which can be had on application to the superintendent Mr B. L. Olds who is an enthusiast in this work. He has the school organized as it has never been in the past and certainly he has done marvels with the means at his command. Without cutting down on essentials or giving the boys poor food, Mr Olds has still managed to stay within the appropriation and introduced many improvements. Certainly ... the superintendent deserve to come well up toward the top ... and it is to be hoped that the legislature will follow the good old rule of rewarding those who have been faithful in small things by increasing their opportunities. To recapitulate the board is asking for

Dining rooms and chapel	12,000
One cottage	8,500
Steel stand pipe	2,500
Hospital ward	1,000
New well	500
Manual training machinery	2,000
Gymnasium apparatus	500
Total	$112,000

If this appropriation is made we know judging from the past it will be wisely spent. If the members of the legislature could spend even a few hours going over the school they would have no doubts on the subject whatever.

As I have said before in this series of articles this is the place to be economically extravagant. Take care of the children, take care that the good ones do not go wrong, take care of the criminally inclined child because if we don't care for him now we shall have thousands of dollars to spend because of the hundreds we have saved. Some of these boys are undoubtedly bad but it does not follow that all of them are or that even the worst are past redemption. The world is made up of good people ... less. Possibly their virtue would prove of the negative order if tried by hunger and ... and idleness.

When a child goes into a state institution it means that the state goes on his bond; they belong to all of us; they are your boys and my boys and it is our ... give them a chance.

Making the Small Farm Pay.

To work a small farm to a profit within easy reach of railroad communication ... a matter of some capital, a decided preference for the work, average intelligence, persistent and patient industry and good health. There are thousands of small farms within a radius of one hundred miles from New York whose owners have abandoned other pursuits and taken to tilling the land and who could not be induced to go back to their occupations. The farms for the most part were bought by part payment, the balance remaining on bond and mortgage. Twenty per cent of these have been redeemed in five years, and as a rule the debt was paid by the thrift, self-sacrifice and co-operative determination of the man and his wife. One typical example comes to mind. It is of a coach painter. He had worked ten years at his trade for $12 a week, and saved a hundred dollars a year. In the eleventh year there was a strike of his guild and he had to face the prospect of being out of work for some time, by no choice of his own. He went down to Jersey, bought ten acres of land at $100 an acre, paying $500 cash and giving his bond for the remainder. With the balance he bought a horse and cow, a second hand wagon and settled himself to earn a living. He and his wife with a five-year old child lived for two years in a shanty. But this man had the tenacity of a bulldog, the self-reliance of a drummer, and the patience of a trained nurse. When he had been on his place eight years I paid him a visit. His wife met me at the depot, three miles from her home, with a two seated rig and a lively team. I found the couple living in a new cottage that had been built by day labor and which the owner had painted himself. It was a very tasteful structure and was already prettily shaded by the trees that he had set out. In reply to my questions he said that he calculated to make about $800 a year clear. He had bought the adjoining 20 acres on easy terms and had put most of it into good growing shape.—(J. P. Mowbray in the World's Work for January.

The Hay-Pauncefote Treaty.

If the proper representations are made by our government, so that the situation may be understood in England there can be no reason to doubt the prompt acquiescence of Great Britain in the treaty as amended. It leaves the United States at perfect liberty, so far as England is concerned, to build, own, operate and control the Nicaragua canal, we on our part agreeing to throw it open on equal terms to the whole world, both in war and in peace, retaining however the right to take such measures as we may find necessary in the contingency of an attempt on the part of a naval power to use the canal in hostility to us. As it was drawn the Hay-Pauncefote treaty put the canal under the control of all the great powers forming a concert for that purpose in which we should have stood in a minority of one. As amended the treaty leaves us in responsible control of our own enterprise. Mr Hay had sacrificed the Monroe doctrine absolutely. The senate has by its amendments endeavored to safeguard our wise and traditional policy and with tolerable success.—(From "The Progress of the World" in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for January.

Eros: Our Nearest Neighbor in Space

Written for the Gazette by Prof F H Loud of Colorado College

(By Associated Press)

Cambridge Mass Jan 10 Professors Pickering and Wendell of the Harvard observatory have just made some very important discoveries with regard to the new planet Eros From ... the Harvard observatory took photographs of this planet as early as 1893. These photographs when compared with the ones that were taken last night made it possible to tell accurately the path size and distance of the planet from the earth.

The astronomers have determined that the planet is probably not more than twenty miles in diameter and at times comes nearer the earth than any other planet It belongs to a group of planets that ... between Mars and Jupiter but Eros breaks away and often comes this side of Mars thus being nearer the earth than any celestial body except the moon

Those observations will continue at the observatory until about the first of March when it is intended to continue the observations from the station in South America, where it is believed this planet will be visible ... month longer than in any other part of the world

IN astronomical affairs there is a striking relation between the closing days of the nineteenth century and the day with which it began The earlier date January 1, 1801, (ushering in this great period laden with wonders as yet all unguessed) witnessed the discovery of the first of a group of little bodies revolving about the sun They were subsequently found to be very numerous and have been variously styled asteroids, planetoids, and minor planets. The century has run its course, its magnificent additions to man's knowledge and power have taken their places one after another, in its annals, and now the great telescopes of both hemispheres are all directed upon a member of the self-same group of minor planets, the tiny but notable Eros. It is a body but 20 miles in diameter. If it were placed upon the earth s surface a bicyclist could ride all around it in ... but circling, as it does, through the interplanetary spaces, its path (and its path alone) procures for it a distinction in the astronomical world which I suppose no equal volume of extra-terrestrial matter ...

It well illustrates the advance of a hundred years in astronomical methods to compare the circumstances under which the first observation of a minor planet was made with those attending the discovery of this the most important, A hundred years ago Piazzi a noted astronomer of Palermo Sicily was at work upon the preparation of a star-chart. His instruments were similar to those with which the observatory of Colorado college has lately been presented by Mr Blackman We may guess that the clock was no better, but the transit instrument somewhat larger With his eye at the latter, he counted the beats of the pendulum and, as star after star came to the meridian recorded carefully the instant of passage with the height above the horizon thus fixing the precise position in which the star should be charted upon his map His skill was so great and his ... work afforded him the positions of about 50 stars For the sake of accuracy he would observe the same 50 the next night if the weather permitted and so on for four nights after which he would pass to a new set of 50 Thus grain by grain he laboriously accumulated a stock of precise knowledge On the memorable New Year of 1801 Piazzi began his 159th series of 50 stars and completed it without incident Not until the review of the series was made upon a succeeding night was anything unusual detected It then appeared that the 13th of the set was not precisely in that place in the constellation Taurus in which it had been recorded. Either a mistaken entry had been made, or the star had moved The third and fourth night showed that the latter was the true alternation and Piazzi found himself the discoverer of a new planet Lost to sight after a few months it might still have traversed for years an unknown course had not a new department of mathematical astronomy been created for its retention and recognition, and this was done by Gauss the great mathematician whose genius adorned the early portion of this century and remains unrivaled during its later years

In contrast to Piazzi s ... research let us pass to the discovery of Eros On August 13 1898, in the Urania observatory of Berlin one of the younger members of the observing staff Dr Gustav Witt is engaged in an effort to observe anew a number of those now numerous ... which for one reason or another have not for several years been passed under ... scrutiny Thus he will obtain corrections to their calculated places make sure of their identification in the future and ... edge of their motions He has selected for this purpose number 185 Eunike unobserved for nearly a decade He knows as the result of calculation that it must be somewhere in the region of B Aquarii His method is to expose a photographic plate in the focus of the telescope and by the movement of the latter to cause the ... to follow for two hours the ... of the stars Next day the plate is developed ... rate has been the movement that all the star images appear as ... Among these dots however ... line traced by the planet he sought Eunike. Its motion among the stars during two hours has been sufficient to lengthen its image into a trail On the same plate is another trail betokening another minor planet A reference to the tables brings ... at this ... is number 119 Althaea ... hagged along ... in consequence of being at the time nearly in the same direction from the earth Not satisfied Witt examines the plate further assisting his eye by a lens He thus discovers a trail fainter than the others and longer If not due to some inequality in the plate ... body of swifter apparent motion than either Eunike or Althaea This question the telescope can ... swift footed body is discovered threading its way among the stars It is a planet new to astronomy

Were this all Witt might be ... fortunate yet by no means extraordinarily so More than 400 similar discoveries had preceded that of this little wanderer By the photographic method a single dexterous worker Charlois of Nice has discovered as many as ... appeared the Charlois was not 24 hours behind Witt in catching on a plate the latter s planet Witt may not have guessed when he promptly ... the apparently trifling find that he was thus securing precedence in a contribution to science worth much more than all the 90 credited to Charlois Yet the remarkable swiftness of motion exhibited by the new body afforded a hint of its importance which ... have been overlooked by the discoverer ... by the ... eran computer Berberich who now set himself to compute the orbit ... skilled in the perfected methods which were first ... as already mentioned by the ... To ... the whom ... this ... we must recall the use previously made of certain minor planets in calculating the distance of the sun Astronomers know with very great precision the relative distances of the members of the solar system The data are at hand for a map of the planetary orbits (omitting that of the moon) such that ... the construction mechanically possible every linear dimension ... drawn It would have one annoying defect The scale of the map in miles to the inch could not be stated with nearly the precision exhibited by the relative dimensions of the map itself In fact the error may amount to one two hundred and fiftieth or one two hundredth part of the whole quantity This uncertainty will be removed or at least abated if we can only measure with sufficient accuracy any one of the distances depicted on our supposed map since any ... reveal the scale upon which the whole is drawn Hence prodigious labor and vast sums have been expended in attacking the problem ... now on another The transits of Venus have been observed to get at a measure in miles of the gap between her orbit and the earth's Mars on the other hand whose orbit encompasses the earth as that of Venus lies within it, has been interrogated as to this outward distance But it has been found that some of the minor planets are even better suited to further the inquiry than is Mars True they are more distant than ... be desired ... orbits lying between Mars path and that of far-away Jupiter but they were found to be better objects from which to measure This is because in the telescope they appear like mere points as the stars do, without either the disk or the brilliancy that complicates the observation in the case of Mars Thus Gill of Cape Town and Elkin of New Haven have employed to ... purpose the minor planets numbered 12 and 80 and named respectively Victoria and Sappho As already mentioned in connection with our hypothetical map the distance from the earth of anything else ... moon, would be sufficient for the inquiry Our satellite is here to be regarded as if a part of the earth that is while her distance in miles can be ... affords no clew to that of any other planet

The computation made by Berberich having shown that the newly discovered planet would come into positions especially favorable for the measurement of distance, it became desirable to calculate its orbit with the greatest precision The first determination was of course based on observations made near together If it were possible to secure others made at greater intervals of time the orbit could be reckoned with correspondingly greater exactness In this form then the question came before the astronomers of Harvard college where there are in store under the care of Mrs. Fleming great numbers of photographs, covering the sky not once only but repeatedly The orbit already known indicated that the planet had been comparatively brilliant in 1894 ... have been seen if it had been looked for at that time So the Harvard photographs were overhauled and a search made for the planet The process was to put together two negatives that had been taken at different times of the same region of the sky and on the same scale On looking at these two plates thus superposed an ordinary star would be seen on both its image on one being just over that on the other But a planet appearing on one plate would be absent from the other having moved off in the interval of time between the exposures

The attempt to pick up in this way ... photographs ... proved excessively fatiguing to the eye and was moreover at first ... fruitless But the planet though never since so bright as in 1894 had again been fairly brilliant in 1896 and as the latter date was nearer the time of the observations from which the orbit had been computed the error of the calculated place would be smaller So resort was had to photographs taken in June 1896 and now the search was successful A faint trace was identified as ... A moment s inspection of these elements ... as the most striking peculiarity of Eros in comparison with minor planets in general its small distance from the sun The other members of the group revolve between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter It is true that this general statement requires a slight modification in order to be applicable to every individual Aethra No 132 ... that Prof Young refers to it as ... almost conf... helion nearer the sun than Mars is at aphelion But in Eros we have a minor planet whose mean distance is actually smaller than that of Mars Moreover this is combined with an eccentricity ... that of Aethra but sufficient to bring its minimum solar distance down to a figure but little greater than the earth s Still another circumstance which conspires with these two to cause a close approach to the earth is the fact that the perihelion point ... the earth s orbit

When only a few of the minor planets had been discovered it was remarked that their orbits if represented by material rings would be so interlaced that no one could be lifted without raising the whole It is now seen that this peculiarity of position like that of two links of a chain obtains in the case of the orbits of Eros and Mars It has been suggested that the new discovery permits us to regard Mars as a member of the asteroid group to which ... a large orbital eccentricity and a certain degree of color

The orbit of Eros notwithstanding the fact that it lies partly within and partly without that of Mars is so much inclined that the two paths are nowhere near together in space so that the new planet is never so near a neighbor to Mars as at some times to the earth From us its distance may become as small as fourteen millions and some odd thousands of miles ... seem a sufficiently great interval yet it is but two-fifths that ... us from Mars when he is nearest and little more than half the minimum distance of Venus When thus favorably situated Eros will probably be visible to an exceptionally good eye in such a sky as Colorado s without optical aid At such perihelion oppositions the speed of the planet will be so much augmented above its average value that its component in the plane of the ecliptic will be as great as 1895 miles per second and will accordingly exceed the steady pace of the earth amounting to only 18 5 miles per second This will result in the wholly unique phenomenon of a direct instead of a retrograde motion in longitude at the time of opposition

But these near approaches to the earth will not be matters of very common occurrence The earth passes every year about the 22nd of January ... nearest to that of Eros but it will usually ... remote part of his orbit Four years before the discovery by Witt the proximity of the two planets was almost as great as possible and they will not again be so close together before 1924 But since the discovery the line between them has never been even moderately short until this present winter On the 26th of December the minimum distance for this season was reached and it was about double the shortest possible distance being not far from 29 000 000 miles But a distance not excessively great is maintained for a rather long period lasting until after the beginning of the new year Hence it is that every clear night the planet position is carefully noted by astronomers of every civilized nation

Preparation for the expected opportunity of observation began early in the year In February Prof Pickering is ... a circular from Harvard observatory giving in tabular form an epitome ... ephemeris published by Millosevich in the Berliner Jahrbuch for 1902 ... pointing out some of the problems which might be expected to be advanced toward a complete solution In May he was able to announce that the first to observe the planet since its conjunction with the sun had been a Harvard astronomer stationed however not at Cambridge but at Arequipa ... not visually but photographically A month later the first visual observation was made and this time the honor fell to our neighbor ... Prof H A Howe of Denver university who with his 20 inch telescope secured a pair of positions on May ... when the planet appeared as ... only 13th magnitude This success may be imagined to have stimulated Prof Howe s interest in the new body if any stimulus were needed and it excites no surprise to know that he and Prof Ling examine the planet every clear night the former usually securing ... measures each night ... and ... many in declination I happened to be present on an off night the 24th of November 1900 and though no regular observations were taken the professor kindly found the planet for me and set the micrometer wires on it and on a neighboring star so that the motion of the former might readily be detected In fact in the field of the large telescope a quarter of an hour sufficed to render this motion conspicuous, and so to put the planetary nature of the body at which we were looking quite out of the reach of doubt

There are two principal courses of procedure in endeavoring to ascertain by direct observation of a minor planet its distance from the earth One is capable of being carried on by a single observer Assuming that the planet is so situated as to be visible nearly all night ... that observations are taken at a given ... apart The observatory will have been carried by the earth s rotation from one side of the earth to the other so that if the planet were only so obliging as to remain motionless in the interval we should have a range with a known base extending through the earth measured ... at its extremities whence the ... could be calculated by very ele... the planet is not so considerate ... can be made for its mo... distance reckoned from ... the ... to make ... great ... and also the planet ought to be ... a moderate distance of the horizon at each observation The latter condition is not fulfilled ... is already exceedingly high in the sky at the earliest hour of darkness It may be however that some observatories are following this plan but in most cases another method is being pursued which demands the co-operation of different observatories as distant from each other as possible The planet may then be observed at nearly the same instant (absolute time and all difficulty arising from its ... the astronomer has only to obtain with the utmost accuracy he can achieve the apparent ... comparing its place with that of neighboring fixed stars But this comparison may be made in three ways either photographically by exposing a plate and afterward measuring from the plate as many stars on the same plate as may be necessary or if visually, then either by the helio...

The House Furnishers

There's a greater difference in the price of furniture than in the quality usually. Examine it closely. The beautiful brilliance of highly polished furniture denotes quality usually, and then there must be the substantial workmanship of the time-tried mechanic.

You can furnish your parlor here beautifully, tastefully and economically in either Oak, Mahogany or Bird's Eye Maple.

Then for the dining room there are all the new ideas in designs, the popular woods in fine finishes and all thoroughly well made.

There's everything here, too, you might ever want for any other room, nook or corner of the house.

Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Linoleum, Oil Cloth, Crockery, China Ware, Wooden and Hollow Ware, Brushes, Bedding of All Sorts, Etc.

Along a By Way in Old Mexico.

Written for the Gazette

By Thomas C. Pease

"LAND ahead, starboard quarter, sir," were the words which awoke me in the early morning of the eighth day out of New York, but the night had been an enjoyable one, for me at least. I did not share the deep feeling expressed by a young German fellow traveler when he said "Columbus was not more glad to see land than I." I did not arise at once, but after a brief struggle gave up the attempt to sleep, and on drawing the blind of my window exclaimed, "If I had missed it!" For there towering 18,300 feet above the level of the sea, in the gray dawn of morning, was Orizaba, the majestic peak of Orizaba, glow-capped and tipped with the rays of the rising sun, while the hundred miles of intervening ocean and valley were clothed in somber purple. Several times I have approached the coast of Mexico in the early morning, but never but once has it been my good fortune to be favored with this matchless views.

An hour later we were able to discern the castle of San Juan de Ulua, on an island at the entrance of the harbor, which is now used as a prison for political prisoners of the Republic. Guarded from escape on the land by the "Rurales," and on the sea by the more to be feared sharks, their existence here during the short span of life which remained to them must be unspeakably sad. Passing the castle on the [illegible] we enter the now commodious and safe harbor of Vera Cruz, recently completed by the Mexican government at an enormous expense—a great improvement over the "open roadstead" of former years, with its burden of sad memories in loss of life and great disaster—and the good ship Yucatancia swings to her anchor. She has been sighted from afar and is immediately surrounded by a fleet of small boats which serve to carry passengers to and from the vessels and the wharf; but these give way before the dignity of the custom house official who approaches in his yawl with his sailors in full uniform and who comes on to the deck very cool and composed in his spotless suit of white duck.

The formalities of landing having been gone through with it is now the boatmens' turn, and they come over the side in swarms. Selecting one of these men we arrange for passage for ourselves and baggage the sail is spread, and the voyage begins—growing quite exciting as we near the wharf owing to the sporting blood and rivalry of the boatmen. We watch the contest, and try to think calmly of the possibility of escape from sharks should there be a collision; the boatman is stolid enough—probably he recalls Stockton's remark that sharks do not relish dark morsels. Fortunately we land in safety and in a few moments our baggage has passed inspection and we are about to follow it to the hotel when our attention is attracted by our entertaining German friend. He is in distress because the authorities insist in ripping up his feather pillows in a search for diamonds. Later we come to appreciate the depth of his emotion on seeing his feathers the sport of the winds, for the pillows used in Mexico are of the hardest cotton, the feather article selling for $24 per pair.

Under the shadow of the buildings we arrive at the hotel in comparative comfort and are assigned to our so-called apartments, consisting of a cot, one of several others in a single room. At the office our request for a carriage is met by the reply, "There are no carriages in the city, but if the senor desires a private car on the street railway one will be furnished at once." We conclude to smother our pride and milk immediately starting for a breakfast office as our funds are in Mexican engles. Entering one of the numerous large commercial and banking houses we are given two dollars and ten cents in silver in exchange for one dollar in gold. In answer to a query as to the probable future price of silver, we are told to anticipate about [illegible] on the dollar.

In order that the run to the city of Mexico may be made during day light the trains leave Vera Cruz at 8 o'clock in the morning, and we take advantage of the afternoon for a glimpse at Vera Cruz. The city is drained by an open gutter in the center of the street and but for those faithful and omnipresent scavengers, the buzzards, and the PORT OF ALVARADO.

As the evening approaches we sit under the portales in front of the hotel, listen to the band in the park that is playing the pleasing native "danzas" with syncopated time, sip our lemonade and watch the promenaders. Several Americans are seated at a table on our right, and in a few moments the group is joined by a fellow-countryman, sunburnt and travel stained, to whom they all listen intently, as he speaks of his recent experiences in the country to the south and east, and tells of the march of progress in that section. As we turn our attention to his remarks he is saying:

"I believe Mexico's hour has come and we can now appreciate the truth in the statements made a century ago by Humboldt in his History of New Spain when he said 'In Mexico, as elsewhere, Nature has very unequally distributed her benefits. But men unable to appreciate the wisdom of the distribution, neglect the riches which are within reach. Collected together on a small extent of territory in the center of the kingdom, on the very ridge of the Cordilleras, they have allowed the region of the greatest fertility, and nearest the coast to remain waste and uninhabited. The vast kingdom of 'New Spain,' under a careful cultivation would produce all that commerce collects together from the rest of the globe. It would furnish every metal, not excluding mercury and has every degree of climate from perpetual snow to suffocating tropical heat. If the same energy, industry, perseverance and skill that has developed Kansas, Dakota and other parts of our country were directed to the rubber, coffee, sugar and tobacco lands of Mexico—who will venture to estimate the results." Since the conquest of Mexico by Cortez mining has attracted almost the undivided attention of foreigners. Hon. John W. Foster in one of his reports to [illegible] minister to Mexico says that all the silver and gold taken from the mines of Mexico would not equal in value the agricultural products were the lands fully developed. Notwithstanding these opportunities foreigners have been slow to invest or to locate in a country where the government was so unstable and not until the most magnificent natural tropical surroundings on the earth.

Under the silver standard of Mexico the foreigner finds his capital doubled as he crosses the border, and the silver dollar of today brings in exchange as large an equivalent in any product of the country—labor or land—as it did before the disparity in the price of silver and gold. He pays for his labor and land in silver, receives in payment for his rubber, coffee, tobacco and cacao United States gold.

Of the 27 states Vera Cruz is by far the wealthiest and most advanced in modern ideas; having been longer in touch with the outside world, as before the building of the railroads to the north practically all the foreign commerce passed through the port of Vera Cruz. The land in the valleys and along the lower mountain slopes is extremely fertile and here are grown the crops of high grade coffee, not inferior to the Java product, and tobacco, which rivals that of Cuba, except in fame. The tax on wild land in the state of Vera Cruz is merely nominal. The taxes on land planted to coffee are in no way excessive. The burden of taxation falls on the importer and manufacturer, who are benefited by the premium on gold which serves as a high protective tariff.

The Isthmus of Tehauntepec is made up of a portion of the states of Vera Cruz, Oaxaca, Tabasco and Chiapas. Near the center of the isthmus a break occurs in the mountains of the "Continental Divide," forming a valley which gives free passage to the currents of air from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean, keeping the climate temperate and agreeable for a northern person to live in. The wet season is from May to October and the annual precipitation averages 120 inches; so distributed that no irrigation is necessary. From October to May is the so-called dry season, but the heavy dews and occasional showers serve to make perpetual the wild flowers and luxurious vegetation. The thermometer during the warmest month (May) never registers above 96 degrees in the shade. The nights are cool and comfortable all the year, and yet there is never ice nor snow to cause the unwary feet to slip and the feeble to fall.

In this natural pass are located the most desirable lands in Mexico for tropical agriculture; consisting of an area about equal to that of the state of Iowa.

Near the sea on the Atlantic slope the land is sandy and the climate unsalubrious, but as the interior is reached the land becomes more fertile, the surface soil often fifteen feet deep, made up of decomposed lava enriched by years of decayed vegetation. The surface is rolling in character and the whole section is drained by a net work of creeks and rivers, of which the Tesechoacan (which empties into the gulf at Alvarado) the Coatzacoalcos and the Guitalra are the largest. A glance at the map of the world placed flat on a table gives one an idea of the commercial importance of crossing the isthmus

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

THERE is no other one thing upon which the growth and prosperity of a city depends so much as upon its chamber of commerce

It is the organized expression of the life of the community of its power to undertake and to accomplish great things and in the great majority of cases it will depend upon the chamber of commerce by whatever name it may be known to realize the larger opportunities that come to every growing city in the course of its career

In any city the association of business men is a measure of the public spirit, the intelligence and the enterprise of the citizens Where these are large the chamber of commerce is also large and flourishing and it receives the cordial and earnest support in its efforts for the upbuilding of the city of those for whom its work is performed and who profit chiefly by its success On the other hand if the chamber of commerce of any city is dead or dying it may be taken as an assured fact that the business men of that place are either not awake to their opportunities or else that the town has fallen into a state of chronic dullness and unprogressiveness

Such is not the case in Colorado Springs

At no time in the past history of this city was it making such rapid strides as at present.

At no time were there confronting it such opportunities for the immediate future as are now unfolding themselves

At no time ... that the people who are interested both as a matter of public spirit and in a business way in the success of this city should get together and make their united force felt for the furtherance of well planned and carefully executed movements for the public good

At the beginning of the year 1901 which the Gazette believes to be the most significant and beneficial of any in this city s history, we take especial pleasure in presenting to the people of Colorado Springs a statement of the work that the chamber of commerce is doing something of its plans for the future and to link with these a most earnest appeal to our own people to stand by the chamber of commerce as the one institution that is most essential to this city's welfare, and never so much so as at the present time.

Three great events in our municipal history will take place this year

The new short line to Cripple Creek will be completed and open for business

The abundant supply of cheap coal in the near vicinity will be made available for manufacturing power and this power will be distributed in any quantity and to any part of the city.

And the city will pass to the position of a city of the first class with new municipal powers and the ability to work for the benefit of its people along new and broader lines.

The officers of the chamber of commerce, it ... are fully alive to these things, the secretary and the various committees are ready for vigorous enthusiastic and effective work along the lines of all the city s interests

To secure their success they need only the hearty cooperation and support of every person who is interested whether little or much, in the city s well being and progress

This they have the right to ask and this they have the right to exp...

REPUBLICAN UNITY AND ORGANIZATION.

IN ANOTHER column the Gazette publishes in full the by laws recommended by the committee on permanent organization for adoption by the Republican Club of Colorado

The spirit which they manifest is admirable

They pledge every member to a loyal support of all party tickets but they wisely provide for such preliminary action on the part of the club as shall have the best possible effect in securing clean candidates and commendable campaign methods They provide for thorough cooperation with all campaign committees and emphasize the ... preme object of helping and not hurting the party cause

The by laws are well worth the careful reading of every citizen whatever his party affiliation may be

The effort of every good citizen should be for the highest possible efficiency and integrity in all governmental affairs and where the origin of all officials is in party conventions the citizen should be interested in the methods and purposes of all political parties

This club is founded upon the broad lines of good government clean methods and high toned party policies

It would be well for the government of the state if all political parties would make an effort ... so controlled

In such work as this there is no room for the silly twaddle being whispered around dark corners that there is an effort being made to create factional strife in the Republican party Factional strife can only grow where bigoted personalities and selfish ambitions thrive

What the loyal Republicans of Colorado want ever and above everything else is party ... the ... of Republican ...

The Gazette has no patience with ... fights It can always be counted upon to ... countenance them The Gazette has no use for ... politi... out of the Republican party ... it can always be counted upon to denounce them

The Gazette will not now or at any other time sup...port corrupt ... corrupt party leaders or dishonorable campaign methods and to the extent of its ability it will ... the political sneaks and cowards who ... at ... of ... favor but who never entertain any abode of public or party conviction

But as an exponent of Republican principles the most consistent in its record of any newspaper in the state the Gazette believes that every interest of the state would be better served by the triumph of the Republican party than by the mongrel government of the mixed breed of political mavericks which has held sway in the state ... for the past four years and to accomplish that beneficent result this paper will not allow any pride of opinion or selfish purpose or anything short of supporting dishonest candidates or discreditable campaign methods or corrupt leadership none of which will it support under any circumstance ... from its well ... consistent policy

We are in favor of all the Republican organizations which ... and opportunity may produce in the state and if their purposes are to upbuild and not to destroy we will heartily support them

The efforts now being made by the state committee to strengthen its organization are most commendable They are doubly so when we consider that the next state campaign is two years off

With this Republican state club reaching the voters in an entirely different way and more directly appealing to and interesting the rank and file of the party surely the prospects for Republican victory are bright indeed

... that there are two Republican organizations forming at the present time We divide to conquer and in campaign times there will be but one purpose and that to ... party success.

SIMON GUGGENHEIM AND JAMES F BURNS

THE SELECTION of Simon Guggenheim as president and James F Burns as vice president of the Republican club of Colorado is one which will meet with universal approval

Mr Guggenheim comes nearer having the real affection for the masses of the people of the state than any other man in it His business career has been a series of complete triumphs As an employer of labor he has always been just and generous His instincts are manly and humane his impulses generous, his heart big and his head level

Mr Guggenheim has large material interests in Colorado and naturally he wants Republican success But Mr Guggenheim would rather have a thousand defeats than ...

Mr John G Shields of this city who was temporary chairman of the club ... not ... his name to be ... president as his business engagements required his absence from the state and would not give him sufficient time to attend to the duties of the position

Mr James F Burns as every person knows is one of the leading business men of Colorado Springs and he is also one of the principal mining operators and among the largest employers of labor in the state His selection as vice president will mean a great deal to the club in the way of vigorous and successful effort

No better selection ... made to carry into effect the principles of the club than those of Messrs Guggenheim and Burns

ALVA ADAMS LETTER.

THE REPUTATION which ex Governor Adams has among the people of the state will be heightened rather than changed by the letter he has sent announcing his withdrawal from the senatorial race for the reason as he says that Colorado needs the patriotic and undivided services of her legislators while a prolongation of the senatorial contest tends to the disturbance of public business and interference with much needed legislation

It would be a source of satisfaction to believe that the withdrawal of Mr Adams from the race would accomplish the object desired But unfortunately it seems too probable that the candidacy of Alva Adams represented the least troublesome of the elements of the senatorial contest and it was not by any means the one which was most opposed to the welfare of the state and its people

There are few Fusionists who could write such a letter as this one for there are few who would withdraw from such a contest for the reasons specified and the unfortunate feature of the situation is that it is precisely the elements in Mr Adams character that make the people believe in his sincerity in this matter which make the ... contest a hopeless one ... present conditions A great many of the people of this state believe that in some very important ways he was much the best candidate for that important position and his withdrawal will not tend to strengthen confidence among its better elements in the present methods and organization of the fusion Democracy

Special Sale of

Choice Pictures

For one week, beginning Monday morning January 14, we shall sell everything in our Art Department at 20 per cent discount

What for? Not to push off ... we have no old goods Not to raise cash either, primarily for we don't need that But we want to call your attention forcibly to our new Art Department This is our way of doing it

We are inclined to feel a little generous, anyway, just now, after Christmas You treated us so liberally with your holiday trade that we feel like returning the favor sharing some of our profits with you, for instance

It is a little unusual you will agree to have the opportunity to buy high grade Art Goods at less than regular prices but we are in the habit of doing something unusual It is merely our way of doing things We want the reputation for having the leading Art trade in Colorado Springs, and we aren t willing to wait five years to get that reputation that s all ... the matter is, we have ... it already anyone will tell you that

Think of buying such things as "Copley Prints," Braun Clement Imported Carbons Knaffl s Water Colors etc at 20 per cent off We doubt if it were ever done before anywhere We cannot afford to do it for more than a week and then merely for the advertising it gives us People say Well that new firm of Foltz & Hardy ... in this business — They are ... Do you see?

No doubt you have been thinking of adding some new picture ... home ... enough to buy a pair of shoes, or another choice picture. If you have $100 it means a net saving of $20. If you desire to spend but $5, then you may save $1

OUR PICTURE TRADE

You would be surprised if you knew how many pictures we have sold and are selling One lady s bill, for pictures alone, last month was considerable more than $100 One framing order taken one day last week amounted to about $75 People of taste and means are pleased with our Art Department and they are giving us their patronage

Have you ever bought any pictures from us? Have you seen our pictures? Now is a good time to see them and a better time to buy ... per cent off for one week

FRAMED PICTURES

50c to $50 each We have 200 or 300 choice things in pictures ready framed Everything is included in this Art sale If you believe in home decoration you will do yourself an injustice to let this opportunity pass without making some purchases

THE ART ROOM

Our new Art room has been furnished but six weeks yet everything in it is included in our 20 per cent discount sale It means the choice of the best things that have been brought to Colorado Springs in the art line, at one fifth less than their worth The sale will last but one week, from Monday morning January 14 to Saturday night January 19 meter or the micrometer. The photographic plan is exposed to some disadvantage from the fact that if the movement of the telescope is timed so as to keep exactly with either the stars on the one hand or the planet on the other, it will not follow the other body, which will therefore be represented by a trail, and will fail to afford a definite point from which to measure. It is recommended to give the t... motion in succession, and a further attempt to dispose of the difficulty is to break the exposure at stated times, at instants recorded chronographically, thus introducing minute breaks in the trail. Another expedient is to use very rapid plates, for it has been found that an exposure of one minute is sufficient to impress some plates with a measurable image of the planet.

Of the visual methods, the heliometric is performed by a special form of telescope, not very common even at observatories, so that the micrometric is that which will doubtless be followed in the largest number of cases. It consists of setting at the two ends of the distance to be measured, as it is imaged at the focus of the object glass, two wires: one fixed, the other movable, and noting the number of turns which must be given to the screw which drives the latter wire, in order to bring it into coincidence with the former.

To co-ordinate the work of astronomers in various parts of the world, an international astrophotographic conference which met last July appointed a committee consisting of the directors of eight or nine of the principal observatories of Europe, America and Africa. This committee has issued a circular giving detailed advice as to all the three kinds of observation and laying plans for the avoidance of the various difficulties inherent in each. In this country the circular has been distributed with considerable additions in the way of comment and suggestion, by S. J. Brown of the U. S. Naval observatory.

All the observations now so widely and assiduously prosecuted are concentrated upon the attempt to determine the distance of the planet by direct geometrical measurement. But when these observations are all reduced and combined, which may be a good many months hence, the service of Eros will not be complete. Not even when in 1924 it has presented itself in the most favorable aspect will its final word be spoken on the great question of the magnitude of the solar system. For the sun's distance is measurable in more ways than one, and it has been pointed out years ago that one very important method depends upon determining the earth's mass relatively to that of the sun, by noting the effect it produces in distributing the motion of the nearest planets. This gravitational method has not as yet come to the front, not chiefly because of the intricacy of the calculations which it requires, though this is very great, but rather because ... it has hitherto been based, have not been observable with sufficient minuteness. But it has one advantage over other methods of the problem, by means of which it will eventually take precedence of all others. This consists in the fact that its data, the effects of the earth's attraction, are cumulative, so that the quantities subjected to direct measurement go on increasing from year to year. In this way a precision would ultimately be obtained, even from Venus and Mars alone, which would surpass what could be won by simple triangulation from Eros.

But Eros, as well as Venus and Mars, will be disturbed in its path by the earth's attraction, and the results will ... and accumulate the more rapidly, in proportion as its approach to the earth is closer than theirs. Thus, centuries hence, unless some entirely new discovery interferes with the present forecast of astronomers, the relative importance of the planet will be as great as now. Nor is the problem of the sun's distance the only one, though it is the greatest, to which our little friend is expected to contribute his assistance. Prof. Pickering hopes that photometric observations will afford valuable tests of the law with which the brilliancy of a body is connected with its distance, as well as the effect of the phrase angle, which is much larger for Eros than for minor planets in general, and will also render more ... the determination of diameters which are based upon brightness. Chandler suggests that gravitational astronomers will learn more accurately than before the mass of the moon; since even her feeble attraction will now have a visible object on which to exert itself, and that the problems of nutation and aberration will receive new elucidation. And H. N. Russell contributes to the Astronomical Journal No. 481 an elaborate paper which I know as yet only through a summary in Popular Astronomy (Nov., 1900,) and in which he discusses the gravitational relations of Eros and Mars. It appears that these may be treated without a prohibitive amount of labor by LeVerrier's method of interpolation. The motions of the two bodies will be subject to a "great inequality" of a period of about 1,000 years, which however, will not appreciably affect the place of Eros until after a time sufficient for an approximate determination of its amount. Meantime most interesting problems will be presented by the perturbations of shorter period which are much the largest produced by Mars on any other body, and hence will eventually lead to a valuable determination of the mass of that planet.

While a telescope so small as that of the Colorado college observatory can of course give no valuable aid in the work of measurement now in progress, it is gratifying to know by actual trial that the planet can at least be seen and identified by its aid. Mr. ... I, after one or two nights' preliminary practice, succeeded on Tuesday evening, Dec. 11, in picking it out with certainty from among the neighboring stars, and had the pleasure of showing it to several members of the astronomy class. It was by no means a conspicuous ... many days will be required to remove it beyond the reach of our instrument.

at this point. This route shortens the distance materially over all existing routes between ports of the occident and orient, as well as between the ports of our own country (San Francisco to New York).

Through this valley runs the Tehauntepec railroad, a transcontinental line about 180 miles long, connecting Coatzacoalcos on the gulf with Salina Cruz on the Pacific ocean. The Mexican government has recently leased this road for a term of 50 years to the firm of Sir Wheatman Pearson Co. of London. The contract also provides for the expenditure of about £4,000,000 during the term of five years; in building deep water harbors at Coatzacolcos and Salina Cruz (the termini of the railroad), double tracking the road and building new lines. The branch line from Juile on the Tehauntepec railway to San Juan Evangelista is completed and the trains now connect at San Juan with a line of steamers running to Vera Cruz. Another company is building a line of road from Cordova on the Vera Cruz road to Santa Lucretia, a station on the Tehauntepec railway. They are under contract to complete this line at an early date and already have about 50 miles in operation. Nevertheless Americans are still fond of speaking of Mexico as the land of "manana." As the speaker rises from his chair we find ourselves hurrying after him to make a few inquiries in regard to routes, hotels, etc. For quite to our own surprise we find that in the last half hour we have unconsciously concluded to turn from the beaten path of travel Mexico Cityward and are bound for the "Tierra Caliente"—its unknown trials and alluring fascinations.

In response to our clapping of hands a cargador appears, who shoulders our baggage, and we are off to the station of the narrow gauge railroad which will carry us to Alvarado, a small town on the coast (named after one of Cortez's famous captains). There is every appearance of a magnificent harbor, but alas! the water is shallow and only coasting vessels cross the bar at the mouth of the Tesechoacan river. For ages, the carriers up and down these rivers have been cargo canoes (called bungos), with tall mast, and of peculiar models, but often with a capacity of 40 tons. The native propels them up stream placing one end of a stick on the river bottom—the other against his shoulder, and walking the length of the canoe repeating this operation until his destination is reached. Slow as the progress must be, the canoe does not readily yield place to the modern and fast steamboat, for customs are deeply rooted in Mexico.

The "Gringo" is considered a "fair mark" in these southern climes and has to pay the price for dodging ice, snow and pneumonia in the north, but our first wholesale transaction was quite a revelation of Mexican methods. A man was selling a fine quality cigars, the product of a local factory, and at 3c Mexican each; intending to take the whole box of 50, we tendered in payment $1.50, but the money is refused, with the explanation that the price is $2.00 a box, reasoning that if we purchase all his present supply he would be obliged to go to considerable trouble to secure a new stock!

There was no time to investigate the merits of the enormous turtle, on which an active boy might ride, nor of the pet vampire offered for our consideration, as the steamer is about to start on the trip of 20 miles up the river to the city of Tlacotalpam. For many years this city has had control of the trade in the districts tributary to the San Juan and Popaloapam rivers, and is a prosperous and picturesque town. As the rivers are the highways of travel and commerce there are no carriages and few horses, the streets being paved with a short green grass.

The many bright-colored and rare tropical plants make the plazas very attractive, so that one forgets the hardness of the massive stone seats that must have served for generations. Houses are built around the patio (garden), and the long rows of portales give the street a unique and foreign appearance.

We find the inhabitants are intelligent and some of the better class speak Spanish, English, French and German fluently. The senoritas still cling to the mantilla for their head dress and are neatly and tastefully gowned in the light muslin fabrics so popular in hot countries, often times an orchid or a firefly (which are very large and resemble a small electric light) held captive by light gauze, give a touch of color to their wealth of black hair.

Tlacotalpam is headquarters for one of the Pearson enterprises, and several new steamers are being built for the river trade. Put the new "San Juan," with staterooms and berths, is not completed and we must make our trip of 115 miles up the river to San Juan Evangelista, in the old stern-wheel "Michapam." We are a motley crowd that almost sends standing room on the little steamer to a premium—Americans, Englishmen, Germans, Mexicans and Mexican women with their untold packages, bird cages and pets! We groan in spirit as we think of the two nights on shipboard, and hurriedly stake off our "quarter section" on deck. From the bow of the boat where a young Mexican boy has taken his station, we are startled by the cry of "Mira! Mira!" As we turn in the direction indicated we see an alligator taking his sun bath on the sandy bank of the river—a rush for arms and the ... but of the 20 alligators shot at that day all escaped to the water save one—instantly killed by a "soft-nosed bullet" from a Mauser rifle. The land rises very gradually from the sea to the mountains, these vast plains serving as a range for thousands of cattle and the Mexican vaqueros rival our own cowboys in feats of daring and skilful horsemanship.

On the morning of the third day the "Michapam" arrived at San Juan Evangelista. This town is headquarters for the planters of this section and has at present a population of about ... people. Located at the junction of the Colorado and Trinidad rivers, with railroad communications with the Coatzacalcos valley it is destined to become the metropolis and railroad center of this section. It is also the most accessible and natural place to which planters can send their products to have them prepared for market. Already there is a demand for machinery (the river will furnish the power), for cleaning rice and cotton, an ice machine and an electric lighting plant.

As the little steamer has already gone on its weekly trip up the Trinidad to Buena Vista, we engage saddle horses and a guide to start on our visit to the rubber, coffee and sugar plantations which Americans are developing in this district. A ride of two hours brings us to the Indian village of Tisluar, here houses are made of the undressed product of the native forests—not a nail in the whole structure. Cedar posts, equal in length, with a crotch in one end are set in the ground at the corners and doorways; into these crotches are placed the stringers; on top and supported by these, rafters are raised at an angle giving the desired peak to the roof—the whole frame bound together with bajucas (vines). Palm branches with their leaves folded flat, are so placed on and bound to the rafters as to make a tight roof, the sides of the building are also covered with palms. When built by a competent man these houses often last eight or ten years, and are quite comfortable. In response to our knock we heard the summons: "Entra en el nombre de Dios, aqui se tiene V. su casa!" (Enter in the name of God, this is your house). But we do not take advantage of the opportunity as our wants are satisfied with a glass of water. However, the native never fails in hospitality, invariably offering to share with the traveler and stranger such shelter and food as he may have. A few miles farther up we notice a marked change in the soil, which is dark colored and rich, the trees are larger and occasionally mahogany, cedar, logwood and other valuable woods of commerce are seen. While the vines and underbrush are so dense that one cannot force a passage except with the aid of a machete (a most useful instrument in the hands of a Mexican serving him as an axe, sword, hoe, spade, etc., as occasion requires.

Large birds with brilliant plumage circle above us and numberless parrots are heard, shall we call it crying? surely the sound is not a song. This must be a red letter day for the monkeys, who seem to resent our intrusion into their haunts and gather over our heads ... toward us then as swiftly retreating by an indiscriminate use of each other's tails and paws in their high and lofty "tumbling act." Reserve your judgment on a "box of monkeys" until you have seen him free and happy in his native forests.

Here we are at the ranch of an American; we are strangers; what will our reception be? We are not long in doubt. A hearty voice, speaking in English, bids us welcome, and as he cordially clasps our hands, gives instructions that the horses and guide be cared for, and ignoring our authority with the guide he tells him to return to town with the animals as soon as they are rested. But we say "our plan is to visit several plantations, and we shall need our horses and guide." "What plans in Mexico? hardly proper" and, too, you are in the hands of your friends, rest here as long as you can make it convenient to Horso, and when you are ready to depart we will escort you in safety to our neighbors." The Indian is not the only exponent of hospitality in the tropics. We are not slow to accept his interference in our plans and after a plunge in the creek dinner, and a short siesta, we are quite refreshed.

The work for the day is corn-planting and our host suggests that the tropical method may interest us. Two crops are grown each year. New land is being prepared and as this is the season of the year when the timber cannot be burned, the trees are cut down and allowed to remain where they fall; but the limbs are cut off and all shade removed. The Indian cuts and sharpens a stick and without other implements he pushes aside the underbrush makes a hole in the ground in which he places a few kernels of corn—and the work is finished.

In addition to corn the planter usually finds it profitable to raise beans and rice in sufficient quantities to feed his laborers. Side crops of tobacco and cotton are sometimes grown in order that a little income may be obtained during the six years of patient waiting for the rubber, coffee or cocoa to come into bearing. However, everything is made to give way for the cultivation required by the specialty, and on this plantation rubber is king. Heretofore the supply of crude rubber has come from trees scattered here and there in the virgin forests, with no one to protect them from the cupidity of man, who tempted by the advance in price consequent on the increase in demand, bleeds the tree to death in order to secure the uttermost ounce of juice thus the natural supply is rapidly diminished and destroyed. The increase in demand has been so rapid that an acre of ground planted to rubber now yields a very large profit to its owner from a comparatively small investment of money ... and a degree of pioneering trying only because of the isolation, despite the fact that Vera Cruz is only one-half as far from New York as are the cities of our Pacific coast.

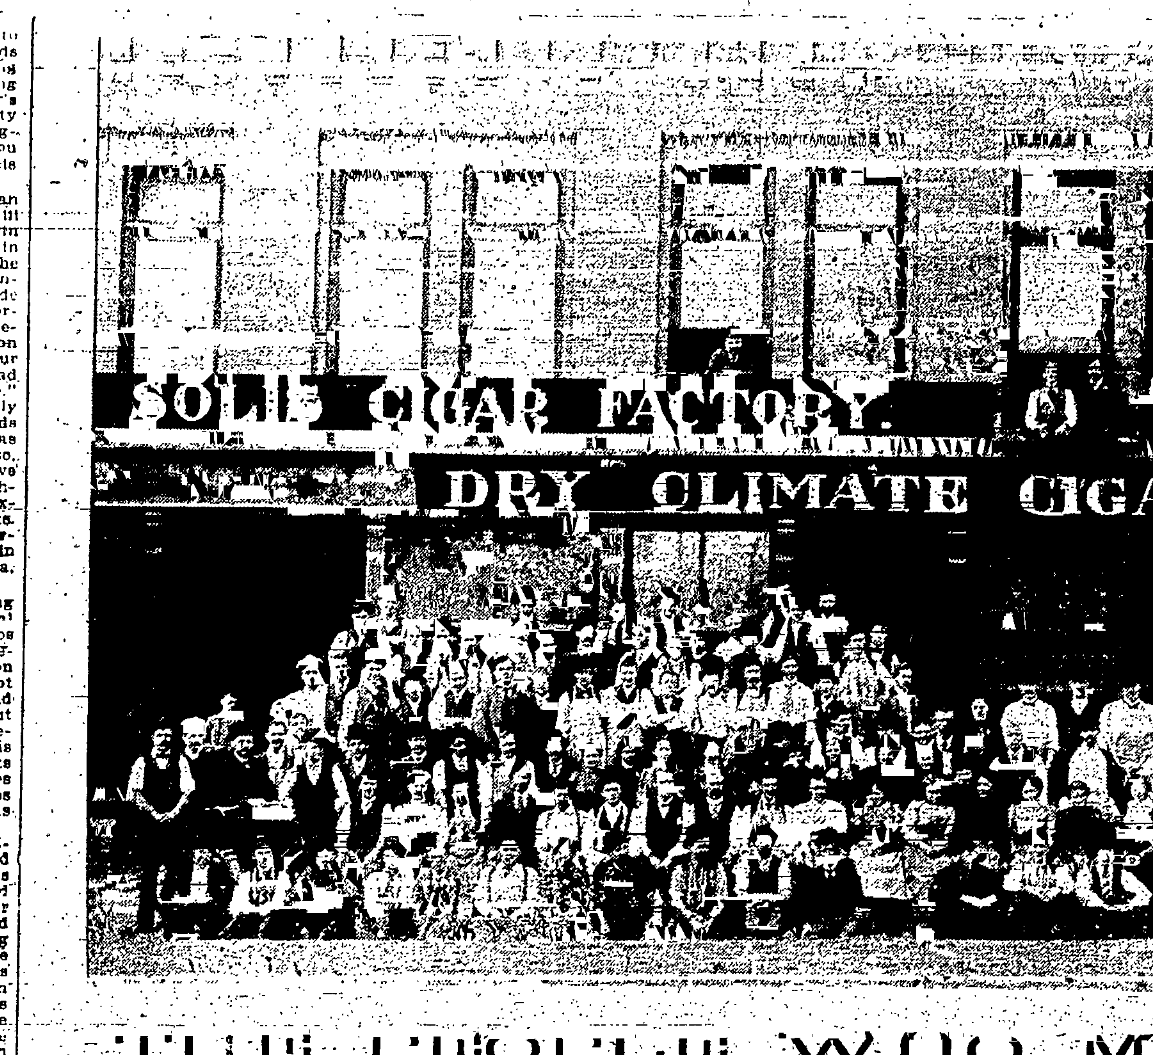
Nurseries are made from the seed of ... half million plants. In transplanting rubber the vines, underbrush and anything that will interfere with the growth of the young tree is removed, but the large forest trees are left standing. About two hundred are planted to an acre, and as rubber is indigenous to the soil (and will grow unless planted wrong side up) little care is required, save one or two cleanings with a machete each year. At the end of the sixth year the tree should yield two pounds of crude rubber, and if properly tapped and cared for will continue to produce for forty or fifty years. The process of gathering and drying the product is not expensive for it requires no skilled labor to tap the tree, and as it is dried in the sun there is no necessity for expensive machinery to prepare it for market. The product is the juice of the tree and may be gathered at any time—there is no "perishable loss" ... as in a fruit or berry that has to be gathered or sent to market at a fixed period. The present price of rubber is about 90c per pound.

In the morning we inform our host of our desire to visit a neighboring coffee plantation to which he guides us in person. The sight that greets us is novel and seldom seen by a northerner in the month of November. In the midst of the coffee orchard is the manager's house, and the road leading to it is planted on both sides to fruit trees of many varieties. Among them we notice the orange, lemon, fig, aguacate, mango, guava and the Nestor of all fruit trees, the banana. These with the 30,000 coffee trees with their red berries gleaming among the waxy leaves, present a most luxurious appearance. Life in the tropics appears decidedly attractive as we sit on the cool piazza eating our pineapple, while we hear of the trials and successes of coffee culture. There is promise of an old-fashioned wild turkey hunt in the afternoon, and we are all invited to remain for Thanksgiving dinner on the morrow. Game is very plentiful, and tigers, mountain lions, deer, wild hogs and turkeys are often seen, but a man unaccustomed to the tangles of the jungle is at a serious disadvantage when it comes to catching them, and our afternoon of hard work resulted in the possession of one turkey. The foreman of the ranch, an old Indian hunter, smiled as he was told of our success and early the following morning came to the house for a shot gun, his body covered with large green leaves and long grasses. Shortly we hear the report of the gun, followed by others at such regular intervals that we are ready to accuse him of firing at a mark, but we have to admit of the justice in his smile when he returned in an hour with eight turkeys dangling at his belt. Every person on the place had a Thanksgiving dinner.

Of all the tropical products which we saw under cultivation the most interesting to us were the cacao orchards. From the fruit of this tree a beverage is made which was highly prized by the Emperor Montezuma as long ago as the Spanish conquest, and is the chocolate of commerce today. The pods that cover the beans spring directly from the trunk of the tree, not from the end of limbs or twigs, and like the orange, the flower and ripe fruit are often seen on the same tree.

A ride of a couple of hours brings us to the sugar plantation of Buena Vista, nearly in the center of the colony, and the first foothold of Americans in this section. Here the Mexican was taught that a wheelbarrow was not constructed to be carried on the shoulders, and that plows are more easily controlled when they have two handles. The prosperity of the owner is evident from the magnificent field of cane, the large refinery and aguadiente plant; its high chimneys and steam whistle—a source of wonder to the natives and pride to all the Americans. We yield to the temptation to remain here for a few days enjoying the tropical surroundings, meeting the neighboring ranchmen, stalwart young Americans who are giving so much of their strength and ability in working out the future of this valley. Certainly President Diaz was wise in his remark, "We want young Americans to come to Mexico. They have transformed California in one generation, in Mexico, with her boundless natural resources and advantages, only one-half of that time will be required."

One bright morning we hear the low musical note of the boatman's conch shell ... "Hasta otra vista" to our friends—the canoe, in response to a vigorous stroke, is in the restless current of the river and our homeward journey has swiftly and silently begun.



THE PEOPLE WHO MADE

7,500,000 "Dry Climate" Cigars in 1900.

AN INTERESTING HISTORY

The above picture shows the Solis Cigar company's factory and employes, at 2009 to 2015 Arapahoe street, Denver. These people received during the past year about $100,000 in wages. They spent the money in Colorado. This is an object lesson in the industrial progress of the state.

"Dry Climate" cigars are sold in fifteen western states, and shipments of them are made even to New York, Chicago and San Francisco.

Years ago, when Mr. R. Solis came to Denver with a carload of as fine tobacco as ever grew on the island of Cuba, many people told him that he would never make a success of cigar manufacturing in this city. He had to work against many difficulties, but his efforts were finally crowned with success.

Year after year Solis' "Dry Climate" cigars have become more popular. Eastern manufacturers envying the enormous sales of this brand have not hesitated to imitate it. In 1899 a Chicago cigar manufacturer went even so far as to counterfeit the copyrighted "Dry Climate" cigar label, but the smokers of Colorado, being on the average intelligent, would not use the spurious goods. The counterfeiter's representative was arrested while making a sale and on trial was convicted.

The fillers used in "Dry Climate" cigars come direct from Cuba to Denver in zinc-lined cases, therefore none of the aroma is lost. The tobaccos are blended in a manner that brings out all the aromatic qualities of the natural leaf, the result being that the smoker gets a cigar that is fragrant and mild.

It is a well-known fact that cigars made in New York, Pennsylvania, Key West, etc., undergo many changes in their long journey across the plains, and by the time they reach Denver they have lost whatever fragrance they may have contained when they were made. It is conceded by all connoisseurs that a cigar without fragrance is like a cup of poor, cheap coffee—worthless.

The Solis company do not expect smokers to buy their goods merely because the "Dry Climate" cigars are made in Colorado, but because they are the best that are made anywhere. Doctors, judges, lawyers—in fact, every intelligent smoker will not use the heavy, soggy, irritating Key West or Tampa cigar, but prefer in this high altitude the mild, pleasing, fragrant "Dry Climate" cigar.

An examination of the internal revenue reports will disclose the fact that the Solis Cigar company make one-fourth of all the cigars manufactured in the states of Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico.

The Solis factory is modern and strictly up to date. It is as clean as a dining room or parlor. The department in which "Dry Climate" cigars are packed and stamped is practically dust proof. Their tobacco and cigar storage rooms were built from plans made by Mr. Solis and are in effect air tight and water proof.

"Every unemployed workman is a liability of the state. Every employed workman is an asset."

Joe Wheeler on the Czar's Dream of Peace.

I believe that the czar of Russia is sincere in his wish for disarmament and peace. He sees that it is by peace and not by war that his empire will progress. But the dream came to naught, of course.

Why? Because it would be in the nature of things impossible for men and nations to abruptly cast aside a habit that was acquired before history began, and is, after all, an instinct. All animals fight, and will continue to, I think. The better the animals, the fiercer and more fatal the conflict. In the Napoleonic wars, and in our Civil war, the highest types of men were engaged ... record of any other such battlefields as Waterloo, Gettysburg and Shiloh. We fought the Mexicans and Spaniards and drove them before us with comparatively little effort. But when men of northern blood meet in battle it is a contest to the death. This is especially true when the indomitable Anglo-Saxon spirit is on each side. Even "Romans in Rome's quarrels" fought less fiercely.—(Gen. Joe Wheeler in "Success" for January.

MUST BELIEVE IT

When Well-known Colorado Springs People Tell it So Plainly.

When public endorsement is made by a representative citizen of Colorado Springs the proof is positive. You must believe it. Read this testimony. Every backache sufferer, every man, woman or child with any kidney trouble will find profit in the reading:

Mr. David DeGraff, of 515 North Weber street, says: "If I did not find that Doan's Kidney Pills keep kidney complaint in check, if they had not helped me from the first dose I took, I never would have bought some half-dozen boxes at the Smith-Wilson Drug Co.'s store, 21 North Tejon street, neither would I have given two boxes to a friend of mine interested in mining property, nor could I be induced to recommend the preparation."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

The most soothing, healing and antiseptic application ever devised is DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It relieves at once and cures piles, sores, eczema and skin diseases. Beware of imitations. Hefley, Arcularius Drug Co., E. E. Smith, 117 South Tejon street.

Review of the Schools.

There are some 200 new pupils entered in the higher grades since the Christmas holidays. The children are from families that have recently moved to town and have never gone to school in this city before.

The enrollment at the different buildings is very large at present, some of them having twenty or thirty new pupils since the holidays. There is a very large number of new scholars in the primary grades and the number of beginners is expected to reach 300 before the beginning of the new term.

The new Steele school will have seven grades and will employ seven new teachers besides the principal, Mr. Downey. At first it was thought that only six grades would be necessary but the increase in the city's school population demands the full number of grades. The dividing line between the Garfield and Steele schools will be Yampa street, all pupils south of that going to the Garfield and all north to the Steele. It was thought at first that the new building would take a large number of pupils from the Garfield.

Examination questions are being sent out from the superintendent's office as rapidly as possible for the final examinations of the present term. These examinations occupy one whole week in the high school, but in the graded schools they take the form of tests and are held at different times during two weeks.

The attendance at the different school buildings is very good with the exception of the Roswell school. The enrollment of this building has decreased by over one-half since the holidays although there has not been very much sickness in that part of town.

The board of education has decided upon the erection of a new school building in Ivywild and will begin as soon possible. The plans of T. MacLaren, the architect, were reported favorably upon and as soon as the board meets again it will be finally decided. The building will contain only two rooms but will be very substantial. It will be heated much the same as the Columbia and Steele schools.

in this city that do that kind of work. When all of the art work is placed in the building it will look very fine and no doubt the pupils will all be very proud of it.

When the Steele school building was begun it was understood that it would take the pupils that live north of the college, thus decreasing the attendance at the Garfield. Now however it is stated that the new school will only take the overflow from the Garfield and so none of the departments will be taken from the latter school.

The present enrollment of the school is 612. This is by far the largest attendance that the school has ever known.

HIGH SCHOOL

Friday, December 28, the regular meeting of the board of control of the interscholastic football league was held at East Denver high school. The representatives present were Browning, E. D. H. S.; Maleham, Central, Pueblo; Owens, Manual; Lawrence, W. D. H. S., and Kerngood, who is our own representative.

The officers of the board of control for ... were chosen as follows: Kern, C. S. H. S., president; Reynolds, W. D. H. S., vice president; Owens, M. T. H. S., secretary-treasurer. The divisions were also chosen. Manual Training school of Denver, Central and Centennial schools of Pueblo, and Colorado Springs high school are in one division and East Denver, West Denver, North Denver and Boulder Preparatory schools are in the other. It was voted to give the Colorado Springs high school the money in the treasury to buy a banner for the interscholastic championship of Colorado.

Friday afternoon the Era Debating society entertained the members of the Adelphi. The meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Richie, at 3 o'clock. The roll was called in the usual way of the society; each person answering by a quotation from the author chosen for that meeting. The minutes having been read by Miss Ross, the secretary, a very delightful programme was rendered as follows:

Selection .... Mandolin Club
Accompanist, Etta Templeton.
Origin of the Christmas Tree
.... Yena Reinhardt
Piano solo .... Agnes Dorsey
Recitation .... Bessie Madden
Critic—Art Terrill.

At the close of this meeting a business meeting of the Adelphi was called at which officers were nominated for next semester.

A glee club is being organized among the boys, to be under the direction of Mr. Evans, who has had great success with such clubs during his college career in the Ohio State university. Much interest is being aroused among the boys ... concert about Decoration day. Messrs. Karshner, Clark and Hood will assist them. The members will be picked next week.

Under the instructions of Mr. Karshner, the basket ball teams are improving rapidly and will soon be ready for their class championship games.

The following officers were appointed at the regular drill Friday afternoon: first sergeant, Terrill; second sergeant, Payne; third sergeant, Horn; fourth sergeant, Brewster; fifth sergeant, R. Jackson; corporals, Blake and G. Jackson.

Wednesday afternoon the committees on the cadet ball, which is to be held February 22, were appointed by the major as follows: Management committee, Captain Randolph, First Lieutenant Riddle, First Sergeant Johnston, Third Sergeant Slicnfor, and Corporal Blake. Invitation committee, Adjutant Bale, Third Sergeant Horn, Private Turner. Floor committee, Captain Hern, Corporal Lee and Private Sill.

Friday afternoon a meeting of the officers of the battalion was held. They decided upon a design for the medal which is to be presented to the best drilled private. The design was submitted to the consideration of the officers by Mr. R. A. Dwight, a well known jeweler. The prize drills will be held February 8, March 8, April 5, May 3, and May 31.

Mr. Karshner has been substituting for Miss Langley, who is out on account of sickness.

A system of call bells has been put into use for the purpose of announcing the closing of the different periods.

The south dial of the tower clock has been put in repair and is now giving entire satisfaction.

Mr. Worley Morris of the Second class is seriously ill at his home on Colorado avenue.

Edward Brigham has entered the Third class.

Orrin Randolph, Paul Rhoads, Harry Lee, Jesse Brewer, Gertrude Jenkins, Grace Smith, Lena Perry and Mattie Skinner have returned to school after brief absences.

Paul West, Lewis Johnson, Richard Glass, Harvey Bundy, Jennie Lake, Isa Logan and Pearl Munson have entered the Fourth class.

COLLEGE NOTES

A large crowd of the college students spent Saturday night skating at Prospect lake. Dr. Lancaster chaperoned the party.

Prof. Cajori was not able to meet his classes the latter part of the week on account of sickness.

B. L. and P. D. Rice have been on the sick list during the past week.

The Apollonian and Pearsons Literary societies have chosen as judges for the ... debate, Dr. Bixby, ... and Dr. Lancaster. The debate will be held Friday night, January 25 in the Perkins art hall.

Miss Alderdyce '03 has been confined to her room during the past week by illness.

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. held a joint meeting on Sunday afternoon in the study hall at Ticknor. The leader was Miss Taylor. Mrs. Slocum will address the young ladies next Sunday.

The Junior class, at a meeting held on Tuesday, decided to have individual pictures of each member put in the 1901 annual. The action was taken because of the unsatisfactory work of the group pictures in the annual last year.

Miss Canon, '04, was called to her home in Denver on account of the serious illness of her mother.

The members of the Pearsons Literary society had a group picture taken on Wednesday afternoon for the Junior annual.

The Contemporary club met in Pearsons hall on Friday afternoon. Miss Warner reviewed Ernest Seton Thompson's "Wild Animals I Have Known," and Miss Fezer and Miss McCoy gave the current topics of the week.

Prof. and Mrs. Ahlers announce that they will be at home at South hall to all college and academy students on Tuesday evenings during the months of January, February and March.

Dr. Urdahl has announced the following electives in economics for the second half year: Economic Colonial Policy, two hours; Public Finance, three hours; Political Science, three hours.

Pearsons Literary society met Friday night in Perkins hall and gave the following programme:

Speech .... Sherer
Current Wit .... Nash
Debate—Resolved, That the Ship Subsidy Bill is for the Best Interests of the United States. Affirmative—Sager, Hardy; negative—Houk, Sylvester.
Music ....
Pearson's Quartette.

Prof. Gile was called east Friday night by the death of Mrs. Gile's mother.

President Slocum gave an ethical on Friday morning on "Property Rights."

The Apollonian programme given on Friday night was the best one given this school year. Wells opened the meeting with a speech on "Natural Laws" and then came the debate on the ship subsidy bill. Frost and Kitely upheld the affirmative and Berry and Holt the negative. The men had their argument well prepared and presented in a pleasing manner. The debate was decided in favor of the affirmative. A quartette, composed of Messrs. English, Ross, Loye and Bybee sang the Apollonian ode. Mr. Hogg reviewed the work of the state legislature up to date and Prof. Ritchie closed the meeting with an interesting criticism.

GARFIELD

School opened after the holidays with a very good attendance and twenty-five new pupils have been enrolled the past week. The sickness has been almost stamped out and the pupils are putting in some hard work preparatory to the final examinations which will be held in two weeks.

Miss Long of the Cripple Creek schools was a visitor in the building the past week.

Mr. Downey, principal of the Steele school, was a visitor last Friday.

Mrs. Avison, who is preparing to take substitute work in the schools of this city, visited the building this week.

The regular monthly teachers meeting was held last Friday afternoon. It was shown that the work being done in all the departments is of the highest order.

The final examinations for the first term of school will be held week after next and will take up the entire week.

Those who had the recent art exhibition in charge will next week place an order with Caproni, the famous bust manufacturer of Boston, for some of his best work. The school has already purchased about a score of pictures from the Chicago Art Exhibition company and are having them framed by the different firms of James Lane Allen, and treating it in an admirable manner. A learned discussion of current events brought the afternoon to a close. The hostess served light refreshments. Those present included: Mesdames Saterlee, McKown, Starkweather, Van Lew and Agnew.

The home and educational department of the Woman's club held another of its delightful meetings Saturday afternoon. The ladies enjoyed another of those interesting programmes for which the club is noted. Two excellent papers were read by Mrs. Saterlee and Mrs. Philpot.

The Klover Klub held another of its enjoyable hops on Friday evening at Ruble's hall. The floor was excellent, the music all that could be asked and every one ... a ... time.

The ball which was to have been given at the National hotel on the evening of the eleventh for the purpose of raising funds for a free library, has been postponed indefinitely because of the sickness now prevailing in the city.

Dr. and Mrs. Whiting left on Friday for a pleasure trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Maurice Finn are both confined to the house with bad colds.

On Thursday evening a party was held at the home of Mr. A. L. Arnold on Golden avenue. The guests enjoyed the evening at games and refreshments.

VICTOR

The Monday club of Victor met at the home of Mrs. Mellen on Spicer avenue this week. Mrs. J. Crit Mitchell was the leader of the meeting and a very pleasant afternoon was spent by the club members. The topic of discussion was set forth in the quotation: "These green-robed senators of mighty woods." The roll call was answered by the members relating Christmas reminiscences. Mrs. Davison then read a paper upon forestry. A discussion upon historic trees followed. A paper entitled, "Property Rights of Women of Colorado" was read by Mrs. Parker. Mrs. Thomas handled her subject, "Selections of Woods for Home Ornamentation" in a delightful manner. Another chapter in the serial story was read by Mrs. Smale. Mrs. H. E. Woods ended the programme for the day with a discussion of current events. At the conclusion of the programme dainty refreshments were served by the hostess. The club will meet at the home of Mrs. John Mitchell the 21st of this month.

Mrs. Lee Davis entertained at luncheon at her home on Spicer avenue on Tuesday afternoon. The decorations were in pink and lavender—violets, roses and colored ribbons being used to carry out the color scheme. Covers were laid for eight and the following were the guests: Mesdames Joseph Page, H. E. Woods, J. A. Small, H. R. Carpenter, L. S. Hunt, J. Wallace Collins and Downey. The ladies passed a very enjoyable afternoon.

Mr. J. C. Wigington, who for some time past has been auditor for the Woods Investment company, but who has resigned to accept a position with a Utah smelting company, entertained a number of his friends at a bachelor dinner on Wednesday evening. The party met at his home to bid him bon voyage. The dinner was very elaborate, the guests being Messrs. H. E. Woods, J. A. Small, F. W. Adams, F. M. Woods and J. V. Smale. The comfort of the guests was looked after by the wife of the host.

The Sorosis club will meet at the home of Mrs. McKenzie on Monday.

Eugene Reardon, son of General and Mrs. F. M. Reardon, has returned to Denver after spending the holidays with his parents. He will resume his studies at Jarvis hall.

Mr. Lee Davis is spending a few days in Colorado Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Carpenter left on Friday evening for the east where they will spend several weeks visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Adams have moved from their Seventh street home to their new residence on South Second street.

Mrs. Tatman of Denver is in the city, called here by the serious illness of her husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Atherton, formerly of Cripple Creek, will reside in Victor in the future.

THERE are two angels that attend unseen
Each one of us, and in great books record
Our good and evil deeds. He who writes down
The good ones, after every action closes

AT THE meeting of the Denver Woman's club, held on January [illegible] the following petition [illegible]

"Resolved to use every endeavor and to exhaust all honorable means to secure action at the next session of the fifty-sixth congress, proposing an amendment to the national constitution and submitting the same to legislatures of the several states defining legal marriage to be monogamic and making polygamy, under whatsoever [illegible] United States and punishable by severe penalties, including disfranchisement and disqualification to vote or to hold office of honor or under the United States or in any state or territory thereof."

This petition will be extensively circulated and eventually forwarded to Colorado's representatives at Washington, Hon. H. M. Teller, Hon. E. O. Wolcott and Hon. John Shafroth.

"The Crowning Race" was the subject of an able address delivered not long ago by the Rev. Ida C. Hultin, before a New England audience. Her thoughtful, far-reaching treatment of the theme was most inspiring and convincing. She successfully demonstrated that every human being has a direct relation toward every interest of humanity, which is not only a right, but a duty to fulfill. For each one the truest self-realization is a privilege, a right and a duty. Humanity is made up of two halves, male and female, always equal, never identical; and no question affecting humanity can be rightly settled by either half alone. There is no home in the truest sense in which [illegible] equal privilege [illegible] wife. "There is no government of the people, for the people, by the people, so long as there is a person capable of self-government and [illegible] who has no voice in its councils." In closing, the speaker quoted the lines from Tennyson's "Princess":

"And so these twain, upon the skirts of Time,
Sit side by side, full-summ'd in all their powers,
Dispensing harvest, sowing the To-be,
Self-reverent each, and reverencing each,
Distinct in individualities,
But like each other, even as those who love,
Then comes the statelier Eden back to men;
Then reign the world's great bridals, chaste and calm;
Then springs the crowning race of humankind.
May these things be!"

It has been said by some one, "If you wish to impress on the hearts of people some beautiful and vital thought, enshrine it in a poem. The charm of the poetry will win a place for it in a thousand hearts. If you wish dearly [illegible] heart of that thousand to repeat the poem often, to linger upon its thoughts with quiet but unceasing delight, then fill that shrine with song." According to Carlyle, "All deep things are song. It seems somehow the very central essence of us—song; as if all the rest were but wrappages and hulls. The primal element of us; of us and of all things. See deep enough and you see musically; the heart of nature being everywhere music, if you can only reach it."

Let Something Good be Said.

When over the fair frame of friend or foe
The shadow of disgrace shall fall, instead
Of words of blame, or proof of thus and so,
Let something good be said.

Forget not that no fellow being yet
May fall so low but love may lift his head;
Even the cheek of shame with tears is wet,
If something good be said.

No generous heart may vainly turn aside
In ways of sympathy; no soul so dead
But may awaken strong and glorified,
If something good be said.

And so I charge ye, by the thorny crown,
And by the cross on which the Saviour bled,
And by your own soul's hope of fair renown,
Let something good be said!

A clubwoman tells a comic story of how her small nephew and his friends caught the organization [illegible] and got up a club of their own. They were anxious to compare notes with her on the subject of their respective clubs, but, although her nephew asked her a great many questions, it was evident that the methods of the Junior Athletic club were entirely original. Its business seemed to consist principally of electing and expelling members, the same member being taken in and put out again several times a week. Irregular attendants were brought in by the use of physical force, or expelled bodily by the same means, and a like penalty was brought to bear upon cases of unconstitutional conduct, usually followed, however, by a wholesome exercise of the pardoning power. This made it [illegible] as to count a flock of sheep.

"What did you do at your meeting?" the aunt inquired one day.

"We elected some officers."

"Why, you elected officers last week."

"Yes, but they didn't act good, so we thought we'd elect some new ones."

"Tom can't come much," went on the clubman, "so we made him a premontory member."

"A what? Do you mean honorary?"

"Yes, I guess that's it. He has to pay dues, but he doesn't have to come unless he can." This implied merely that Tom was exempt from being seized by the neck and brought into the meetings without his own volition. "And, you see, he's got to be honorable," added the small boy, severely.

"We've got most a dollar," he continued, "in the treasury. Has your club got any more than that?"

"A little more," meekly replied the aunt, whose club is one of the [illegible] in the country.—New York Tribune.

A certain racy little American humorist was dining out and remarked that a friend of his had long been the helpless victim of a high-tempered mother-in-law. "At the seashore last summer the dreadful relative passed away, and this friend's wife had telegraphed to her husband:

"Mother [illegible] shall we have her embalmed, cremated or buried?"

Quick as the wires could flash it came the answer back:

It is not that this century has discovered woman, but woman is discovering, at length, what century she is in, and coming fully and to take her place and do her work as a citizen of the twentieth century, she will bring new light to the dark questions which vex us, both domestic and social.

That is the line of advance we are entering upon in "the woman's century." Larger social relation for woman means a larger development in the human creature, and we need it.

Black uncut velvet has become the dressiest material [illegible] gowns of distinction.

One of the most beautiful ball gowns is of blue panne velvet. Some people are satisfied with a collar and belt of this material. This model was perfect and if you are talking about a new ball gown, and you can afford it, be sure and get a panne velvet.

Striped silks seem to be returning in fashion, for I have noticed several pieces on sale at some of the fashionable shops during the past few days.

A charming frock for afternoon calls is of brown satin-faced cloth trimmed with brown fur, used as narrow seam borders on both skirt and jacket. The jacket opens over a vest appliqued with black caracul, which in turn shows another of point Venise lace that in its turn permits a gleam merely of a vest of cloth of gold.

Speaking of fur it is on "everything." Nine out of every ten women are wearing fur on street toilets.

Dainty vests are also being used and have small revers which are faced with gold braid.

For the moment the majority of English women in society are to be seen in town and out of town in long flowing cloaks of cloth or velvet, with handsome fur collars and revers, says a foreign commentator on the modes in Victoria's capital. In town they slip these over their dresses and leave them open in the front when walking, but in the country for driving to meets and going about in open carriages they are closely fastened. A very pretty one noted the other day was of rich black peau de soie with a yoke of white satin horizontally striped with black. It had rather big revers in the front, and round the neck was one of the new [illegible] looks very much like fur.

night it will not be necessary to rub them much, if at all. The lady who gave the information was such a dainty-looking little creature and always wore such exquisite gloves that her extravagant friend concluded that she would follow the advice and do her own gloves. It was so easy a task.

"Mamma," she said, when her gloves were reposing in the midst of the half gallon of gasoline which she had [illegible] over them, "there is enough gasoline to wash all the gloves in the house. How many pairs have you? Six, haven't you? Well, bring them all and I will save you all that expense. I am going to wash all my party gloves too." So $12 worth of gloves were put into the gasoline and as they were afraid to have it in the house any place, the vessel was put out doors in a corner of the yard.

During the night it rained. And in the morning there was a kettle of gasoline with $12 worth of ruined gloves in it, and mamma and her daughter have both concluded that some people are not lucky at being economical.—(St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Lilian Bell gives the result of her shopping experiences abroad in the January Woman's Home Companion in an interesting paper entitled "Shopping in the Great Cities of Europe." Of Paris, the most delightful of all cities for the woman who would buy, she says:

"I consider shopping in Paris one of the greatest pleasures to be found in this vale of tears. The shops, with the exception of the Louvre, the Bon Marche and one or two of the large department stores of similar scope, are all small—tiny, in fact—and exploit but one or two things. A tiny shop for fans will be next to a milliner who makes a specialty of nothing but gauze theater bonnets. Perhaps next will come a linen store, where the windows will have nothing but the most fascinating embroidery, handkerchiefs and neckwear. Then comes the man who sells belts of every description and parasol handles. Perhaps your next window will have such a display of diamond necklaces as would justify you in supposing that the stock would make Tiffany [illegible] you will find yourself in an aperture [illegible] a two-by-four showcase and three chairs and you will find that everything of value the owner has, except the clothes he wears, is in his window.

[illegible] go together and so small, in shop, in Paris is really much more convenient than in one of our large department stores at home, with the additional delight of having smiling, interesting service. The proprietor himself enters into your [illegible] and uses his quickness and intelligence to supply your demands. He may be, and very likely he is, doubling the price on you because you are an American, but if your bruised spirit is like mine you will be perfectly willing to pay a little extra for politeness. It is a truth that I have brought home with me no article from Paris which does not carry with it pleasant recollections of the way I bought it. Can any woman who has shopped only in America bring forward a similar statement?"

Odd designs for the trimmings of petticoats are, of course, hailed with delight; the woman who has many being naturally soon weary of the same old ruffles and tucks. Fantastic arrangements of insertion and lace on the ruffle are the usual variations. Double ruffles, bias tucked ruffles, ruffles with milliners' folds of satin, and ruches of mousseline de soie are seen. The close fit around the top and the extreme fullness of width around the feet are the two main points to be considered. When economy must be consulted there are ways and ways of making the necessary silk petticoats without great expense. For instance, a black satin or brocade gown which has grown shiny with long use is the best of foundations and will last indefinitely. Ruffles of a good quality of taffeta are the best [illegible] not possible, the old satin breadths that [illegible] not needed to making over into a petticoat may be cut bias, lined with a good cotton lining and used.—(Harper's Bazaar.

The upper arm of the perfectly-formed woman should end at the waist line, so that she can rest her elbow on a table while standing erect, says the Washington Star, and her forearm should extend to a point permitting the fingers to mark a point below the middle of the thigh.

A plumb line dropped from a point marked by the tip of her nose will fall at a point one inch in front of her great toe.

Her shoulder and her hips will make a straight line drawn up and down.

Her waist will taper gradually to 26 [illegible] 26 inches more than this and her waist [illegible]

She should measure from her waist to her feet about a foot more than from the waist to the crown of her head.

Her shoes should show a number half that of her gloves. A No. 6 hand, for instance, should be accompanied by a No. 3 shoe.

Her weight for the heights given should be from 125 to 140 pounds.

"Every well-dressed woman now makes quite a study of suitable jewelry to wear with certain gowns.—There is so much color in the dainty neck chains, safety pin brooches, etc., that they require careful selecting," says a foreign writer on fashions. "If the brown-eyed woman wears amber or pink coral, let all the items of jewelry correspond the same with the blue-eyed woman who depends on color of her eyes with blue stones. But do not wear an amber chain with a turquoise brooch or a blue neckchain with a pink bangle, etc. Keep to the color of one stone, even to the tiny pins that secure the lace jabot at your throat. Pink coral is extremely fashionable just now as well as expensive. In the language of precious stones it is supposed to guard against danger and evil. Strings of coral will be much worn as watch and lorgnette chains."

The down quilt, usually considered the most luxurious of bed coverings, is being superseded in large measure by quilts of wool. These come in all the pretty shades of [illegible] silk and in the popular floral patterns and are lined with a fine quality of Shetland wool. Prices range from $15 to $20, a little less than the down.

PROBABLY the oldest charity founded in New York and most prominent because of its patronage by New York society women, some of whom were in its classes when girls, is the New York cooking school, says a writer in the New York Sun. The cooking school is in charge of Miss Emily Huntington.

In the cooking department are 10 good-sized rooms, fitted out with tables, stoves, all manner of cooking utensils and pleasant little rooms where the cooking of the classes is spread out and enjoyed as a lunch or dinner by the classes. The kitchen is large and well lighted and contains an immense range, where all the dainties and substantial branches of the culinary art are put [illegible]

For several years this cooking school has been one of the favorite fancies of society women during the winter mornings. Classes from six to twelve are formed, the women banding themselves in order that each other's social engagements [illegible] through the work.

"The whole object of the work," says Miss Huntington, "and it always has been, is to place the school into such a financial position that we can teach the working girls of the night classes and the children of the tenement districts free of charge. They have the very same facilities and instruction as the society women, but, of course, on a more modified scale, such as being taught the branches of cooking that will suit their modest purses. The same experienced teachers instruct them.

"The working girls' classes will all begin after the holidays, as we are unable to hold these classes now, [illegible] to the young women having to work nights in the stores. As we all know many of these girls marry men who are connected in business with them, such as a saleslady marrying a clerk or floorwalker, and as these girls, many of them, have worked in stores since [illegible] chance whatever in practical cooking or housekeeping, and it is this we undertake to teach them free of charge at our night classes.

Then, again, the mother and father [illegible] to support a large family. Their hours are long and they are tired and hungry when they get home. Perhaps there is a little girl 10 or 12 years old in the family. She then comes to our mission classes and this little thing is taught practical cooking and is instructed how to cut and utilize what is left over from one meal for the next. There are many parents all over this city whose hearts are made lighter by a good dinner awaiting them at night prepared by one of these eager little cooks. Small boys are also found in classes, and many a miniature chef is born in this manner."

The lament of the woman who keeps boarders under stress of circumstances, or to lend a helping hand in making the over-troublesome ends meet, is that the average boarder is more exacting in these days than formerly. The claim that the scale of living is more expensive than the [illegible] dishes says Table Talk. The dinner is more elaborate and the luncheon at which as a rule only ladies assemble, is [illegible] the evening dinner used to be—an affair of three or four courses. How far are women who board responsible for this? In the average private house the luncheon is a simple but sufficient meal, comprising possibly a single hot dish and light accompaniments oftentimes prepared of the left-overs from the dinner of the previous evening. Content with this in their own homes, why not with thoughtful and kind consideration for the brave women striving to keep in comfort the loved ones for whom circumstances [illegible] the bread winner accept it on her table? How true the statement that "one discontented woman in a boarding house, however unjust and unreasonable her demands, can ruin its prospects and close its doors." There are many ways of doing as we would be done by, and an excellent one to judge what is required of us, is in imagination to put ourselves in the other woman's place. Food, raiment, education and incidentals [illegible] out of the profits of her hard work, but where are they, if to give satisfaction the daily menu must compare in expense and variety with that of a hotel at double the price? The right to pure food in variety, well cooked and neatly served is undeniably that of the boarder, but the mistress of the establishment is not without her side, which the conscientious, kind-hearted woman will not ignore.

Of course one can put any amount of money in table linen, says Harper's Bazaar, and dinner cloths are to be had with lace or drawn work insertions to be laid over color; with exquisite embroidered monograms; with elaborate woven patterns, or as plain and shiny as satin. One's taste and purse must govern the selection, but in a general way, for ordinary dinner parties, it is safer to buy the best quality of linen with little or no decoration. One tires [illegible] the prettiest patterns, and styles change so rapidly that a handsome and expensive cloth will look out of date in a short time if its figures are at all conspicuous, while plain double damask is always in good taste.

The same thing, in effect, might be said of centerpieces; they would better [illegible] Lately embroidered pieces have given place to lace, in either a solid square or circle, or a deep border on a linen foundation. These may or may not be laid over color according to individual [illegible] Just now, however, there seems to be a fancy for having the table in white, the flowers and possibly the candles alone being colored.

Patsy's First Ride.

PATSY had never had a ride on the electric cars—never in all her poverty-stricken little life.

But she was going to now. She had the money squeezed tightly up in her fist. It had been there nearly an hour, and car after car had glided past Patsy, while she stood there on the corner [illegible] The longest ride was out to the Flats—yes, she would choose that car. Hi! here was one a-comin'! Patsy gripped the nickel firmly, and held up the forefinger of her other hand, to make sure the motorman had plenty of time to see it.

Thump, thump, thump sounded Daffy Duff's crutches behind her. Patsy's head went up still higher, and her bare feet fairly danced with joy.

"Where yer goin', Patsy Pullen?"

"Oh, goin' to take a little ride fer my health—that's all, Daffy Duffy," Patsy said softly. The car was coming nearer.

"Huh! Great fer you be!"

"Great be I, so? You wait an' see," retorted Patsy, unconsciously rhyming.

Daff was little and crooked and ragged, [illegible] hump on his back was painfully prominent. He and Patsy lived in the same tenement, and quarreled out in front of it all day long.

The car had stopped to take on a passenger a block away. The passenger was wheezy and fat, and took a good deal of time to get on.

"Let's see yer fin! Ye're a-gammin'!" Daffy cried.

"Look a-there, then!" Patsy's fist unclosed wearily, and let a glint of nickel through.

"My land o' goodness!" Then the car stopped.

"[illegible] sudden beautiful impulse moved her. She pushed Daffy toward the waiting car.

"Hurry, can't ye?" she cried. "The man's gettin' mad. Hurry!"

The nickel she thrust into the boy's hand, and then, with [illegible] and a clatter of crutches, he was on the car.

"Sot still in yer seat till they fetch yer out 'n back fer a nickel," she shouted after him.

For a block or two she ran beside the car, keeping up with it bravely. Then she fell behind, gasping for breath. Her homely little face was full of satisfaction.

"Ye've had yer first ride, Patsy Pullen," she said aloud. "Wasn't it a daisy? My! wa'n't the very [illegible]!"

She laughed at herself gayly. A sudden thankfulness took her that her back was straight and strong. She felt of it carefully to make sure. Her bare legs moved with easy swing. She danced on the [illegible]

By now Daffy'd be nearly out to the Flats settin' up in the seat o' folks. He'd have give th' conductor the nickel before this, sure. Now he'd be comin' back, home'ard [illegible] Broadway.

Her thought ran on in little jerks, as she skipped along. She would go and meet Daffy and race him home. Patsy, in her whole dull, dismal life, had never been so happy. Ridin' on the 'lectrics was fine, just! "Ye've took yer first ride, me' dear," she chanted. "An' when you done it, yer walked!"—(Annie Hamilton Donnell, in the Christian Endeavor World.

RIEDEL, TORREY & CO.

THE LARGEST REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE FIRM IN THE CITY IS SITUATED AT NO. 27 EAST PIKE'S PEAK AVENUE.
Our reputation is based on many years' experience in the business in this city. We have never had a complaint from the customers who have bought property on our recommendation and advice. Our list of desirable realty, both improved and unimproved is very large and we would be glad to go over it with prospective purchasers at any time. Our list of out of town clients is large for the reason that our advice has always been found to be valuable and trustworthy. The following propositions, among the best on the list at the present time—
A [illegible] brick house, with bath and electric lights on a lot 50x150 feet. A good barn also on the property. The house alone rents for $35 per month. The price is only $3,600. This property [illegible] four blocks from the corner of Pike's Peak avenue and Tejon street.
A ten-room frame house adjoining above, strictly modern in every particular. The lot is 100x140 feet and excellently located. The price of this property is [illegible], but it will net [illegible] without the brick house. The brick, however, will be sold alone at the above price. Both of these are strictly modern and are worth investigating either for investment or for a home.
As mentioned in our display ad. in this edition, we believe that lots bought in Ivywild at the present time will net a good profit in less than a year, if they are purchased for investment. If purchased for a home, the buyer can rest assured that he will have a home in one of the prettiest localities in or about Colorado Springs. A new school building is to be erected in that locality in the spring and this fact alone will materially increase the value of the property. West side lots are also very desirable and are constantly increasing in price.

BERT WISE,
Rooms 14-15 up stairs, 113½ East Pike's Peak avenue.
REAL ESTATE AND INSURANCE.
The 19th century, because of the wonderful advancement made in Art, Science, Medicine, Surgery, Astronomy, Geology, Inventions, and all kinds of business, over that of the preceding century, was a "hummer." But it has gone, and the 20th, a new century, has dawned upon us. And with its dawning, we, a new Real Estate firm, begin business in Colorado Springs. And if the good business people of the city will share with us their patronage, we will add our mite toward making this new century much more of a "hummer" in a business way than was the one just passed. If the iron is not already heated, and ready to be fashioned to your liking, let us make it hot, shape it for you, by pounding.
We already have a very encouraging list of choice properties for both sale and rent. Houses 5 to 13 rooms, furnished and unfurnished. If there are others who wish to sell or rent, list your property with us and see if we don't make things hum. If you wish to buy or rent, come in and see us. We want your business and guarantee honest and fair treatment to all. We are here to stay. Yours for business.
